UN Day Single, TB Seal From Thailand

Among the world-wide issues of October 24 to mark United Nations Day was a single maroon stamp in upright format, value 50 satangs, released by Thailand, according to Hoon Seng, Box 850, Bangkok, Thailand.

The design depicts the UN seal in white centered over a map showing Thailand and surrounding area. It is suitably inscribed in both the native language and English.

Also affixed to the first day cover which brought the above information was a single of the Thailand 1962 Anti-TB seal. This is principally red, with printing at top and right in black.

The English language panel at the bottom is in blue, with lettering in white. The double-barred cross is faintly outlined by yellow lines against the red background.

Pakistan Names Five Items On 1962 List

A late airmail report from Dwarkadas Jivandas, 43 Cotton Exchange, P.B. No. 4678, Karachi 2, Pakistan advises that two sets of stamps are expected there later this year, with five others in 1962.

The police centenary wil be noted in November and that of the nation's railroads in December. Each will bring sets of 13 and 90 paisa values.

Malaria eradication, sports, small industries, and the new constitution will bring commemoratives in April, August, October, and probably also October, respectively.

New definitives are expected during the year—25, 40, 50, and 90p. denominations in the Shalimar Gardens design, and one Rupee in the Sona Masjid motif.

IF THE PAST FORETELLS THE FUTURE, there will be another huge gathering of the philatelically-minded public when the 13th annual ASDA Postage Stamp Show opens in New York November 17 for a three-day session. The above photo shows part of the opening day crowd at a previous staging of the big stamp event, with a four-abreast line of visitors strung out from the main entrance at 34th St. (left) and Park Ave. (to the right). On this occasion the line extended along Park Ave. all the way to 33rd St., and then well around that corner. Boutrelle-Sevecke Photo

Swiss Pro Juventutes For '61 In Usual Four-Plus-One Style; First President Shown On One

The Swiss Pro Juventute design program of the past several years is being followed on the new set scheduled for December 1 release, according to the General Directorate of PTT Philatelic Agency in Berne.

Four stamps—a single of three colors and three four-color productions — in a single theme, and a fifth of but one color featuring a famous man will make up the quintet. This time around native flowers will continue the series begun in 1958, while the Federation's first president will grace the single value.

The newcomers will carry on each adhesive a surtax for the benefit of national charity work. Of the net proceeds from this, 90 per cent go to the Pro Juventute Foundation for its various youth relief work; the remainder is intended for building the Swiss families' and children's holiday village of Pro Juventute.

Jonas Furrer (1805-1865), shown on the lowest value 5c plus 5c in dark blue, was the first president of the Swiss Confederation. Hailing from Winterthur, he devoted all his energy to the building and developing of the then new republic.

The four Flower members of the quintet are listed as 10c plus 10c, Sunflower (Helianthus annuus), green, yellow and orange; and 20c plus 10c, Lily of the Valley (Convallaria majalis), red, green, yellow, and bluish gray.

Also, 30c plus 10c, Iris (Iris sibirica), dark purple, violet, green, and yellow, and 50c plus 10c, Silverweed (Potentilla anserina), ultramarine, green, yellow, and light brown.

The 5c plus 5c was designed and engraved by Karl Bickel, Sr., of Walenstadtberg, after a lithograph by Joh. Friedrich Hasler of Basel. Printing of this value was done by the Postage Stamp Printing Office PTT, Berne.

The other four were designed by Jans Schwarzenbach of Berne, with rotogravure printing by Courvoisier SA, La Chaux-de-Fonds. All production was with 50 subjects per sheet. The stamps will be valid on both in-

New York Stamp Extravaganza To Feature First Day Sale Of General Pershing 8c Definitive

Top billing at the huge new 13th edition of the American Stamp Dealers' Assn. (ASDA) stamp show and bourse in New York City Novem ber 17-19 will go to the first day release of the new 8c definitive stamp featuring a portrait of General of the Armies John J. Pershing, hero of World War I.

Long a project of many philatelic and other groups, the new design will be released on the opening day of the ASDA show, November 17. The official ceremony will be staged at the site of the big event.

Close on the Pershing heels for attention will be the first public showing of some recently discovered initial impressions of numerous 19th century U.S. stamps.

Long buried and forgotten in Post Office Department vaults in Washington, they were recently located and mounted for display. The New York occasion will be their first bow to the philatelic public.

Other outstanding exhibits will be those of the Crown Agents (British Colonies) and of the twelve French Community independent nations of Africa.

This biggest annual event held each year in the United States as far as stamp collectors are concerned will be staged in the same building as all of the past, the 71st Infantry Regiment Armory, Park Ave. and 34th St. in New York City.

The current one will be the 13th; it will open at 10 a.m. Friday November 17 and continues until Sunday November 19 at 8 p.m. On both Friday and Saturday the hours are ten to ten, while on Sunday visiting can be done from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Peter G. Keller, ASDA executive secretary, and general manager of the show, believes that if the weather man is at all kindly a new attendance record is possible.

Vying for the attention of the expected record-breaking host of stamp and cover fans will be a better than 100-dealer bourse, and many attractions in addition to those already mentioned.

Show attendees can have their General Pershing first day covers serviced in the Armory where the Post Office Department will establish a temporary exhibition station. The new adhesive as well as a number of past commemoratives will be available at face. This post office will also have its own special postmark for use on the first day of issue and for the remaining two.

On the floor of the Armory itself will be the booths of the nation's top stamp dealers, and the lounges of national and international philatelic societies. Many of the merchants will have specials for the duration of the show, while all will have material to satisfy almost any category of collecting.

Offerings will not be confined alone to stamps and covers. A number of the dealers in philatelic literature, and the accessory and album purveyors will be on hand with their full lines.

Linn's Weekly Stamp News will have a booth at the same location as last year, No. 84, near the post office. Readers are invited to make themselves known to Editors George W. Linn and Carl P. Rueth, who will be there as representatives, along with Advertising Manager Lewis F. Turley.

The ASDA Postage Stamp Show is the climax to National Stamp Collecting Week which begins on November 13 and continues through the 18th.

There are no restrictions to attendance. Anyone with an interest in philatelics will find many pleasurable hours awaiting him or her at this event. Parents are especially urged to bring their youngsters.

As usual the stamp, accessory and album dealers will have something for everyone. Linn's Weekly Stamp News as in other years will have a special souvenir for those who are able to come up with a new subscription during the show, or who send it in to the Sidney office through the mail.

Any new subscription sent in with a postmark of November 13, 1961 or later will be eligible for one of the souvenir folders if a request is made at the time the order and payment are remitted. The souvenir folder will be of the same high quality and appropriateness as those for previous similar events.

There will be spaces for the new Pershing stamp and a first day cover. Distributed throughout will be interesting information about this nation's only "General of the Armies".

The folders will be given only as long as the limited supply lasts.

On page 53 of this paper will be found a map of the Armory floor with the number locations of the dealers' booths and an article which names the booth occupants.

Free Folder For New 8c Pershing

Again this year Linn's Weekly Stamp News will have a folder for the philatelic item to have its first day of issue at the ASDA National Postage Stamp Show in New York. November 17-19. This will be the General John J. Pershing 8c definitive stamp to make its debut on Friday, November 17.

Each folder is of four sides. The frontispiece is a truly attractive layout reminding one of a formal announcement of an outstanding event. It features a large portrait of General Pershing. Inside on page two is a resume of the General's career, while page three has a space for a single of the new definitive and a firt day cover, in boxed areas, and suitable captions. Stamp and cover are not included.

The back page has a reproduction of the stamp itself inblack and white along with information about its design.

A copy of the General Pershing folder will be given for each new subscription sent to this office postmarked November 13 or later, and continuing until the limited supply is exhausted. The folder will be given to those at the ASDA Show who submit new subscriptions. No commissions will be allowed for such subscriptions, but in cae they are to be used as a Christmas present, Linn' will send an attractive Christmas Card to the recipient which tells who made the gift.

In sending new subscriptions fo this offer, a specific request MUST be made for the folder at the tim as well as for the Christmas Card if they are wanted. Similar souvenirs of previous years are nota vailable.

Send names and payments to Linn's Weekly Stamp News, P.O. Box 29, Sidney, Ohio. Subscription rates at $2 for United S tates delivery; $2.50 for Canada; $3.50 for foreign countries.

Mid-November Show And Mart In Toronto

Following the success of its philatelic mart held in June in Toronto, the International Institute Stamp Club has decided to make this a regular event.

The next such event will be held November 18, from 1 to 10 p.m. at the International Institute, 709 College St., Toronto, Canada. Admission is free.

Among the exhibits will be several frames of "Paintings on Stamps", shown by Olaf S. Wendorf; N. Carter will exhibit a reconstructed sheet of Great Britain penny reds.

Other displays will be a specialized Latvian collection by R. Noritis, and the Europa stamp display of F. Bauernschmitt.

Further information regarding to exhibition and mart is available from Mrs. B. Jebramek, International Institute Stamp Club, 709 College St., Toronto, Canada.

WORLD RECORD EDITION

This 92-page November 13 edition of Linn's Weekly Stamp News is the largest single copy of a newspaper or magazine devoted to the regular dissemination of philatelic news that has ever been produced in the history of the hobby. This covers a period of 121 years, since the Penny Black of Great Britain appeared as the No. 1 adhesive stamp of the world. You will find a tremendous quantity of excellent articles, columns and stories besides the numerous "before the competition" news items. There are more than 5550 column inches of advertising by the leading stamp dealers of the world. You will discover six pages of Classified ads. May we recommend your shopping through these fine offers to build your own collection, or to choose gifts for the stamp collecting members of your family, or friends? We're proud of this World Record Edition — we're most grateful to our knowledgeable editors, columnists and correspondents in this country, and around the globe — and to the dealers for their grand support — in making the paper in your hands possible. When a new record is set, look to Linn's as the paper to do it.

New Free Frank For Ike At Farm

George Patterson

A unique free frank cancel has been devised for General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Now in use at Gettysburg, Pa. it is a meter device, adding a fourth method of exercising the free frank privilege.

The new Eisenhower frank, which has been so far in red only, consists of three parts. At the left is a circular cancel, with "Gettysburg" and "Pa." lining the inside top and bottom of the circle, and the date printed across the center.

Next, and running diagonally from lower left to upper right, is a facsimile signature: Dwight D. Eisenhower. At the right edge is a vertical line of five stars, signifying Ike's status as a five-star general. The width of the imprint is 3 5/16 inches.

It would appear that the General's Gettysburg office has been equipped with its own canceling machine. Whether there are more than one die, more than one color, and provision for a metering tape is not known at this moment. Information at hand would indicate that this is the first use of a metered frank.

Previously, anyone privileged to use the frank did so by personally signing a letter, by applying a facsimile signature rubber stamp, or by having the envelopes imprinted with a facsimile signature.

During World War II, of course, military mail was carried without postage under special legislation In this case the serviceman wrote "Free" where the stamp normally should be, and signed his name, rank, serial number, and address in the upper left-hand corner.

After leaving the presidency January 21, 1961, Gen. Eisenhower gained the franking right under revised legislation adopted late in his second term. It covered all surviving presidents whereas the law previously had granted the right of frank only to widows of ex-presidents.

A rubber stamp signature was used, and many examples of these franks are extant bearing Washington or Gettysburg postal cancels as well.

The earliest rubber-stamp franks were in blue ink. Col. Robert L. Schulz, military aide to the General, said it was decided to switch to black ink because it was felt that the blue ink would not hold up well.

War-time Eisenhower franks are rather scarce. Ike relayed most of his mail back to the states via the diplomatic pouch, hence it was not handled postaly.

One example is known of Gen. Eisenhower's signing his name through the censor's stamp, with the letter then going through Army postal channels.

Authors Switched On PMCC Activities Story

Readers, and especially those interested in the extensive subject of postmarks, are referred to the October 16 article about the Postmark Collectors' Club, and requested to credit it to Dr. H. K. Thompson as author.

By error, it was ascribed in processing to another active member of that group. Full details of PMCC interests and activities will be supplied to interested stampers on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope sent to R. K. Francis, 11 Jeralds Ave., Halesville, Conn.

GHANA'S ROYAL VISIT ISSUE

A significant and historic event took place November 10th in Ghana the arrival of Her Majesty QUEEN ELIZABETH.

The denominations are 3d, 1/3d (Air Mail) and 5/-

DAHOMEY

Commemorates its Admission into the U.N.

Three stamps and a Perforate SOUVENIR SHEET were issued September 20th. Design shows the U.N. Building in New York, the U.N. Emblem and three Doves.

Also, a locally overprinted 100F stamp was issued for the First Anniversary of Independence.

SOMALIA BUTTERFLIES

On July 1st, 1960 Italian Somaliland became Independent SOMALIA. One year later, on July 5th, 1961 the first 8 postals were released — a most beautiful fruit and crop set, showing a lovely Somalian girl and various agricultural products of the land. On Sept. 9th, 1961 Somalia completes its definitive set with the issuance of 7 airmails . . . a set of colorful BUTTERFLIES and a modern Jet Plane.

HISTORIC ANNIVERSARY

NIGERIA MARKS ITS INDEPENDENCE

3d Coat-of-Arms signifying the 3 Regions

A year ago, Nigeria joined the British Commonwealth as an independent nation. In honor of this important milestone in Nigeria's and Africa's history, four colorful commemorative stamps were issued. Significantly, the issue includes the first stamp ever printed in seven colors through photogravure.

MALDIVE ISLANDS

Postal Anniversary 'Stamp-on-Stamps'

Unusual Commemoratives (10 values) were issued featuring the 1906 Edward VII Maldive Overprints. Designer: Shamir, Israel. An imperforate SOUVENIR SHEET will appear in October.

DAHOMEY

honored its FIRST ANNIV. of ADMISSION to the UNITED NATIONS with a highly topical three-value set (5F, 60F and 200F, Air Mail) and a perforated souvenir sheet holding the three denominations. These stamps show the U.N. Building, Peace Doves, and the U.N. Emblem.

TOGO

BOY SCOUT ISSUE

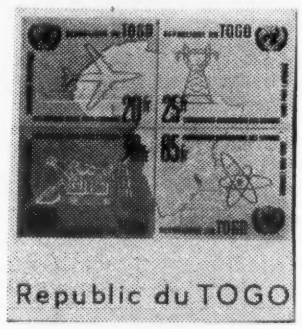

Honoring the Founding of its Boy Scout Movement, as well as the 20th memorial anniv. of Lord Baden Powell (U.K.) and Daniel Beard (USA), with a set of six strikingly colorful large stamps (25 x 40mm) as well as imperforate

SOUVENIR SHEETS holding all 6 values

U.N. ECONOMIC COMMISSION ON AFRICA

On October 24, TOGO joined the United Nations in honoring the U.N. Economic Commission on Africa with a four-value set (20, 25, 30 and 85F) and a souvenir sheet

The souvenir sheet holds one of each of the four values in an arrangement by which the stamps form a complete map of Africa, as illustrated.

A Boom Year Is At Hand

In winding up the year 1961 we are doing so with a big boom and that big boom is going to carry over into 1962 and will be one of the biggest years that we have had for some time. Even as early as October 23, we came out with a 40-page paper, something unusual for this early in the season.

GEORGE W. LINN

Right then however we were working toward this number, our annual ASDA NATIONAL POSTAGE STAMP SHOW NUMBER which this year is bigger than ever. You will know it when you see this 92-page record-breaking edition which tops anything else in the country. Each year it increases in size and circulation.

Again this year our Booth 84 occupied by Linn's Weekly Stamp News, will have Mrs. Linn and myself there to greet you and thank you for your support over the past year. Mrs. Linn loves this trip as much as I do.

Mr. and Mrs. Rueth will also be on hand as will our advertising manager, Mr. Turley, and Mrs. Turley. We will be glad to meet with you.

All of us from Linn's cannot be in the booth at every hour during this show, but there will be someone there to greet you and say hello at all hours.

To You Mr. Collector

We shipped 5000 copies of this edition of Linn's to New York to distribute at the ASDA show. We hope that you, in receiving this copy, will look the paper over and see what so many others have discovered. Each issue, of course, is not as big as this one, but we do usually run from 28 to 40 pages most of the year. We carry the advertised offers of the leading American dealers. Our paper is a virtual bargain counter and you are missing a lot if you do not receive it each week. The price is low and you will enjoy it. Let us have that subscription now, then next year you can renew at our booth as so many do each year.

My Stamp Album

Mary J. Silvan

All through my album, I can trace
Man's triumphs, failures--new and old.
The History of the Human race
Imprinted on my stamps, is told.
The mighty Rulers of the past,
From out the pages, stare at me,
Despite their silence, seem at last
To prove Man's immortality.

Dictators, bloated, mad with power,
Till comes the inevitable hour--
Their glory fades--a newer age
Takes over, and the game goes on.
Each country, its laws revamps,
And here they show it--one by one.
Recorded on my precious stamps.

The joys and sorrows of mankind
Are there depicted--clear as day.
Chiefs rise and fall and stand defined
As mortal men with feet of clay.
Thus in my flight of Fantasy,
I link the Present with the Past,
And in the Overprints--I see
The blots of shame--on History, cast.

The flight of Time is oft forgot,
When, as I reach the close of day,
The threads of Romance, I have caught
On stamps--to charm the hours away.

(Editor's note: The above poem was submitted by Max Rosskamm of New York City, with the information that Miss Silvan had passed away recently as the result of a heart condition. Stamps had meant much to her all along, he reported, and especially as the condition became more severe. "She loved them until the last," he added.)

Swiss, Liechtenstein Catalog By Mueller

Even the more critical members of the Swiss-Liechtenstein specialist fraternity will find themselves well pleased with the new 1962 edition of the Mueller catalog covering these two countries.

Produced by people who know their stamps and their job, this new volume shows the results of careful revising and editing. It is both a valuable checklist and guide and a compilation of realistic prices as of press time.

This 31st edition with 264 pages and 1118 pictures covers 3574 cataloged stamps and shows 10,858 price indications covering various conditions and circumstances. It is printed in German, with sufficient white areas on the pages to allow easier, more comfortable reading.

In addition, the general set-up is such that much of its valuable information can be readily understood by the non-German collector. The foreword and other matters are included in English.

The new edition is priced at $1 postpaid from the publishers, Mueller Stamps, Aeschenvorstadt 21, Basel, Switzerland.

"Bargain" Purchase Brings Fine Of $600

According to a recent item in the Providence, R. I. "Journal", Gennaro Marrone, 48, of 264 River Ave., Providence, was fined $600 in Superior Court for purchasing 32 stolen stamp albums for $10,000, a fraction of their value.

Judge Eugene L. Jalbert, who imposed the sentence said that Marrone knew what he was doing when he bought the stamps. The judge commented that Marrone, who operates the R. I. Coin Co., 238 Cranston St., had been found guilty before of receiving stolen goods.

Assistant Attorney General William J. Counihan Jr. said the 32 albums were part of a collection of 38 valued at almost $150,000. They were taken from the home of Milton Rottman in Bridgeport. Conn. last December 27.

Kuala Lumpur Set To Mark Colombo Plan

The Crown Agents Representative, Washington D. C. has announced that a special issue of 12, 25 and 30c values has been printed by the Government Printing Bureau in Japan to commemorate the 13th meeting of the Consultative Committee for Technical Co-operation in South and South East Asia which is being held in Kuala Lumpur, between October 30 and November 18, 1961.

The stamps were printed by the photogravure process in vertical format, size 22.5x36mm. perforation to perforation on unwatermarked paper. The design which is common to all values depicts the Colombo Plan emblem.

The colors are 12c pink and black; 25c light green and black; and 30c light blue and black. The trio was released October 30.

Additional Brazilian Watermark Varieties

Watermark varieties on Brazilian stamps, in addition to those described in Linn's of October 9, have been reported by Manoel F. da Motta, Largo do Machado 11, Apt. 301, Catete, Guanabara, Brazil.

At that time he reported the 5 Cruzeiro and 10Cr. items of the Rui Barbosa set with watermark No. 268 on the former, and none at all on the latter, instead of the design properly used on these adhesives.

Since then the 5Cr. has shown up without wmk and the 10Cr. with wmk No. 268. Also, newly found are copies of the 1 and 2Cr. Duke de Caxias stamps with wmk No. 268. Neither of these last two has been reported on paper totally lacking wmk, Mr. da Motta added.

U.S. NOTES

Carl P. Rueth

In just a matter of hours a jet will be boarded at the Dayton airport and yours truly will be on his way to the largest and most action-packed philatelic event of the year. This is the National Postage Stamp Exhibition and Bourse, the 13th, sponsored by the American Stamp Dealers' Assn. November 17-19 in the 71st Infantry Regiment Armory at Park Ave. and 34th St.

Carl P. Rueth

As in past years, Linn's will have a booth, No. 84, in the same location where we have always been. I'm hoping that you will drop around to say "Hello", and perhaps bring a potential subscriber to whom we can give a copy of this "largest in the history of the hobby" 92-page special edition.

Again we will have a souvenir folder which will be given with each NEW subscription. It will be the eighth in a group which began in 1954 when the 4c Lincoln of the Liberty Series for regular postage was released at the ASDA Show. Just to save inquiries, we do not have any of the past years. When the limited s u p p l y is exhausted they're gone for good.

These desirable philatelic pieces will also be available to those who send NEW subscriptions to our office in Sidney postmarked ON or AFTER November 13, 1961. The folders do not include a copy of the Pershing stamp or a first day cover even though there is a space for each. As you know the 8c Pershing of the Liberty Series will have its release at the ASDA affair on November 17, the opening day.

There will be no folders for sale at this time; if the limited quantity is not totally distributed for new subscriptions then remaining copies will be announced on a first come first served basis. In any event, this offer expires the moment the last of the Pershing Philatelic Folders is gone.

1. Do you recall what philatelic item was released by the Post Office Department at last year's ASDA Show?

2. What three objects appear prominently in the design of the St. Lawrence Seaway commem of 1959?

Each year I make this appeal.

Please do not send requests and payments to me for copies of the new Pershing stamp or to service first day covers. It just is not possible because when the show is open we are terrifically busy at our booth. we're there to greet people and to do business—to make new friends and enjoy our old ones.

For first day covers follow the directions given in our edition of October 30, 1961, page one. If you want the stamps, get them from your local post office, or the Philatelic Agency in Washington.

Neither the other members of our staff in attendance nor I will be responsible for anything sent to us in New York or here at the office to be taken along for handling. Sorry. Please try to understand.

Again Linn's special edition for the ASDA Show is an all time world record breaker for columns of important and informative reading, inches of Display advertising, and lines of Classified advertising. You'll find these 92 pages (we set the record last year with our 80-page 1960 edition) the most comprehensive and valuable super-market of philatelic merchandise ever gathered in one place.

It is safe to say that the topnotch dealers advertising in this paper have gone all out in gathering and offering highly desirable items of all kinds at attractive prices. Shop to your heart's content—buy in for immediate pleasure, or with Christmas and someone's happiness in mind. (That happiness could include you—just hint around to the most susceptible people!)

The week end of October 27-29 was spent in Cincinnati for the annual convention of the American First Day Cover Society and the exhibition sponsored by the host club, the Philatelic Society of Cincinnati. There was some real nice material displayed in the show (I helped judge it), and some fine fellowship all over the premises (the Sinton Hotel).

The AFDCS is an improving group offering more and more services and advantages to those who pursue U.S. and Foreign first day and related covers. I was with the convention at Detroit in 1959 and so have an opportunity to compare.

Various facets of this specialty were presented in the exhibition, including topical FDC's. You might recall that the AFDCS sponsored our edition of July 25, 1960 giving a broad picture of the organization's activities.

I won't attempt to mention all the winners in the exhibition—just the top prizes. Approximately half the frames were filled by AFDCS members, the balance by the locals and friends. There were grand and other awards in each division. Richard A. Thompson of Lutherville, Md. copped the Grand offered by the cover society; Richard L. Trout of Cincinnati the Grand given by the host group.

Section trophies of the AFDCS went to A. Burns Speer, Louisville, Ky. (United States); George A. Comnes, Concord, Calif. (Foreign); Norman O. Wyant, Jr., Dayton, Ohio (Topical); James D. Hogbin, Washington, D. C. (Junior).

Section trophies of the PSC were won by James U. Smith (United States); Edward W. Ebel, Cincinnati, Ohio (Foreign); Ed C. Skottowe, Cincinnati (Topical).

A new president was chosen to lead the AFDCS. He is Stanley H. Fryczynski of Bayonne, N. J. who will serve out the unexpired term of his predecessor. This top spot seems to be in quite capable hands now. With his fellow live-wire officers Mr. Fryczynski should be able to continue the growth and service of the organization.

Featured speaker at the Saturday evening banquet was Eugene W. Youngs, Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, located in Cincinnati since 1945. Of note was the fact Mr. Youngs has been an active stamp collector since 1923—like the rest of us he tries to keep up to date with material in his areas of interest but doesn't always get it into his albums soon as he'd like.

He's been a long-time subscriber to Linn's—assured me he hopes to continue to be one for long into the future.

Among the various anecdotes he told—practically all of them tied in with FBI investigations of a philatelic nature—was one with a World War II setting. Spies had developed a code to transmit messages which used one of the stamps of Austria having Emperor Franz Joseph in the design. The wording around the picture was keyed to represent letters of the alphabet. Mr. Youngs mentioned that one wasn't very hard to break. In fact he advised that with the skilled cryptographers most nations have in their employe, developing a code that will hold up for a long period is next to impossible.

Herman "Pat" Herst of Shrub Oak, N. Y. writes: "To add to your story on inverted plate numbers (October 23 U.S. Notes), there is also a curiosity on the 1c Pilgrim, Scott No. 548. While the plate numbers themselves in the top position are all normal, on two of them, 12421 and 12428 the accompanying 'F' is imprinted on the plate fully upside down."

Mr. Herst made this further observation, "While on plate numbers, a prominent writer once told me that if the Bureau of Engraving and Printing put numbers in three corners, and no number in the fourth, collectors would claw each other to death trying to buy unplate number blocks!"

Just in case you haven't gone to your eternal reward before 1963 you can expect to have a stamp to mark the 100th Anniversary of Statehood of West Virginia in that year. The POD has assured seekers of philatelic recognition that a commem is already on the books.

I hope they don't choose to picture the state's roads most of which are through mountainous terrain. Power steering is worth its weight in gold on these stretches of pavement few of which have places without curves, vertical and horizontal, or sharp turns, as long as 100 yards. A body'd get seasick seeing such on a stamp.

Remember the Sun Yat-sen stamp souvenir piece pictured here in the October 23 edition? Joseph B. Kanturek of Flushing, N. Y., whose company had a hand in creating it, offers some translations as to the legends, etc. appearing on it.

Says Mr. Kanturek, "Under the stamp at the left is Sun Yat-sen's personal seal (chop) and at the right is his signature. Below them is the first line of the Chinese national anthem, which in an English translation reads, 'The People's Three Principles'. This was the basis for his revolutionary philosophy. The lyrics of the anthem were taken out of a political speech Sun Yat-sen made at the Whampoa Military Academy in 1924."

To save you money, we are offering sets instead of the usual singles. We ask you to compare prices with anyone, anywhere, either, retail or wholesale, and don't let the low prices fool you as you will also find the quality far above average. Our usual guarantee, if not complete satisfied, return within 3 days for full refund. Minimum order $5.00. California residents kindly add 4% sales tax.

HONORING A. LINCOLN — STAMPS, SHEETS and FIRST DAY COVERS — NEW ISSUE SERVICE

Washington 8, D.C.

Recent auction realizations by leading firms indicate a continuing strong market. For example, the Charles A. Shierson collection of Canada and Newfoundland brought some exceptional prices for outstanding material.

A used pair of Canada No. 1 brought $170 and a beautiful mint copy of No. 8 fetched $130. A mint block of four of No. 61 realized $130, while a similar block of No. 63 reached $500. Newfoundland airmails attracted considerable attention with a "Hawker" on cover making $1750 and a "de Pinedo" on cover reaching $675.

Federation of Malaya—Again, the Columbo Plan has been honored by the introduction of a three-value set on October 30. The stamps, which will be on sale for three months, were printed by the Government Printing Bureau in Japan.

Of vertical format, size 25.5 x 36mm perf to perf, the issue was printed in two-color photogravure on unwatermarked paper in sheets of 100 (10 x 10). The common design features the Columbo Plan emblem. Colors are: 12c pink and black; 25c light green and black; 30c light blue and black.

The occasion was the 13th Meeting of the Consultive Committee for Technical Cooperation in South and Southeast Asia, held in Kuala Lumpur, October 30 to November 18. (Crown Agents).

Pakistan — A 3 paisa maroon stamp depicting Khyber Pass will be added to the new decimal set in the near future. It will also be issued with "Service" overprint for use on official mail.

Printing figures for the triangular stamps for Child Welfare Week released October 2 are: 13p.—1,200,000; 9p—400,000. The Pakistan Security Printing Corp. engraved the set. (Stamp News).

Nigeria — The Federation's new set of five to mark the anniversary of Independence October 1, features one stamp printed in seven colors. This item—the 3d—depicts the Federal Government's armorial bearings in full colors.

The series, with denominations of 3d, 4d, 6d, 1/3 and 2/6 was prepared by Harrison in sheets of 60, on "FN" watermarked paper. The 3d is in vertical and the others horizontal format, size 1.75 x 1.1 inches. (Nigerian Philatelic Agency).

New Zealand—For those interested in the Scouting theme, postal facilities will be provided at the New Zealand Scout Jamboree at Wairoa, January 4-15, 1962. At the official opening a distinctive date stamp will be used to cancel mail at the special post office.

Those wishing to obtain impressions should forward their stamped, addressed envelopes to the Chief Postmaster, Dunedin. New Zealand stamps must be used on your return envelopes. The 2/- value will get one back to you via airmail.

The 2½d denomination was necessary for this year's Christmas stamp to conform with the increased rate of postage for inland commercial papers, printed papers and postcards. Plate number 1A has been used on the sheets of 60 (5 x 12). It will be on sale until January 13, 1962. (New Zealand Post Office Philatelic Bulletin).

Zanzibar—The new definitives previously announced were released for sale October 17, and the former set withdrawn the previous day. Other than a change of portrait and the addition of the 20/- value, the designs are the same as previously.

Four different perforating machines were used on the various values, as follows: 15c, 30c and 1.25/-, perf 11x11½ comb; 5c and 10c, perf 11½ comb; 20c, 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c, 1/-, and 2/-, perf 14 x 13½ comb; and high values 5/-, 7.50/-, 10/- and 20/-, perf 13½ comb.

Briefs—The first De La Rue printing of previous Waterlow work of the British Honduras 1c and 5c values appeared October 3.

Grenada withdrew its Postal Centenary set September 30 and British Solomon Islands did likewise with the Constitution series October 18.

The Independence issue of Tanganyika is being prepared by Harrison and has reached the plate making stage.

Two Malayan States, Kelantan and Selangor released new 10c definitives with portrait changes on October 17 and 30 respectively.

Changes of similar nature on the remaining stamps in the sets can be expected shortly. The October 10 printing of Grenada's $2.50 value has Plate No. 1 for both vignette and border.

Israel Philatelic Agency Drops Numismatic Line

The Israel Philatelic Agency in America, New York City, has announced that it has discontinued its numismatic division which formerly handled the coins and medals of Israel.

A spokesman for the Agency emphasized that this action will have no bearing on its philatelic activities, other than to allow full attention to be devoted to this area.

The End of a Territory

The philatelic life of Tristan da Cunha was short, but undoubtedly sweet. Starting with overprinted St. Helena stamps in 1952, this erstwhile colony of 280 people enjoyed two completely new and different definitive series in the course of nine years, together with a change of currency as recently as last April.

When the final volcanic eruption forced the total evacuation of the islanders, the post office closed down and I have no doubt that the stamp stocks and handstamps were salvaged and will be returned to the custody of the Colonial Office.

Far and away the most interesting set was the 1954 issue, showing on the 4d value the volcano which has proved the island's undoing. On the 9d is a view of Nightingale Island which offered temporary shelter to the islanders prior to their being removed by liner to Cape Town, and then to England.

Conditions on this isolated rock were always hard and primitive, and I have no doubt that for the majority of the islanders—a mixed race descended from British sailors and soldiers and some women of African origin who joined them from St. Helena—the change will be an improvement.

They have been offered hospitality of one of the Scottish islands, and no doubt they will have plenty of opportunities of bettering themselves if they feel that way inclined.

It is pleasing that the evacuation went without loss of life, and that most of the islanders' possessions (insofar as they were movable) were subsequently recovered by British warships.

Nevertheless the disappearance of familiar territory (however small and insignificant) is to be deplored, and must be painful for the evacuees. I am sure we all wish them a safe landing and a speedy reestablishment of their uprooted lives.

New Catalogs

Each September, the new Part I of Stanley Gibbons' Catalogue arrives on my desk, and each year I try to make an assessment of the more important alterations and amendments. However, this year the task is harder than ever, since most of the changes are those of price—and few things make duller reading if you don't happen to have the stamps). The editorial revisions as such have been confined very largely to the necessary political and other alterations in the status of various countries.

It is to be welcomed for instance, that South Africa has been maintained as a "Part I" country, because not only are its stamps extremely popular, but also there appears to be a sentimental attachment to the very large English population (especially in Natal) which would make it inexpedient to remove the new Republic from the Commonwealth volume.

To attempt to divide the country (an experiment which failed disastrously in the case of Eire some years ago, when that unhappy country was split between Parts I and II of the Catalogue) would have been a mistake.

In any event, British dealers and collectors have an investment in South African material, and as the case of Egypt showed, a transfer out of Part I has serious economic effects on the value of the holdings.

New countries are the Trucial States and Southern Cameroons, and it will be interesting to see whether the Sterling currency overprints on the French Colonial stamps of the latter will be listed in Part I or II.

Ghana has been divided from the Gold Coast although of course the numbering of the stamps remains consecutive to that of the former Colony. Not unjustly do the publishers state that "The present stamps of Ghana have so little in common with the Gold Coast that we believe the separation will be welcomed."

After a few words on the Philatelic Agencies, the editors mention that they hope Nigeria will resist the temptation to follow the issue pattern of Ghana and Maldives, forgetting however that in the case of Nigeria the governmental structure is that of a Federation, where the political conditions do not permit of the kind of philatelic absolutism possible in the other two States.

Echo From the Past

Ever since I first heard the notorious saying "Ein Volk, Ein Reich, Ein Fuhrer" which was pioneered by the late and unlamented Adolf Hitler, I have had a profound distrust of tripartite slogans. I was therefore the more astonished to find that worn-out party hack in only slightly amended form on a new British Guiana stamp.

Moreover, it is beneath a sextet of hands clasping wrists—the kind of thing which Singapore recently put on postal paper and which seems nowadays to be the fashionable pictorial cliche for multiracial cooperation. To be fair to the old Nazi slogan, British Guiana has traded the "Fuehrer" for the word "Destiny", (but has kept the People and Nation as laid down by Dr. Goebbels).

I must say that I never thought to meet it beneath the picture of our Queen, and in such circumstances; whatever plans the leaders of soon-to-be-independent British Guiana may be maturing, it should not be a State on Nazi lines.

Perhaps, however, they should have searched their records more thoroughly before deciding what to put on the stamp for their fourth History and Culture Week; the slogan, apparently dates from 1958—the Silver Jubilee of its original introduction at the Munich Party Day.

Dual Currencies

On October 1 the former UK Trusteeship Territory of Southern Cameroons merged with the erstwhile French-governed lands into the Federal Republic of Cameroon.

It thus regains the territory originally governed by Imperial Germany until 1914, when it shared the fate of most other segments of the German Empire in Africa, and was split between the conquering powers.

Nonetheless, the now Western Cameroons are still part of the Sterling area, and continue to employ Nigerian currency. It therefore became necessary to overprint the French Cameroon stamps with Sterling denominations, and it is here that the curious lack of system in French Colonial stamp issues became apparent.

The basic stamps which were chosen are a miscellany of stamps issued as definitive and commemorative, including such items as the FIDES French Colonial Reconstruction issue and the stamp for World Refugee Year.

Admittedly the postal traffic of Cameroon was hardly enormous, yet it is surprising to see some of these stamps still on sale after a lapse of several years.

So far it is not clear whether these overprints will be the fore-runners of dual-currency emissions on the New Hebridean principle, or whether the former UK territory will be gradually incorporated into the CFA Franc Zone.

There are probably objections on both sides, which need not concern us here; sufficient to say that in one respect the Cameroons will never equal the New Hebrides. At any rate, both currencies are real, and no resort has to be made to non-existent gold Francs in order to achieve unity of currency.

In the Long Antarctic Winters

If you have ever wondered what Arctic explorers do with themselves when the sun has descended below the horizon, and the snowdrifts are piled up 30 ft. high outside the centrally-heated snuggery, here is the short answer:

They postmark philatelic covers for stamp collectors! The operation is sweetened I hope, by the knowledge that the money goes towards paying for their keep and salaries. Even so, there may be difficulties, and the Australian Philatelic Bulletin notes the conditions applicable for the handling of first day covers.

It particularly specifies, "Conditions in the Antarctic Post Office may be such at times as to affect the standard of postmarking." In fact, it cannot be very easy for the men in their lonely outposts (and for the authorities in a comfortable office in Melbourne), to ensure that the path of true love ever does run smooth.

The Antarctic bases are manned by scientists who go out there for serious purposes, and normally I would say that they tend to resent the encroachment on their limited free time of the irksome task of stamping thousands of envelopes.

Incidentally the British practice in this respect has been to destroy philatelic mail addressed unnecessarily to explorers at the Antarctic bases, whilst the Russian not only postmark but also autograph small supplies of decorative envelopes, which are later sold at high prices by the State Trading Companies.

Some QUESTIONS and ANSWERS about STAMPLACER —The PRECISION Stamp-Mounting Guide

Why should I have a blank-page album?
Because no commercial album publisher can possibly know in advance exactly what stamps make up your collection. So your pages either abound with "holes" for stamps and whole sets you don't have and maybe never will, or spaces haven't been provided for high values, varieties, blocks, covers and other items you'd like to display. But with blank sheets, you can make up page after page to carry every item you own, and each page will be completely balanced and attractive.

What make an ideal blank album?
Any ordinary 8½"X11" three-ring binder of your choice and a pack of medium weight (not flimsy) completely blank filler sheets. Quadrille-ruled sheets are unnecessary with Stamplacer and form an unattractive background (no matter how faintly printed) that takes away from the beauty of the stamps themselves.

What is Stamplacer?
Stamplacer is a quality-made precision stamp-mounting guide, with many exclusive features, that allows anyone to reproduce with utmost fidelity any conceivable page layout. Resulting pages are things of beauty.

How is Stamplacer used?
Just hook it to the sheet, shift it up or down to where a row of stamps is wanted, lick the hinges and, aided by Stamplacer, press down each stamp in exact position. The page will be perfectly centered, rows will be arrow-straight, and all stamps equally spaced apart.

What other "tools" will I need?
Absolutely none, except once in a while you may want to make a temporary dot with a pencil. But you'll never need a drawing board, T-square, triangle, drafting instruments, straightedge or ruler. Stamplacer does the entire job quickly, easily.

Is artistic ability needed?
No. With Stamplacer, measuring is eliminated. You just shift around the stamps you want to mount on a given page until you get a layout you like. You don't need to be absolutely accurate, just the general idea . . . maybe two stamps in the top row, three in the second, etc. Then Stamplacer takes over and positions the stamps just as you planned them and in precise alignment.

Is Stamplacer easy to use?
Yes, as many owners will testify. While each side of Stamplacer carries quite a few bars, lines, letters and scales to accomodate every size of stamp ever issued, you will pay attention when mounting a given stamp only to two of the vertical lines, and these lines are easy to pick out because they are identified by key letters.

Is there a limit to possible page arrangements?
No. Stamplacer will accurately reproduce any page layout a collector can dream up. In fact, it is quite possible to have a different arrangement on practically every page in your album.

How accurate is Stamplacer?
If Stamplacer's easy-to-understand directions are followed, stamps will mount down in precise position both horizontally and vertically.

Can stamps be added to an existing page?
Easy. If your attractive layout is not thrown out of balance, just hook on Stamplacer and add the stamps. And if the stamps you are adding will throw things off balance, design a new layout on a fresh blank page. Cost, about a penny for the blank page, about five minutes of your time.

ONLY $1.00 POST PAID

How fast is Stamplacer?
Aside from the time you need to decide on the layout, and to put hinges on the stamps, mounting is amazingly rapid, almost automatic. Some people work faster than others, but even the slowest ought to be able, with Stamplacer, to complete a 20-stamp layout in not more than five or six minutes.

How about incomplete sets?
Don't tuck them away; have all your stamps on display. Just ignore the missing values, design a page for the stamps on hand and make a new page if and when the missing values are obtained.

How about large philatelic items?
Yes, Stamplacer handles them too . . . gives accurate mounting of covers, blocks, souvenir sheets and any other large item that will fit the page.

Can I tilt stamps?
You can get as fancy as you like. The directions accompanying Stamplacer tell you how you can, for example, give the left-hand stamp in a row any slant you wish and then tilt the right-hand stamp exactly the same amount in the opposite direction.

Can I create un-balanced arrangements?
Yes, just as easily as balanced ones; but as a general rule you'll find that balanced album pages are more attractive.

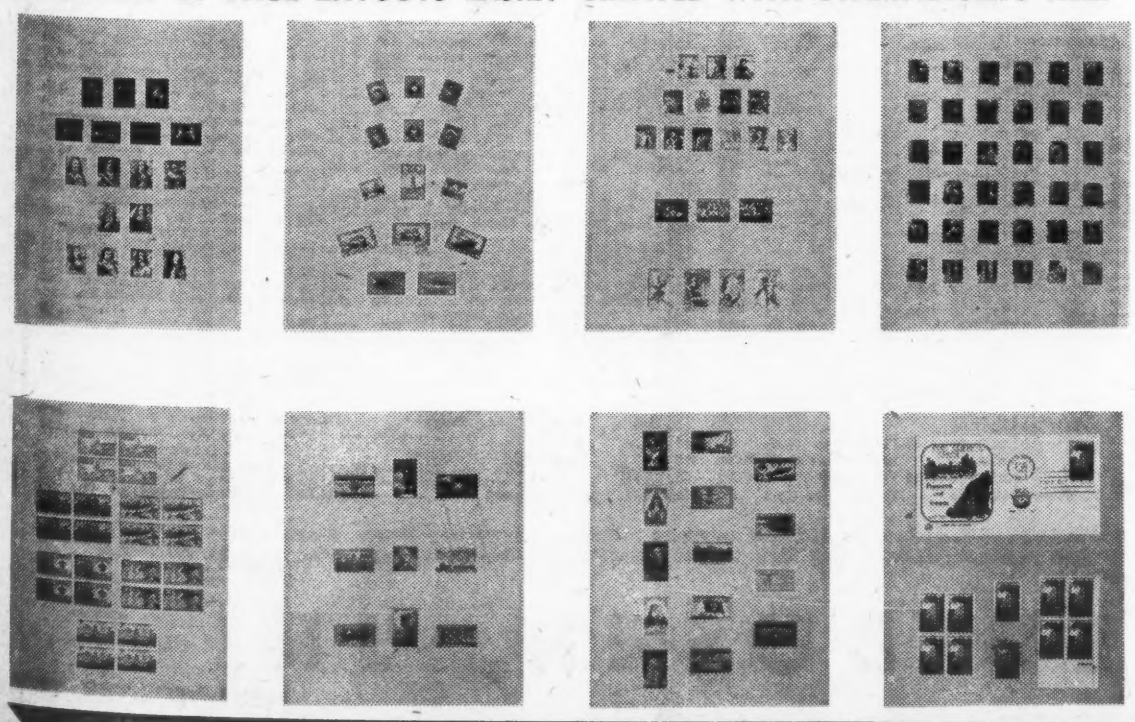

Will Stamplacer work on other size sheets?
Stamplacer is primarily designed for completely blank 8½" X11" pages, but under slightly modified procedure (explained in the directions) can also accurately mount stamps on larger pages or those with off-center quadrille ruling or frame-lines. That's why completely blank sheets are recommended for most collectors.

Is Stamplacer long-lasting?
Yes. It is made of top-quality heavy-gauge laminated plastic and under normal care will last as long as you collect stamps. It costs only a dollar and, in the years ahead, you'll be able to put your money in stamps instead of fancy printed pages.

What if I don't like Stamplacer?
You have nothing to lose. Stamplacer is sold under a money-back guarantee of complete satisfaction. Of more than 11,000 collectors who have bought Stamplacer in the past twelve months, exactly ten of these people have requested (and were promptly sent) a full refund. This works out at odds of 1,100-to-one you'll be pleased!

Where can I buy Stamplacer?
Your favorite stamp dealer probably has it, but if not you are invited to send the convenient order blank blow.

Pleasure And Fascination In Specializing In The Ryukyus

James N. Wong

For those with a limited budget and not much time to spend on stamps, but who like to study stamps and to see them go up in price, specializing in the Ryukyu Islands is the best bet. This is a good year to start as Scott's has just adjusted its prices on the overpriced early issues and is again quoting figures on No. 17, the famous 100 yen surcharged stamp which rose from $1.50 to $225 at one time.

As the following lists of new issues for 1961 clearly reveal, there is something in Ryukyuan philately to interest the specialist, the topical collector, the sheet collector, the FDC collector, the aerophilatelist, and the postal stationery specialist.

At present, Scott's lists around 100 numbers and the country could be completed for $150.

A cover collection would run about $200; postal stationery complete, about $75. These prices cover straight varieties only.

Stamps are issued by the Government of the Ryukyu Islands which functions under the supervision of the U.S. High Commissioner for the Ryukyu Islands.

Great care is exercised by the authorities in issuing stamps—errors are very unusual. Each stamp is carefully checked and is approved only if there is a need for it. For this year we have the following items:

1961 Issues of Stamps

April 20--25c and 50c second printing of the 1958 U.S. Dollar provisional issue. These are printed from the same plates in the same colors but are gummed and are on better paper.

May 1--3c Arbor Week commemorative depicts a native Okinawan pine tree with a red legend "Movement to Make the Ryukyus Green". Designed by Tamanaha.

May 20--3c commemorating the 40th anniversary of Naha City, the capital of the Ryukyus. It grew from 1.5 square mlies with a population of 63,551 in 1921 to 12.5 square miles and 223,019 people in 1961. Beginning with this stamp, all new issues have the English "Ryukyus."

August 23--3c Fish regular (No. 59) redesigned by making the kanji characters smaller. This stamp and Nos. 58 and 76-78 make the small character set; Nos. 59-62 make the large character issue.

September 1--50c and $1 of the new Dancer Series. The 50c depicts movements of the Nobori-Kuduchi Dance and the $1, the Kote-Bushi Dance.

September 21--9c, 14c, 19c, 27c, 35c regular airmails. The 19c and 27c show the Wind God and the others, the Flying Goddess. Designed by Yamada.

October 1--3c commemorating the consolidation of Takamine, Kanegushiku and Miwa with Itoman. Depicts White Silver Temple. Printed locally by Nakamaru Press.

October 30--3c commemorating the consolidation of Hirara and Shimoji in Miyakc. Depicts native linen and a rosary.

November 12--3c commem for Book Week. Depicts bird and open book. Designed by Isagawa.

1961 Ryukyus Postal Stationery

July 1--1½c Summer Card showing sea coral with a flying fish on the reverse. Designed by Yamada.

November 15--1½c New Year postcard depicting a tiger which is the animal for 1962. Designed by Isagawa.

1961 Special Cancellations

April 20--Ie Shima scenic cancel.
May 1-- Arbor Week commemorative cancel.
May 20--Naha Anniversary cancel.
August 19--10th All-Okinawa philatelic exhibition.
September 23--Naha - Kagoshima first flight cancel.
October 1--Itoman City consolidation.
October 10--Scenic cancels for Naha, Koza, Nago, Miyako, and Yaeyama.
October 30--Hirara City consolidation.
November 12--Book Week. Commemorative.

1961 Anti-TB Seal

The seal this year depicts the Sotetsu palm which is found on the 5 sen stamp (Scott's No. 1). It is issued in sheets of 20, perforated and imperforated; printed in multicolor by the Japan Printing Bureau.

How To Collect Ryukyus

Information on new issues is available from the Ryukyu Postal Administration by writing to the Philatelic Agency, Naha Central Post Office, Okinawa, Ryukyu Islands. Scott's catalog and journal regularly report on new issues and the Minkus American Catalog has a section on Ryukyu postal stationery. A specialized album is printed and brought up to date by the White Ace Albums.

The leading organization in this field is the International Ryukyu Stamp and Coin Society which has published several specialized studies on various issues and which publishes the IRSACS BULLETIN eight times a year. A sample copy of this bulletin will be sent on receipt of 10c in stamps by writing IRSACS, Box 624, Washington 4, D.C. Subscription to the bulletin is $2 annually. All new 1962 subscribers who mention this Linn's Weekly will receive the complete 1961 issue free if payment is received by March 1962.

Local Ryukyus spcialty clubs are being organized in various parts of the country. The group in New York will be formally organized soon and open to receive members from various areas. Clubs are also planned for the midwest, the west coast and Hawaii. If you are interested in becoming a member, write to IRSACS at the address above.

Dr. Haller To Speak To Los Angeles Group

The November 13 meeting of The Philatelic Club, Inc., of Los Angeles will be held at 8 p.m. at 417 S. Alvarado St., Los Angeles 57, Calif.

Speaker of the evening will be Dr. Austin Haller. He will show and discuss "Express Covers of Mexico".

"I've Seen All Those Places, Now," Says Retired New York Mail Clerk After World Tour

Murray M. Baron

Take it from a recently retired postal employee, a fanciful stamp can leave its mark on even the ever faithful mailman and his fellow clerk. In the course of his duties and depending on the weather, the little label on the upper right-hand corner can well depress or elevate the spirit.

Now, Postal employees—just like the average citizen—can dream of far off places and sort of wish they were there. You pick up a letter on a cold and dreary day and see a stamp from Tahiti.

Or it could be hot as blazes out of doors and a nice cool postmark from Spitzbergen or Fairbanks, Alaska stares you in the face. All of this just tends to make it a bit tougher on a lot of dedicated men.

What then could be more compelling than to satisfy the wish to be there, to visit some of these spots and to fulfill that desire on retirement?

If one is inclined towards philately, at the same time possessing some degree of business acumen, retirement dreams can well be fulfilled in a pleasurable and profitable way by a combination of sightseeing and buying.

The latter offers the rewards of new and interesting friendships, for language barriers and exotic mannerisms are easy to overcome through the romance of stamp collecting.

My early 1960 five-month world journey following retirement as a clerk took me to 22 countries. Covering some 36,000 miles, I made my plans as I went along. My length of stay in each country, aside from ship stops, ranged from four to 16 days.

I came back with well over a quarter of a million stamps, used and mint. They represented purchases in most of the countries visited and with a financial outlay well within the permitted customs allowance.

The journey, through its philatelic interest, left no doubt of the oft-repeated story that stamp collecting numbers among its enthusiasts the rich and the poor, people from the professions to the most humble artisan and that it acts with fervor as a force for good throughout the universe.

And wherever English is spoken or read, be it Cyprus or Pakistan, the Philippines or Hong Kong, one will always find fellow subscribers and their reference to Linn's Weekly, for its far flung readers are legion and find in it a source of general interest, as indeed it is a criterion of international understanding.

My usual procedure in each country visited, after a period of "taking in the sights", would be to devote several hours to the task of making contacts, with the view of purchasing collections.

Acquiring the material, the fun of salvaging through it and visions of some renumerative gain was of course most challenging, but what was really rewarding—regardless as to whether a deal was made or not—was the varied people that I met in all walks of life. In simple phrase, it was "getting to know them".

How did I go about buying stamps?

In ports such as Ponta Delgada in the Azores, Casablanca and Lisbon, where the ship stayed but ten or twelve hours I would utilize the services of an English speaking guide. He would usually steer me to the local stamp dealer or hastily contact several people with collections to sell.

In Barcelona the Plaza Real with its spacious open grounds is a heavily concentrated scene every Sunday morning of dealers, collectors and spectators, all anxious to barter, buy or sell. Altho the Yvert & Teller Champion catalogue is generally referred to, the asking price is really never expected.

In Palma de Majorca as well as in Barcelona, the favorable exchange afforded the opportunity of shipping back some 30,000 stamps in collections and accumulations.

An elderly Spanish gentleman whose home I visited offered me an arranged collection of some 3000 used U.S. for 1200 Pesetas ($20). It contained at least a dozen genuine Confederates in addition to the higher priced Columbians and others of preferred vintage.

While in Venice I was referred by the hotel manager to a party who sold me a fine collection, including covers of a century ago, for 50,000 Lire ($80). I visited the government operated stamp shop at Riejka, Yugoslavia and learned that the local club was meeting that very afternoon.

As in stamp clubs in our country, visitors are made most welcome. They have but to introduce themselves and ask for permission to come in.

A retired sea captain and a newspaper editor at the Riejka club made an appointment with me for the following day and amply supplied me for the Dinars I alloted for this purpose.

The six days spent in Athens and environs gave me an opportunity for making friends and through them, addtional purchases. Difficulties were encountered in mailing, as philatelic matter shipped out of Greece requires a special clearance.

I was shifted through several offices and soon found myself with the Director of the Philatelic Bureau. He would have been most gracious even if I had not identified myself through my retirement card. He sent out for cool drinks and we had a half hour chat while one of his subordinates properly prepared the parcel for mailing.

Previously, while enroute on a Yugoslavian ship to Piraeus, I met the son of the well-known Athens dealer, Mr. Drossos, on board. Young Drossos disembarked at Patras with his wife, but not before he exacted a promise that I look up his father in Athens.

In Limassol, Cyprus a nine-hour stay at that port city gave me the chance of visiting Dr. Michael Malliarrins. The aged physician had a massive collection of 49 volumes plus thousands of first day covers from every conceivable country. He offered me the entire kaboodle for 2000 English Pounds ($5600).

For a small part-time hobby dealer like myself it was a rather big bite to chew without more time for reflection. I somehow regretted that I did not return from Israel to look further into the deal as the collections were extremely neat and had a high Gibbon's value.

The stamp club in Tel Aviv, located on a side street off Allenby Road, bustles with activity, and one gets the impression that every other family in Israel is stamp conscious. I stayed at the same hotel in Safad where I visited six years previously.

The proprietor's wife, learning that I was now in competition with my former employer, brought out a shoe box containing some 90 per cent Israeli both in mint and used. I gave her the price that she asked after a cursory check Months later, on reaching home, I found that it contained several of the coveted Nox. 7-8-9, and I was happy to send an adjustment.

Teheran has a stamp dealer situated in a loft in a building on the main stem, and I watched the owner as he searched for those "hidden

Billig's '62 List Of Philatelic Literature

Veteran philatelist Fritz Billig of 168-39 Highland Ave., Jamaica 32, N.Y. has announced the release of his 1962 price list of philatelic literature. It is priced at 50c per copy, deductable from the first order.

The 80-page, paper-bound booklet is all that its name would imply—a compilation of thousands of items ranging from brief notes to elaborate volumes of many natures, all dealing with some field of philately.

Included are many items of great rarity, as well as offerings of modest price even though not always readily available. Titles are grouped in various clearly identified classification, so that using the work as an aid is not a bewildering hide-and-seek adventure.

It is difficult to think of a research project about which the individual concerned could not find in the Billig listing a title which would aid him in his further study.

RETIRED MAIL CLERK

treasures" in a sack of a bank mixture.

Twelve hundred miles south at the Persian Gulf port of Abadan I learned that the interest in stamp collecting was primarily centered among the executives connected with the oil industry.

In Karachi I left some films with a photography supply merchant. On inquiry, I found out that his brother had just organized a stamp club, and the merchant lost no time in reaching him.

The young Moslem brougnt a ten pound mixture of British Colonies to the hotel at which I was stopping. At his suggestion, we made a barter. He wanted no Pakistani Ruppees, but rather some of the costume jewelry in my possession as a gift for his wife, plus a sport shirt that I was wearing.

The four-hour flight from Karachi to New Delhi was most gratifying, for a well groomed and intelligent Indian youngster, travelling with his grandfather to his home in the latter city, attached himself to me through conversation.

Not only did the gentleman extend me the hospitality of his home, but he also arranged for me to join a party visiting the famed Taj Mahal in Agra, well over 100 miles away.

Soon after my return to New York a box of stamps on paper and a number of complete sets of pre-partitioned India arrived from the good sahib, who, incidentally, was in the export-import trade and quite an accumulator.

In Bombay one can find many street vendors and numerous marts offering world-wide stamps. I decided that it was time, then and there, to call a halt to my enterprising intentions. Whether it was the pace or my age, the tempo of excited travel plus the heat were catching up with me. In short, I felt "pooped".

I was quite relieved when the friendly passenger agent at the Gray & McKenzie shipping agency in Bombay found a passage for me on the P&O Liner "Canton" for the 13-day trek to Hong Kong. I was fortunate to obtain a single berth cabin, as I did on all other ships.

By the time we anchored in the bay at Colombo, Ceylon, I was back in physical stride and again thinking of stamps. It was at that port that I dispatched a classified ad, airmail, to a Hong Kong paper stating "Visitor arriving—interested buying stamp collections Write Box . . . ., this newspaper."

The "Canton" also stopped for a full day at the beautiful island of Penang as well as 2½ days in Singapore. On board was quite an array of British, Indian and Malayan-Chinese passengers, and the friendly atmosphere will long be remembered.

The ad in the Hong Kong paper brought results, and I followed it up later with advertisements in a Manila publication, an English-speaking Tokyo newspaper, and one in Honolulu. The replies which were timed to reach me on arrival. This was my principal means of contact on the last half of the trip.

In Kowloon, the Scottish-born construction engineer of a newly built textile factory in the New Territories invited me to his elaborate home within sight of Red China. He had a vast collection of world-wide as well as early American.

His British included items such as the white paper imperfs, in mint, of the 1p and 2p black, a 2p blue of the 1840 series as well as a certified C1 Newfoundland (first Trans-Atlantic air—April 1919) overprinted in black in a used copy, currently Scott's $1600.

His collection showed years of painstaking collecting, although the bulk of it was inherited. Like many other collectors, he took much pride in having others admire his acquisition.

Returning to Clark Air Base in the Philippines since my army days there 40 years previously, I learned that an active club was going along in full swing, composed of GI's and civilian workers and their families. The chaplain, during the course of a friendly conversation, phoned the General's secretary who herself was quite a philatelist.

An invitation was extended to have me join some of the ladies at tea, several days later, and to discuss the hobby.

I was quite flattered when later, traveling by bus with friends from Lingayen to Baguio in the Mountain Province, two college boys on vacation from the U. of Manila, approached me. They mentioned that they recognized my voice following a radio interview from Clark Air Base in which my stamp buying experiences were touched on.

It was a surprise when, on my scheduled departure late that afternoon from the bus terminal, I found the two young men waiting for me with a large envelope containing stamps.

After a 15-day stay in the Islands I returned to the enticing city of Hong Kong and following an additional week there I embarked on the Dutch steamer "Tjilwah" for Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka. From the last named port I journeyed by rail to Fukuoka City in Kyushu, some 800 miles south.

Returning to Tokyo for five days, I then took a plane for Honolulu, where I remained a week. After reaching Los Angeles, and still 2½ weeks to go (as I had sublet my New York apartment) I took a Trailways bus to San Diego and from there to Nogales, Ariz.

Crossing the border for the 750-mile trip to Mazatlan, I continued several days later to Mexico City and Acupulco, stopping enroute for two days at Guadalahara. There I made contact with a family which had some fine material to dispose in addition to a dealer who was disbanding.

A week later I left Mexico City for the last leg, but not before a four day stop-over was made in Miami, thus winding up the world girdling trip.

Aside from seeing the varied interesting and unforgettable sights so often mentioned in travel media, a far greater impression came to me through the people whom I encountered, their courtesies and goodness and in many instances, that "something about their background".

There was the divisional manager of a rubber plantation who lived in Borneo but whom I met on board a ship. He had returned to Borneo after being in service there with the British Army during the last war.

Forty years of age and a bachelor, he had taken it upon himself to adopt legally five fatherless children of mixed and Oriental parentage bebecause, as he said, "the kids need a home."

In Bombay, I met a 24-year-old Moslem from Johannesburg, South Africa, who was accompanied by his uncle and aunt. The young man became totally blind six years ago and had sought treatment in many European countries in a vain attempt to restore his sight.

Three years ago he was placed under the care of a Howard University educated physician who is doing much work for the underprivileged from his home in Surad, India. Our friend's sight has been restored and quoting him, "It's a wonderful feeling to be able to look forward to doing something useful instead of weaving baskets the rest of my life."

The tall and friendly Texan whom I met in the Negev city of Elath is pitching in toward the development of the Israeli port. Engaged in an engineering project, he has often been kidded by his co-workers as to why he is "sweating it out there" when he could be living in comfort back in the States and earning at least twice the amount of pay that he received.

He confided over a cool drink that he often feels the same way. "But then", he said, "I start thinking of what prompted my coming down here, and when I see the work that is being accomplished, I just get a compulsion to stay on."

In Honolulu I met a retired nurse who formerly was in service with the Veteran's Hospital in the Bronx. One of the few women veterans of World War I to receive the Purple Heart, her benevolent deeds are still remembered in the New York area. Today, well passed 70, she continues a mission of service to others in her volunteer work at the St. Francis Hospital.

Traveling affords one the opportunity to meet many people and to be a party to similar incidents as have been related—we just have to scratch the surface. It all adds up to understanding people just a little bit more, and having a mutual interest in philately is certainly one step in that direction.

AFRICA 1961

THE EYES OF THE WORLD ARE UPON

AFRICA!

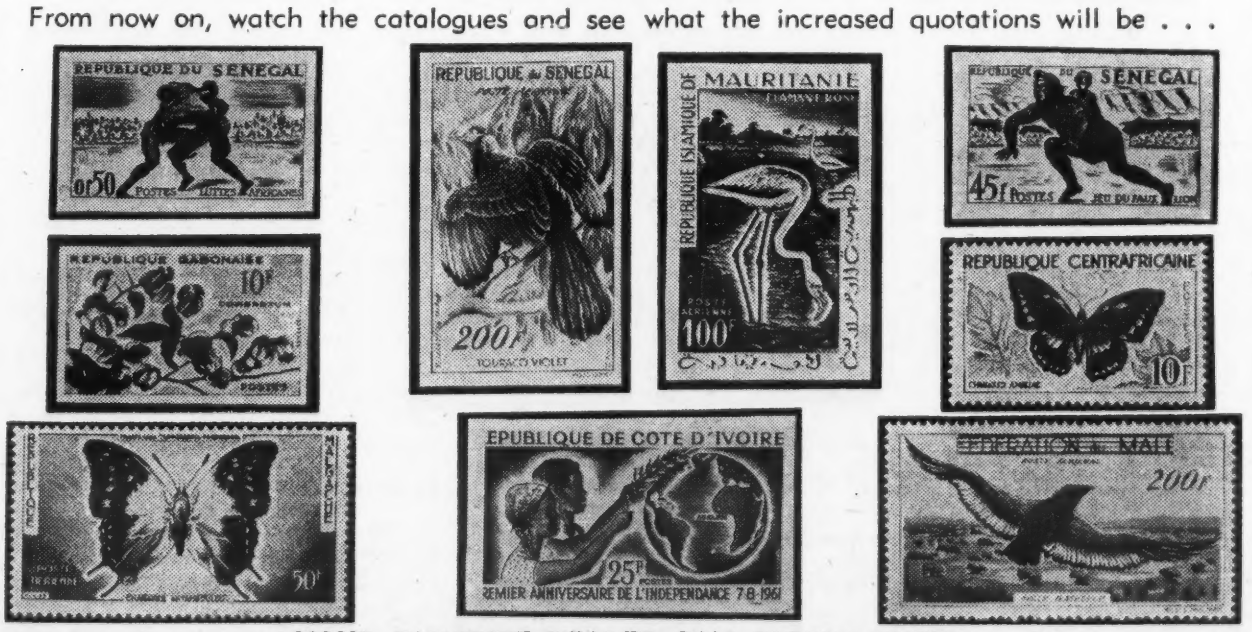

WHY collect the stamps of the New Independent African Republics ?

BECAUSE the whole world will contribute to their development, consequently . . .
the whole world will be interested in these stamps;
many will soon become scarce and difficult to get.

and because if you start now, only 286 stamps, bought at present reasonable prices, will give you a complete, up-to-date collection of these 13 new African States! Here is a complete listing of these issues to date:

CAMEROONS ---------13	GABON ----------16	MAURITANIA ---------38
CENTRAL AFRICAN REPUBLIC ---------20	IVORY COAST -------30	NIGER ----------17
CHAD ----------11	MALI FEDERATION ---13	SENEGAL ----------29
CONGO REPUBLIC ----11	MALI REPUBLIC -----34	UPPER VOLTA -------27
	MALAGASY ----------27

Some of these stamps have already won Gold Medals in International competitions.
From now on, watch the catalogues and see what the increased quotations will be . . .

News Round-Up From Washington

The 8c Ernst Reuter "Champion of Liberty" stamp of 1959 and the 4c American Woman commemorative of 1960 were removed from sale at the Philatelic Sales Agency as of the close of business November 1.

A photograph of a color reproduction of an oil painting by J. F. Buchor was utilized for the design of the 8c General John J. Pershing regular postage stamp, which will make its initial appearance November 17 in New York City.

Robert J. Jones of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was the designer of this stamp, which deviates from the designs of the 1954-61 "Liberty" series. The portrait was engraved by Matthew D. Fenton, and the border, lettering and numeral were engraved by George A. Payne.

The name "General John J. Pershing" is located to the left of the portrait. The denomination "8c" appears in the lower left corner and the lettering "U.S. Postage" across the bottom of the stamp. All lettering is in dark Roman.

Effective November 1, changes in the transportation in Iowa resulted in the following new HPO titles: The first involves the new Spencer and Des Moines Highway Post Office which left Des Moines (Trip 1) at 12:45 a.m. and left Spencer (Trip 2) at 6:30 p.m.

Trip 5 of the Sheldon and Des Moines HPO left Des Moines at 12:15 a.m. and Trip 6 left Sheldon at 6 p.m. In the case of the Dubuque and Omaha HPO, Trip 1 left Dubuque at 7 p.m., and Trip 2 left Omaha at 7:45 p.m.

The Caribou and Boston RPO-HPO route was changed in name to the Bangor-Boston RPO-HPO as of October 29.

Asheville, N. C. has a special slogan cancellation "ASHEVILLE, N. C., HOME TOWN OF MISS AMERICA 1962" to be in use from time of receipt through June 30, 1962. Athol, Mass. is to have a device from February through July 7 reading "200th ANNIVERSARY ATHOL, MASSACHUSETTS JULY 1-7, 1962".

From January 1 through June 30 Worcester, Mass. will utilize a design reading "CLARK UNIVERSITY 75th ANNIVERSARY 1887-1962", and Williamsport, Pa. will have one for the same period "LYCOMING COLLEGE 150th ANNIVERSARY 1812-1962".

Again, from January 1 through June 30 Lisle, Ill. will have a postmark reading "ST. PROCOPIUS COLLEGE 75th ANNIVERSARY". Finally, Fairhaven, Mass. will employ a slogan design from February 1 through July 29 with the wording "FAIRHAVEN SESQUICENTENNIAL JULY 22-29, 1962".

Don't Overlook Pakistani Stamps

H. I. Swindall

Never a speculative issue, never a "cornered" issue, yet replete with stamps that are legitimately scarce —pictorials, cancellations, varieties in plenty, yet largely neglected by collectors and dealers alike—that's Pakistan.

Moslem Pakistan, consisting of two land areas, is divided by the width of Hindu India. Created as a separate nation on August 15, 1947 Pakistan filled its initial postal needs by overprinting existing stocks of the stamps of India.

Catalog makers recognize only those overprints which were produced by offset-litho at Nasik. However, many local overprints were produced, some in colors other than black. These occur in many types and positions. Once having served their purpose of carrying matter through the mails, many of these early locals were destroyed by the recipients and are now genuinely scarce.

The first regular stamps of Pakistan appeared in 1948. They consisted of 24 values, including symbolic designs and pictorials, a truly beautiful set.

For those who like to work at collecting, the Rupee values, with a face value exceeding $11 U. S., will furnish plenty of hunting to complete the perf 12 and compound perforation varieties.

Succeeding issues offer many more beautiful pictorials and symbolic designs, with several look-alikes, differing only in the way a crescent is turned, and the Urdu fraction being left or right of the whole numbers, and so on. Occasional perforation varieties occur.

Some printings of a given stamp, printed by De La Rue & Co., can be distinguished from printings of the same stamp by Pakistan Security Printing Co. by the shades if the marginal inscriptions are missing.

For those who like first day material all issues of Pakistan, back to and including the overprints on India, and all officials are available on first day cover—if you can find them.

State visits of several VIPs, including President Eisenhower, President Byar of Turkey and King Hussian of Jordan have been recognized with a special postmarks. In 1953 Karachi, then the capital, produced a special cancellation in red honoring the Baghdad Pact Conference.

Pakistan postal markings in general offer an interesting field for specialization. Temporary post offices sometimes have the word "temporary" in the circle enclosing the date; others are designated as "Camp" or "Train" post offices.

Also to be found are General Post Office markings, night post offices, army and other headquarters postmarks, and others.

For those who like to collect the hard way, there are registration envelopes, including overprints on India, which are modern rarities. Completing a set of them might involve years of hunting, besides costing a "pretty penny".

For the toughest fight of all, however, the collector might try for a complete set of the Scinde Dawks on the Independence First Postage Stamp commemorative issue of Pakistan in 1952.

Then, of course, there are always the forerunners—covers showing postal markings of different cities of Pakistan while Pakistan was still a part of India.

Maintaining a conservative program of new issues with many of them being beautiful commemoratives and pictorials, first day service for collectors, ample sidelines, and many genuinely scarce and even rare items, Pakistan philately offers a rich field for those who are tired of the flood of "wallpaper" issues from various other parts of the world.

SPECIAL EDITIONS

Beginning with that of May 28, 1951 Linn's Weekly Stamp News has set aside the last edition of each month to the sponsorship of a society of specialist collectors. A great deal of important and valuable information has been presented to our readers through this excellent joint cooperation.

The next four and their dates, are:

Nov. 27 — National Highway Post Office Society.

Dec. 11—Fine Arts Unit, ATA.

Jan. 29—Collectors of Perfins.

Feb. 26—Collectors of Religion on Stamps, COROS.

Philatelic groups interested in undertaking sponsorship may write such a request to this paper.

PRO JUVENTUTES

land and foreign mail through June 30, 1962.

The usual first day facilities and courtesies will be provided for the December 1 appearance of the set. Mint may be ordered at face (1.60 francs per set) plus return postage and registration.

Such orders should be made apart from requests for other stamps, and remittances likewise should be limited to this issue. The new issue may also be ordered, at the mint rate, in canceled-to-order condition with the first day marker.

A special postmark designed by Hans Tomamichel of Zurich will be employed for first day canceling of December 1 stamps and covers. Also, a special first day cover will be available at 30c each (without stamps), and 2.10 francs with them.

The usual Collection sheet (this time No. 196) will be sold at 10c without stamps, 1.80fr. with them. Folder No. 43 is 50c without, 2.20fr. with the new set.

Orders should be sent promptly to General Directorate of PTT Philatelic Agency, Berne, Bollwerk 8, Switzerland. Remittances may be made by international money order, bank draft or certified check at 25c U.S. per Swiss Franc.

THANKS FOR YOUR PATIENCE

Showgard Mounts for stamps have filled a long neglected need. Before we introduced them we knew Vidiforms had a "hot" product in these scientifically designed mounts for mint stamps. What we didn't know, however, was that a deluge of orders from all over the country would put such an overwhelming demand on production facilities. Happily, we are now in a position to fill all orders for Showgard Mounts promptly! Your patience has been greatly appreciated.

the SHOWGARD mount

The Finest Stamp Mount money can buy!

4 WAYS BETTER

1 THINNER—by actual micrometer measurement other mounts are over three times more bulky than SHOWGARD Mounts.

2 SAFER—Exclusive air flow channel prevents moisture from being trapped in the mount.

3 MORE SECURE—stamps are positively kept from slipping off center by TWO retaining seams.

4 MORE VERSATILE—SHOWGARD Mounts may be arranged either horizontally or vertically. Curled stamps can be made to lie flat.

Mail or bring the order form to your authorized SHOWGARD Mount dealer. If local service is not available write to VIDIFORMS CO., Box 743, Brooklyn 1, N. Y.

FOR A 4c STAMP

In 1936 Finland issued a stamp booklet consisting of 5 different panes of 4 stamps. 100,000 booklets were issued. (Not quite enough to go around.

About 3 months ago, we found quite a large supply of these booklets, probably the only supply in the world today. We were going to advertise these, but thought we would wait, and then offer a real BARGAIN for the A.S.D.A. show. These are listed in the Rogers Catalog (1947) and priced at $3.00, the panes are listed by Scott, the few we have seen in auctions in the past sold from $3.00 to $5.00 each. This represents a real chance for every collector, investor and dealer alike.

The Carnival of Laikonik which commemorates a legend dating back to 1281 was noted philatelically by the release of a set of three Polish stamps June 6, 1955. The 20, 40 and 60 groszy multicolored trio features the character Laikonik astride his wooden horse and brandishing his good luck scepter at all within his reach.

"Laikonik"--A Polish Legend Is Fulfilled

W. Kolakowski

The story behind the set of three stamps issued by Poland on June 16, 1955 is one of great interest. While many Poles, historians, and philatelists are perhaps aware of the legend of Laikonik in Cracow, few know the modern sequel to the story.

Every year on the day of the Corpus Christi celebration in June, come tourists from all over Poland to participate in a colorful national carnival. When the bells in 100 churches stop ringing after the religious procession, a boisterous parade issues from Zwierzyniecka Street.

A gaily costumed man in a high black cap and a long black beard rides a wooden horse covered by a brilliant mantle. The whole figure, the creation of Stanislaw Wyspianski, represents Laikonik, a Tartar leader of an invading force which attacked Cracow in 1281.

A band of followers in similar costumes produce squeaky, unpleasant noises on primitive fifes and drums, announcing to the citizens that Laikonik the Tartar is capturing the town. With his scepter the leader pokes and jabs at the crowd around him, producing joyous shouts because by superstition the touch of Laikonik brings good luck.

The Tartar band dances grotesquely along the street to the unmelodic rhythm of their simple instruments, the crowd shouting and stamping with them. Laikonik is greeted by the Mayor of Cracow and offered wine, an offer which is repeated at restaurants along the way.

The role of Laikonik must by tradition be taken by a member of the family of Wloczkow. At the time of the invasion, one of this family of loggers rode into the city and ordered the gates closed, warning of the approach of the Tartars.

At the same time, from the turrets of the castle, trumpeters had just started to play the evening Call to Prayer. One of the Tartars, thinking the call was an alarm, shot an arrow through the throat of the trumpeter just as the highest note was reached.

From that time until today, everyday at noon from the belfry of the Church of the Virgin Mary, the same trumpet call is played, up to the highest note, then broken off.

This legend is well known in Poland. But a modern chapter of the story is known only to a few. Far away in Samarkand (an old town in Uzbeckie in the Asian part of the USSR), a group of Polish soldiers arrived in 1939, fleeing from the German army.

Among them were some students from Cracow who knew the legend of Laikonik. The local people wondered how to treat these strangers, and held an investigation to determine if they were really sons of Lechists, as the Tartars called the Poles.

They knew that Lechists are Christians and respected their belief in God. The soldiers showed their crude crosses, made from pieces of tin cans, which they wore on their chests.

The time was June and as the religious holiday of Corpus Christi approached, some trumpeters among the soldiers won permission from the natives to play in honor of their national holiday. They were invited to play in the market place, facing Mecca.

A tremendous crowd jammed the market place on the appointed day. The trumpeters forced their way through to the center, where they played their traditional calls; Reveille, Call to Colors, and Call to Prayer. The last call was ended abruptly on the highest note.

A strange and deep quiet came over the listeners, who seemed turned to stone. The Polish soldiers departed, and one by one the people walked away.

In Samarkand it was well known that Laikonik had joined in the Tartar invasion of Poland and had penetrated all the way to Cracow, the capital, where the invaders were defeated.

They knew that one of the soldiers had shot the Polish trumpeter as he played the Call to Prayer, and their priests had taught them over the centuries that the defeat had come as a punishment from God.

The priest told the people that they must no longer attack outside their borders or they would be completely destroyed and their temples would lie in ruins covered by moss.

For centuries it had been prophesied that their punishment would be ended and their future brightened only when the trumpeters from Lechistan should come to Samarkand and play in the market-place the same Call to Prayer so profanely interrupted in 1281.

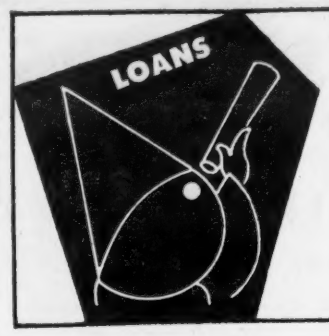

This prophecy was a moment of great religious solemnity when the trumpets sounded in the market place of Samarkand, after nearly seven centuries.

This sequel to the legend of Laikonik greatly enhances the interest of the better known part of the story. The Carnival of Laikonik, as still celebrated in Cracow, was commemorated by Poland in an issue of three stamps on June 6, 1955.

Each value depicts, in different color combinations, the figure of Laikonik astride his horse brandishing his scepter. The set was designed by W. Chomicz and printed in Warsaw by the P.W.P.W.

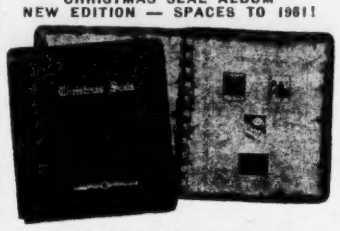

This snapshot of June 1960, made in Cracow, Poland shows author Kolakowsky receiving the good luck salute from the 1960 counterpart of the fabled Laikonik who has survived almost seven centuries in the folklore of Poland.

BRITAINS BUSY DEALERS

Although the above illustration symbolizes a typical English type of residence with its oak panelled hall and its low heavy timbered ceilings, it has indeed philatelic history.

During World War II when the German bombs and the V2 rockets were raining on our cities many dealers sought refuge in country areas and it is not surprising that one particular dealer of international repute sought refuge in this sophisticated seaside town.

The above premises were turned into offices and housed one of the largest philatelic stocks of its kind in the world. So therefore it is not so strange that this edifice should still carry on a philatelic tradition.

When the war ended the dealer returned to his previous location and he gave us the opportunity of buying these premises which are in many ways so ideally suited for a philatelic business, as its Tudor interior and furnishing imparts the right atmosphere to all those who wish to look over valuable stamps in tranquil old world surroundings.

We realize that you may not be able to call personally and look over these splendid offers and therefore you will not be able to see exactly what you are buying — but that makes no difference at all and as with anything you order from us no deal is completed unless you are completely satisfied — fair enough?

READ THIS...

I want you to see these mixtures—they are truly outstanding. They are not just the usual run of mission stamps, but genuine unsorted material—material suitable for collectors—lots that have variety, pictorials, high values, stamps that are well worth sorting. But don't take our word for this, call and inspect these mixtures or if you order by post, you will do so with the knowledge that every transaction is not complete unless you are satisfied. We have never offered these mixtures before and will not be offering them again as they are all in very limited supply and it has taken us over a year to accumulate our present stocks, except A/9.

A/9 NEW ZEALAND. A brand new mixture that has just arrived. It is loaded with the new bi-coloured pictorial issues, plenty of commemoratives and a good proportion of Health stamps. Personally recommended. Over 3,000 stamps to the lb. ($5).

A/10 NEW ZEALAND. This is similar to the above but was collected about twelve months ago. The same high quality. 1 lb. ($5).

A/11 SOUTH AFRICA. This is an obsolete mixture with values up to 1/3. 1 lb. ($2.80).

A/12 DENMARK. This is another genuine, unsorted office mixture with Commemoratives. 1 lb. ($2.10).

A/13 NORWAY. Similar to the Denmark with plenty of Commemoratives and Pictorials. 1 lb. ($2.80).

A/14 FRANCE. This is better than the normal Mission mixture. Has good variety but few large pictorials. 3/4,000 stamps to the lb. ($2.80).

A/15 GREAT BRITAIN. This is an unsorted mixture with plenty of Regionals. About 4,000 stamps to the lb. ($1.40).

A/16 AUSTRALIA. Here again is a nice mixture that I can personally recommend. It has plenty of Commemoratives, on very small paper and is absolutely unsorted. 1 lb. ($4.20).

A/17 IRISH COMMEMORATIVES. This is a mixture with a good variety with issues from ten years ago to date and for luck we are throwing in a few Europas! Contains Commemoratives only. 1 lb. ($3.50)

A/18 INDIA. This is another unsorted office mixture, not to be confused with mission mixture. It has plenty of pictorials and commemoratives and is really well worth sorting. A bargain at ($5.00) lb.

A/19 BRAZIL. There are no Commemoratives in this mixture but there is a good variety with 3/4,000 stamps to the lb. ($3.50).

A/20 CEYLON. This mixture contains about equal quantities of the obsolete and current issues and, of course, contains all pictorials and a fair proportion of Commemoratives. 1 lb. ($4.25).

A/21 OFFICE MIXTURE. This mixture could be sold quite easily for $15.00 per lb. and it would still be a value at that. It has enormous variety from a great many countries and you must see it to really appreciate the quality. However, order it with utter confidence at $7.00 per lb.

SPECIAL $50.00 PARCELS

We will send you a parcel based on the full sheet rate and will keep all in blocks wherever possible for $50. We will also try to include any other oddments that are too small to mention in this list. We can tell you authoritatively that stocks in England of the above two countries are now finished — one Canadian dealer bought the rest of the stock and is now doling them out like precious stones! With the discount this will cost you only $40.00!!

REAL OFFICE PARCELS

We live in an age of cynicism, so that the small voice of Truth is often lost in the din of hyperbole. Some collectors believe that stamps never emanate from banks at all, and, even if they do, by the time the dealers have waded through them there is little left for the collector. I have always looked upon stamp collectors as intelligent human beings, often as shrewd in their buying as some stamp dealers, and will often deal for years with a trader who gives them a fair deal. In offering this new parcel, I feel it is giving the collector a real break: to get in on the ground floor so to speak — the ground floor if buying some really unsorted stamps.

Let us understand each other; I am not offering a magic formula to get rich quickly by buying a pound of mixture.

This parcel of stamps is unusual inasmuch as it contains mainly high value stamps of the British Empire only, exactly as received from banks and offices — no Canada, Australia, New Zealand or India. I am selling this by weight, so you will know exactly what you are getting — roughly there are around 2,000 stamps to 1 lb. — so you get a worthwhile lot to sort through. You will see that a great deal of this is from airmail correspondence just as received from the banks agents in various parts of the Empire. One business house that we deal with do the sorting themselves inasmuch as the values to 2/6 are put in one envelope and 5/- to £1 are put in another. An occasional 5/- may be found in the 2/6 grade but never a £1 value!

You will find that 75 per cent of the values are 3d. and above; mainly 1/- or 1/3, being the airmail rates of postage. It is practically a high-value mixture only, but you will find low values which are used adjacent to the higher values. These are not exaggerated statements, so accept our invitation to look over these lots and then you can not only add some useful items to your collection but form the basis of a sound investment for future profitable earnings. Write today and be prepared for a pleasant surprise and an enjoyable period of sorting. If you are tired of receiving low value stamps and mainly stamps from the big Dominions, this is the parcel you want, offered with a sincere desire to give collectors an opportunity to get on the other side of the fence and see what a genuine Bank and Office Parcel looks like.

1 lb. ($17.25); ½lb. ($9.50); ¼lb. ($5.); 2 oz. ($3.00). Post paid to any part of the world. Registration 15c extra. Full catalogue free.

GUARANTEE

All stamps sold by weight contain a percentage of damaged stamps. This is inevitable because clerks in the Post Office do not tear stamps for Philatelic use, and of course when firms open their envelopes they do not especially remember Philatelists. Readers ordering 1 lb and ½lb lots can return any damaged stamps and they will be exchanged for similar mixture weight for weight.

We regret we cannot grant this service on small amounts owing to the heavy labour costs of handling, but we are determined that you should be satisfied.

SENSATIONAL FIND

DO IT YOURSELF PHILATELY!

Never before has a dealer sent such a gigantic parcel of stamps (over 1 lb. in weight, about 1,000 varieties), on such terms. Inspect it in your own home for a full seven days ,sort it over, show it to your friends, give yourself a seven day philatelic thrill and if you do not agree that this is the greatest philatelic buy for $3.00 postage 35c, you have ever seen, return for full refund without any apology whatsoever. Yes, this is "Do It Yourself Philately"! If the dealer sorted and soaked these stamps it would cost him more in labour than we charge you for the entire parcel. This is where the collector takes over. Approval Selection Free. To make this a truly outstanding offer we are throwing in an approval sheet priced at $3.00.

So send $3.00 today plus 35c postage. You too may win the next trophy! Ask for ADR/L2.

THE DAN BISHOP STORY

His name was Dan Bishop — no relation whatsoever to Mark Bishop that brilliant, philatelic columnist and crystal-ball gazer whose monthly epistles we are sure you have read. But like his famous namesake, Dan was also a believer in mystic signs and was, it is said, somewhat of a prophet (and prophets are after all comparatively rare).

I want to tell you the story of Dan, the stamp dealer, because it could happen to all of us, in fact everyone who deals or collects stamps. It is a serious story that should not be taken too lightly.

If you look over your collection, you are almost certain to find that you have some specimens of Germany Scott 637. You see we came into this story when we supplied Dan with several sheets of this particular stamp, just in the normal course of business. The stamp of course is of that well known painting "Mona Lisa" by Leonardo de Vinci. Seldom a decade passes without this priceless treasure, the joy and pride of the Louvre, coming into the news. People travel from near and far to see this picture for themselves; and it is said to be the most sublime expression in all art of the baffling enigma known as woman. Everything about it breathes romance. What lies behind that sphinx-like countenance? Is she smiling? If so, at what? I think it was J. B. Morton who said she is murmuring: "On your way, Sailor," while others see merely boredom in her expression.

The picture has seen many a troubled past. The Duke of Buckingham fell completely in love with it, and many attempts have been made to steal it so that at one time it was removed from public exhibition. In fact before the First World War, it was stolen and remained untraced for nearly three years. Then a few years ago, a man driven crazy by the continuous contemplation of the smile, slashed it with a razor, and as you probably all know poor Mona was attacked again later by the Bolivian gentleman armed with a stone. Fortunately, the damage was slight and effectively repaired, to the relief of millions of admirers.

Since the sixteenth century, this countenance has troubled so many. Therefore it is not surprising that stamps bearing this picture should trouble a stamp dealer called Dan Bishop. Dan wrote and told us that the sheets of stamps were driving him crazy! Then, for a while, there was silence, and it came as a great surprise to us when our correspondent informed us that Dan had passed on to celestial quarters. Did the portrait on these stamps torment this dealer as they have done with men in centuries past? However, despatches are not explicit on this point except to say that the sheets were still intact in his stock, which we were privileged to purchase. You can have from Dan's stock four distinct parcels.

Now we offer a special parcel of mint stamps but we promise we will not include any Mona Lisa because it is far too risky! For $3 we will send you the most interesting accumulation you have ever seen. You can have from Dan's stock four distinct parcels.

International Adventure

Julius Weiss
502 E. 185th St.
Cleveland 19, Ohio

Our column of October 23 was hardly on the newsstands when we began to receive letters asking us to do the story on the African decimal overprints. We could use many columns to do this, so shall start the article today and readers may clip this for future reference. Since our column is based on international news we cannot write a series on one subject, however, in future weeks we shall do additional columns on these overprints.

We are not going into the many varieties such as pointed "2's", odd fraction marks and the like. It is the plan of this material to bring out the highlights of what in our opinion will be some of the scarcest British philatelic paper of our time. Some collectors will never see all of the items mentioned as they are rare in the extreme.

Bechuanaland, the country we mentioned in our recent columns is the philatelic adventure for today. It overprinted a set of Queen Elizabeth stamps with the new Rand values. The first printing, all heavy black ink, in sheets of 60 contained 1c, 2c, 2½c on 2d; 2½c on 3d, 3½c on 4d, 5c on 6d, 10c on 1/-, 12½c on 2/6 50c on 5/-, and 1R on 10/-

The quantity ranged from 5700 sheets of the 1c on 1d to 30 sheets of the 1R. This last did not reach the U.S. in any quantity, and here is the story as received from the home area.

This rather small "R1" is in the center of the stamp. The local stock at Lobatsi was about 1800 stamps (30 sheets). They were sent to Pretoria to be printed. Some 8000 which the Crown Agents sent did not reach Pretoria, hence, the small printing. In fact, no one expected a difference in the print; here is what happened to the 1800.

Some 400 copies were sent to Switzerland to the UPU and the post office promptly sold the balance (1400). The local philatelic society got 500 and kept about 250 mint (in sets with the lower values) and the other half were posted as first day covers. The PO sold a few over the counter in the normal way.

Residents purchased some to send to relatives and friends in other countries and the few left went to dealers (some reported to the U.S.) in Europe, roughly half mint and half FDC's.

To sum it up, there are about 700 mint and 700 on FDC's in the world, of the genuine rather small print Bechuanaland 1R on 10/-. The prices today are fantastic—and moving up by the minute.

The lower values do not have much of a story, although there are in our opinion a few that are just as good and perhaps better than the 1R. Before we get into that phase, however, we must mention the 2½c on 3d blue.

Some 2000 sheets (120,000 stamps) are reported by officials; however it is understood that a rather small quantity was actually printed. Some thousands were called back from the printer at Pretoria as they were needed for December and January current use. Therefore, the 120,000 quote is not a true picture.

This stamp reached the U.S. in the complete sets and in short sets. In fact, many a short set through the 10c value sold for about 85c as new issues and of course they contained the 2½c on 3d (blue) value. Of course, a 2½c on 2d is of little value as a collectors item.

Now come the gems—many dealers and collectors are not aware that the 3½c issue had a first printing of 900 sheets or some 54,000 examples. Examine all examples for each sheet contained a so-called "Type 1" with a short middle bar in center of figure "3". (The short bar comes on 38 stamps on each sheet). Type II is the figure "3" with a long center bar and it comes on 22 stamps on each sheet.

This now gives us the Type I and Type II on one sheet, and these must be divided amongst some eight stamps located in the last vertical row of ten. On these eight on each sheet there appears the so-called "wide C". This means there is a displaced "C" much to the right of the 3½".

FINAL CLEARANCE SALE

As stated in previous ads, we are liquidating our entire stock and retiring from business after 32 years as a full-time dealer. During this time we have found that the best way to sell thousands of stamps and covers in a hurry is to offer them in bargain lots. This sale includes the largest and most varied assortments we have ever advertised. The supply of several is limited so don't delay. ORDER YOURS NOW. Our money-back guarantee applies to all sales; we want you to be satisfied.

U. S. STAMPS

U. S. 1—300 USED AIR MAILS, COMMEMS, OLD ISSUES, ETC. A fine lot of 19th. and 20th. Cent. for perf varieties, shades, etc. Rich in good commems, early issues, coils, imperfs and high value postage. No cut squares, precancels or current low val. postage. Our most popular and best selling packet. Many dealers buy these to mount on approval sheets as they are less than wholesale at $3.00

U. S. 2—400 USED GRADE "B" and others below the quality required for U. S. 1. Discards because of heavy cancels or defects go into these but specialists like them for perf initials, guide lines, numerals and other modern cancels. Over 400 postage and commems only $1.00

U. S. 3—40 USED AIRMAILS at least 30 vars. incl. Lindberg (retail .45) "long maps", "clippers" high vals. mostly very fine—another good value at a wholesale price $2.00

U. S. 4—150 PRECANCELS—all that we have except common Chicago and New York go into these. Buros and Locals, Coils, Commems, old and recent— we always sell all we have and buyers want more. Please, only 2 lots to a customer. $1.00

U. S. 5—CUT SQUARES from first issue; colored papers, several revalued used and unused—not checked for die varieties so there is a good chance for "sleepers" at only 4c each. $2.00

U. S. 6—75 "GRADE B" STAMPS. Cat. val. over $60.00, many scarce stamps with defects that cat. up to $8.00 ea. If your budget is limited, here is your chance to fill those empty spaces at a minimum cost Only 15% of Cat. All regular issues and commems, no revs. or cut squares. Many of these look as good as those usually seen. $9.00

U. S. 7—35 PLATE NUMBER SINGLES, all diff. 15 are unused, many retail 15c to 25c ea. Excellent variety from 1918 to date—commems, air mails and postage issues. These are becoming very popular. All for $2.00

U. S. 8—100 REVENUES. The Civil War & 1898 "Battleships" are worth what we ask for the entire packet but you also get a good variety of later issues—Wines, Docs, Dateds, Tax Paid, Playing Cards, etc. etc. $3.00

U. S. 9—CHRISTMAS & EASTER SEALS. A large assortment of over 250. The Christmas Seals are complete in singles from 1920 to 1950 and blocks from 1930 to 1950. The Easter Seals are nearly complete in both singles and blocks incl. the scarce first issue of 1934. ..... $1.00

U. S. 10—UNUSED WITHOUT GUM. We have accumulated hundreds of stamps in singles and blocks that were stuck to album pages; these are soaked off and without gum. We divided them into lots, each containing 7 plain blks and 8 commem. plate blks. and enough singles to make $2.50 face. There is a good var. of early commems and other issues, mostly before 1945 You get them for little more than the price of used. $3.00

U. S. 11—20 USED COMMEM BLOCKS. A fine, clean assortment, all diff. From Wash. Bicents to 1959, an extra good value as 5c issues will be included while they last also a 1947 Cipex Sheet, only 5c per blk. $1.00

UNITED STATES COVER LOTS

C1—45 OLD COVERS incl. 3 stampless and a good variety of the early issues—3c 1861, 3c greens, 2c red brown #210, 1c blues, early commems and other issues to 1920. Some have adv. corner cards, small town postmarks; R.P.O. and other scarce cancellations; all small sizes $3.00

C2—35, 20TH CENTURY COVERS. A good variety of commems, coils and postage mostly from 1900 to 1920 also a few air mails and any we could find that looked interesting—cachets, adv. slogans, oddities, Highway post office cancels and many others at only 6c a cover. $2.00

C3—40 ENTIRES (Printed Envelopes) From First Issue to 1958, (no current ovals) At least 25 major varieties, incl. colored papers, revalued 1920-25 & 1958, used and mint. Some cat. 50c or more, not checked for die vars. All small sizes. At the price of cut squares. $2.00

C4—25 UNUSED ENTIRES & WRAPPERS.. All diff. several sizes and dies. A fine clean lot, mostly older issues. Recent include revalued Air Mails & UC31 (cat. 1.00) and "albino" or freak print & other good ones. $3.00

C5—25 AIR MAIL COVERS, A good variety of air mail stamps and envelopes. Cachets, First Flights, Dedications, Special Events, etc. The first Air Mail Envelope, UC1 and the 8c UC7 (Cat. 90c) are included. $2.00

C6—20 NAVALS & SHIPS, all diff. Several of these are from ships that made history in World War II. Mostly with commems, cachets, colored cancels and other attractive features. An "Old Ironsides" will be included while they last. All are small sizes. $2.00

C7—30 POSTAL CARDS, 10 unused, 20 used, incl. Reply Cards; A Grant Reply Card (cat. 1.00) is among the good ones. These have become very popular and retail prices are double what we ask for such a fine lot. $2.00

C8—40 OFFICIAL ADV. SLOGANS. These are on stamped covers and should not be confused with meters. Used to publicize Expositions, The Red Cross, Anniversaries, Civic Events, etc. between 1915 & 1959. With each lot we also send a pkt. of 15 on pieces cut from large sizes or damaged covers. We have cut the price in half to sell out our large stock. $1.00

C9—50 MILITARY COVERS, DOCUMENTS & MISCL. mostly from both world wars but we have included 4 interesting Civil War pieces. It is difficult to describe this lot but there are used and unused patriotics, Official covers to U. S. Navy, covers & cards from military camps and anything we could find to add historic interest. The last time we advertised these we had over a hundred orders. 3.00

C10—PHILATELIC STATION COVERS—12 diff. from 1928, Midwest Ex. in Cleveland to 1958, Special Cancellations for A.P.S., S. P. A. and other conventions, each with Commem stamps of the period. Most of these have sold at 25c to 50c ea. We only have enough for 20 lots. A beautiful lot at a bargain price $2.00

C11—DOCUMENTS WITH REVENUES and Revenue Stamped Paper, 30 diff. 10 are Civil War Docs. (Cat. Val. over 4.00) 10 are Span. Am. War and Miscl, and 10 are Printed Revenues on checks, incl. B20, cat. 1.50, G3, Cat. 1.50 and other good ones. Few dealers could offer such a lot to the specialist at such a low price. $3.00

C12—20 MISCL. COVERS WITH CACHETS, mostly Special Events with commems (not Air Mails) from 1930 to 1940 A Byrd "Little America" Cover (original cost .50) and others that will surprise you are in every lot at only 10c each. $2.00

BOX NO. 1. U.S. COVERS, MIXTURES, ODDS & ENDS

Here is a box full of enjoyment for the average collector. After making up the lots for this sale we still had thousands of covers left over and several boxes of mixtures and odds and ends. This was divided and fills several dozen shoe boxes, each containing: Over 200 covers and cards of all kinds and sizes that did not fit into regular lots. These include Hotels, Adv. Slogans, Flags, Cachets, Air Mails and a few of nearly all covers advertised.

A large pkt. of 250-300 Christmas and Easter Seals mostly blks. 1930-1950 not sorted for secret marks etc.

One of our regular No. 2 Lots of 400 Used U.S.

Dozens of Odds and Ends such as old checks with revs. Ohio River Way Bills, old price-lists, documents with Revenues and anything we found to add variety.

An old stamp paper or two printed before 1900. You will enjoy reading these and seeing the prices stamps sold for sixty or more years ago.

Our experience has shown us that what is "junk" to one collector is just what another is looking for. We had this in mind while assembling these. This box would make an interesting program for your Stamp Club.

The weight of these boxes is 3 lbs. so we must ask you to add 40c (stamps accepted) to help pay postage and handling. Limit 2 per customer. Per Box $6.00

FOREIGN COVER LOTS

For years I have collected the finest covers that we found with attractive stamps, cancellations, etc. I do not like to tear the stamps off any cover that is in good condition. Some nice covers add interest to any album.

FC1—25 CANADA, a good var. of stamps incl. Air mails and 2 fine First Days in each lot. You get them for less than 5c a cover. $1.00

FC2—10 CANADA AIR MAILS, mostly cacheted covers with C1 and 5c commems. Our price is less than the retail value of the stamps. $1.00

FC3—25 BRITISH COLONIES. Some beautiful covers representing at least 15 dif. Colonies & Dominions. Burma, Ceylon, Egypt, Gold Coast and other good ones. $2.00

FC4—25 CAMEROONS. As little commercial mail comes to the U. S. these are not common on cover. Fine, attractive stamps and a good var. $2.00

FC2—35 CENTRAL & SOUTH AMERICA—some nice combinations, air mails etc. from nearly all these countries. Some are censored World War II. $2.00

FC6—20 CUBA. Early ones are scarce, latter now hard to get. $2.00

FC7—35 FRANCE & COLONIES—some of these from the Colonies are not common on covers; unusual and attractive; you will be proud to show them. $2.00

FC8—15 GERMANY 1920-23 INFLATION ISSUES, also pre-war and later—some high values $1.00

FC9—25 GREAT BRITAIN. A good variety incl. early issues, also 3 stampless. $2.00

FC10—30 MEXICO. About half are Air Mails incl. the early ones. A big find of these several years ago makes this an unusual lot. $2.00

FC11—25 PHILLIPPINES. The older ones make this a real bargain. Mostly commercial covers. Few Republic issues in this lot. $2.00

FC12—15 PHILIPPINE FIRST DAYS. A beautiful lot of early Republic issues from 1946 to 1950 with special cancellations. High Cat. Val. $2.00

FC13—50 MISCL. FOREIGN. A world-wide lot made up from all the countries listed above and others we can find to add variety. This makes a fine collection. $3.00

FC14—FOREIGN POSTAL STATIONERY—15 diff. mostly cards, but a few Entire and Letter Sheets, Hawaii, Brit. Cols., Mexico and other attractive pieces, some are illustrated. Now very popular. $1.00

FOREIGN "JUMBO" LOTS

We have on hand several thousand mint and used foreign that are filed in boxes by countries. We do not have time to sort and catalog them so they have been well mixed and made up by weight into these "JUMBO" sized lots. Pictorials, broken sets, old and recent issues, sleepers and high cat. val. are in them. Do not compare these with common mixtures made up abroad as a big variety is in ea. and the better stamps should make them attractive and be worth more than our price for the entire lot.

W. W. I — WORLD-WIDE — 500 from all over the world. The "left-overs" from above lots also dozens of smaller countries that we only had in limited quantities were well mixed to make up this fine mixture. We also included 10 used blocks in each. A real "world-wide" lot at an attractive price $2.00

BOX NO. 2—FOREIGN MIXTURES & COVERS

We have accumulated dozens of broken "kilo" lots and other boxes of foreign mixtures, mostly on paper from all over the world. This has been well mixed and divided into one pound lots. You will not get hundreds of copies of only a few stamps as we estimate that over 50 countries are represented. Then we added at least 100 covers and cards from the surplus we had left over after the cover lots were made up. These include several fine covers from Cameroons, British Colonies, French Colonies, Central & South America and many other countries. This is an unusual and desirable lot as much of the material was bought years ago and is not found in mixtures being sold today. $4.00

As the mailing weight is 3 lbs. we must ask buyers to send 40c (stamps accepted) to help pay postage and handling.

BONUS LOT U. S. AT FACE

$3.00 FACE VALUE—all 3c Commemoratives, mostly blocks between 1945 and 1956. If your order for other lots in this advt. amounts to $10.00 or more you can buy one of these at face. There will be 10 to 15 diff. blocks all with full gum, just as bought at the Philatelic Agency. Those you don't need in your collection or for trading can always be used for postage. We repeat $3.00 FACE for $3.00

These prices make it easy to pay in currency and save the bother and expense of money orders, checks, etc; I will be responsible for currency up to $10.00 sent by regular first class mail. However, remit by personal check or whatever is most convenient. If your order is less than $10.00 send 20c in stamps to help pay the postage and handling. On orders above $10.00 we pay the postage except on the boxes of mixture. No credit slips issued. Prompt refunds if sold out or if for any reason you are not satisfied. SEND YOUR ORDER TODAY.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the thousands of collectors all over the country whose patronage has made the past 32 years so pleasant. I will miss the friendly contacts with many of you but will continue to operate my personal service and take care of cover want-lists on a part time basis. I am having too much fun to stop now.

New Collectors Club Book On French Area

Just off the press is "French Colonies, The General Issues", by Robert G. Stone. Published by the Collectors Club, 22 E. 35th St., New York 16, N. Y. as Handbook No. 11 of the Theodore E. Steinway Memorial Publication Fund, it is of 118 pages with 61 illustrations and 28 tables; paper bound, price $2.

This hand book by one of the recognized students of French philately, whose contributions have requently gained philatelic honors, offers a detailed study of the issues from 1859 to 1891.

Two important factors receive careful discussion: the production of the stamps in France is explained in a scholarly manner, and postal history is treated at length by showin the use of postmarkings and cancellations.

There is also a thorough study of each of the general French Colonial issues including essays, proofs, reprints, and counterfits.

This work contains most helpful statistics showing the quantities of stamps printed and used, together with a breakdown of these within each colony. It is recommended to all philatelists, as a model treatment of one specialized field.

This gives us the following breakdown 29,700 of the Type I; 4500 of the Wide "C" type IA; 17,100 of the Type II and a mere 2700 of the Wide "C" Type IIA.

These stamps were used on covers by collectors and non-collectors. Some are in the cheap low value sets which reached the U.S. In our opinion the wide "C" type II is a very scarce item and should be obtained as soon as possible. Many dealers yet have it quite low in price.

There is a type III of this value, in thinner, narrower letters but it is of little value.

There were two printings of the 1c, 3½c, 5c, and 1R. (the latter also had a third printing). The second printings are high with the exception of 134 sheets of the 1R. (here is a larger "1R" located in lower left center of stamp. It was selling for about $12 in the States in early November).

A third type 1R. on 10/- (some 500 sheets of 60 and 100 sheets of 30) was printed by De La Rue from Waterlow plates. This is not scarce.

We are not going into the postage dues at this time, but we can report some of the errors of the regulars which found their way in the world.

One sheet of 60 (10c) was found with a missing overprint on one row. Part of it was destroyed at a PO counter before the error was noticed. It appears the 10c was shifted to the left on the sheet with the left-hand margin getting the overprint and the last stamp in the row (horizontal) not getting it.

One sheet was found (2½c on 2d) which had a shift to the bottom of the sheet so that the top horizontal row (line of 6) did not have an overprint.

The 10c, 25c and 50c values had various printings but they are all alike although some claim various color changes, figure variations and the like. It is not expected that these items will be noted as such in catalogs.

There is a 12c on 1/3 making the rounds with the "1" of the "12" looking as it were a double "1". However, this is merely a printer's flaw and not a variety.

Many readers ask where to obtain the material. We mentioned the postal stationery may be obtained from a Linn advertiser and we will send his name for a stamped self addressed envelope.

As for the adhesives, we mention that readers should watch the ads in Linn's and we are not joking. A display ad appeared for at least two editions of a firm in this country which has some of the material. The ad was well placed and we do not know how many are yet in stock.

These then are the highlights of the Bechuanaland stamps, but we must announce the latest word just received from Africa: A new Swaziland 25c on 2/6 with a Type II (rather thin and narrow) and located in the Type I (lower left-hand corner) position has now been seen. All Swaziland overprints were withdrawn from sale sometime ago. There are no more.

Also, Basutoland used some postage stamps as Revenues, and some which have been noted are overprints "R1 Revenue" on 10/- postage stamps. The £5 revenue stamp is overprinted "R1". Also the £1 Revenue is overprinted "R2" with the £5 Revenue overprinted "R10". We have not yet seen these in the U.S. but they will come. The quantities are not yet known.

Some other flash news: Republic of South Africa issued a 5c air-letter sheet with a dark blue imprinted stamp on some experimental paper. Some time in October a new redesigned sheet came along with different paper. The overprinted postal stationery (air-letter sheets and cards) is a story in itself and we shall tell it soon.

We do not ask readers to send us any pictures or any of these stamps to identify. We shall try to have them pictured in the future but we shall try to describe them all in due time. We know many types exist, and we are in contact with officials, experts and collectors who have the full story—and we shall try to tell it.

Needless to say we know there are many which we shall not mention for there is nothing unusual about them. We shall try to bring out just highlights. We must ask readers not to inquire about this or that overprint, as we do not have the time for such special requests.

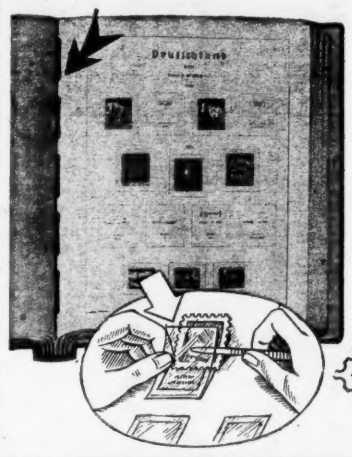

Clip this column; we shall refer to it along with others from time to time. We can only say now that readers who wish something scientific, something new, some genuine collectors items, should obtain all the decimal values they can afford. They are the gems of our time.

WANT A NEW EXCITING BEAUTIFUL COLLECTION?

We have just issued album pages for single Canadian plate blocks of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth II and for Commemorative Plate Blocks of Canada. They are beautiful, every issue is illustrated; they are educational, every stamp is explained; they are reasonable, each set of pages is only $3.50.

Either set of album pages makes a thoughtful gift—for Christmas, birthday,—or treat yourself to a new collecting experience. You must see these pages to appreciate how interesting and satisfying they are. They can be completed and maintained by the average collector. Even the novice will know exactly how to complete his or her collection, and will be thrilled with it.

Each page is of 90 lb. index stock, rag-content paper. They are punched to fit the standard 3-ring binder (and special binders will soon be available for these very pages).

PLATE BLOCKS OF CANADA:

Reign of Queen Elizabeth II ----------$3.50

Commemorative Plate Blocks of Canada (Reign of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth II) ----------$3.50

These album pages were designed especially to bring pleasure and education to the average collector—and they will do that for you. Order now and see how much enjoyment awaits you in this new "specialty for everyone". See your dealer for them—or write directly to us.

WHAT IS A STARTER COLLECTION?

Everyone knows that much of the cost of buying plate blocks one-at-a-time is the labor and expense of handling. We have done something about this. We have started so many new collectors on Canadian plate blocks that we have made up several collections at one time to enable these new collectors to benefit in savings that are quite large.

These starter collections below are designed to fit into the album pages for Canadian plate blocks we have issued. They are single plate blocks of Canada, selected to give you a basic representation immediately in the albums. Buy any one of them and you will be off to a pleasurable start—at big savings.

Starter collections of Canadian plate blocks

ISSUES OF QUEEN ELIZABETH II

WHY . . . did we . . . pay up to $1 a set . . . refuse $2 a set . . . and sell for 40c a set?

To deliver on our new issue service—that's why! We deliver all Canadian plate blocks in matched sets—at issue—ON APPROVAL. AND WE DO DELIVER. In October 1961 we delivered the new 040-8N plate block at our regular new issue price of 15c a block in 1 matched set of 4; 12c a block in 5 set orders and 10c a block on orders of 10 or more sets. Meanwhile we were paying up $1.00 a set to get them! We turned down offers of $2 per set to sell them as low as 40c—delivery AS PROMISED on our new issue service. The sets we delivered at 40c had a retail price of at least $4.00 at the time of delivery.

This is why we have the largest new issue service in Canadian plate blocks—both retail and wholesale. We send them ON APPROVAL. You see what you buy before you pay. Our prices are lowest due to our volume—for example—on new 5c commemorative plate blocks—1 matched set of 4 at 40c a block; 5 sets at 30c a block, and for dealer or investor 10 matched sets or more at 27c a block.

As an "extra" with any order you may have as many mint stamps of the new issue as you want AT FACE. And centering has to please YOU. On the 1961 5c Meighen centering was poor and we had to buy more than double our normal stock to find acceptable plate blocks to send to our customers.

Collector-dealer-investor—simply send us a post card, telling us exactly what you want ON APPROVAL in mint stamps and Canadian plate blocks, plus references—and we'll do the rest.

YOU'LL NEVER MISS ANOTHER PLATE BLOCK OF CANADA.

CHARITY SEAL COLLECTING

Amy Ellen Davis
Chicago 46, Ill.

Homeopathy may well be "all Greek" to most of us (an expression we are so apt to use when puzzled by anything) for that is exactly what the origin of the word is: from the Greek homoios meaning "similar" and pathos meaning "suffering".

In 400 B.C. Hippocrates suggested a Law of Cure, and wrote "Through the like, disease is produced and through the application of like, it is cured." Explaining this further: substances which can create emotional, mental and physical changes in a healthy person have the ability to remove these changes when they arise spontaneously in an ill person.

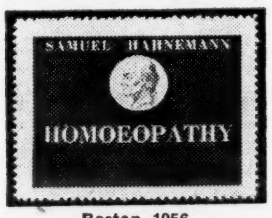

Boston 1955

This belief lay buried with history until Samuel Hahnemann, one of the world's greatest scholars and researchers, came across it in his studies. He set forth to prove its truth and workability and preented it to the world in 1796 as the Law of Cure, naming it Homeopathy.

Samuel Christian Friedrich Hahnemann, a German physician, was born in Meissen, Saxony in 1775. He received his medical degree at the University of Erlangen in 1779.

While in practice in Leipzig in 1790 he became interested in the similarity between the effects of quinine and other drugs upon healthy persons, and the symptons of the diseases for which the drugs served as remedies. Thus he was confronted by the old Law of Hippocrates: like must cure like. In 1810 he published his "Organon" where he treated this subject, called "homeopathy".

New ideas always meet with opposition, and because of the objections of apothecaries he was forced to leave Leipzig, but in 1821 he was appointed court physician to the duke of Anhalt-Kothen, thus enjoying a welcome to Kothen. He went to Paris in 1835 and there built up a wide practice. He died in 1843.

Since Hahnemann, thousands of physicians and scientist have proved the truth and worth of this Law which has become practical and, in the hands of its best prescribers, successful. A more thorough apprehension of the Law has been brought about by better understanding of electricity, and the "atomic age" has brought its truth and use even closer.

In TIME magazine for October 8, 1956 Dr. Francis Ody of Geneva, one of the foremost surgeons of Europe envisioned the decline of his profession with this statement:

Washington 1959

"No more operative shock, no more anguish, no more pain. All the victories which have been the pride of brilliant surgeons will be forgotten on the day when a medical genius, a laboratory man, chemist or physician, discovers the substance which, in the form of a capsule, will capture the sources of energy that will bring recovery within hours."

This is precisely what homeopathy does. This is why the American Foundation of Homeopathy, realizing the deep need for further education and research in this field has for its aims:

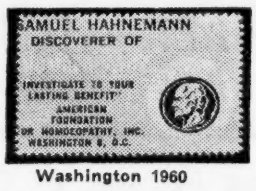

To promote the art of healing according to the natural laws of cure from a strictly homeopathic standpoint;

To establish and direct centers for the study and understanding of Homeopathy, together with research work in any correlated subject;

To diffuse knowledge among the laity concering homeopathic principles;

To serve as a reference center for all that relates to Homeopathy,

To serve as a repository for homeopathic literature and drugs.

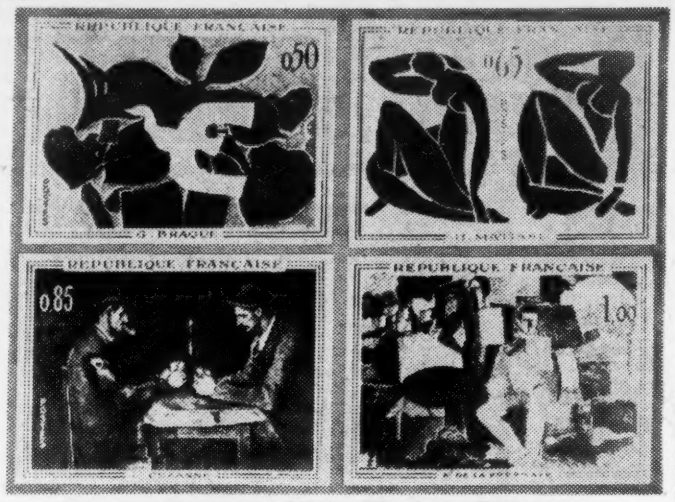

Washington 1960

So that physicians may go on to higher post-graduate learning, the Foundation conducts its own Post-Graduate School for Physicians in Homeopathy, and this course is available to all physicians holding the M.D. or M.B. (British) degree from an accredited medical school or the D.C. degree (with unlimited scope of practice).

To raise needed funds the Boston chapter of the Foundation, on the bicentenary of the birth of Samuel Hahnemann in 1955, issued seals, printed in black on yellow paper and dated 1755-1955.

Again in 1956 this chapter issued a seal printed in red and black on white paper. The home office of the Foundation at Washington, D. C. issued one in 1959, printed in green and black on white paper, and again in 1960 a blue and black design on white paper.

All seals were issued in sheets of 50 (5 x 10) and all show a head of Samuel Hahnemann.

France Features Four Modern Paintings

France has announced the November 13 issuance of a set of four stamps in horizontal format featuring four famous examples of the modern school of painting. Information presently available is skimpy, but photographs of the newcomers are revealing.

Values are 50, 65, and 85c and one franc. The designs show in order "The Dove" by G. Graque; "Blue Nudes" by H. Matisse; "The Game of Cards" by P. Cezanne; and "July 14" by R. de la Fresnaye.

Scandinavian Area Philatelic Activity

Axel Miltander
Bevaringsgatan 11
Gothenburg, Sweden

I have received a lot of nice letters from you and am so thankful. It feels wonderful to have so many friends!

Today I shall answer some letters and questions of general interest. First of all; if you collect Scandinavia, why not be a member of the Scandinavian Collectors Club? I think it would help you much in your collecting. All information will be given if you write to A. O. Olson, Rm. 906, 30 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

"How will the situation be handled, when the intention is to issue stamps each year honoring a Nobel winner of 60 years previous, when several years produced no awards, and some years only one or two awards?" Harold Alter of Downsview, Canada asks.

May I say that I cannot answer that question. But the problem will appear so far in the future that I think the Swedish and Norwegian Post Office officials will have the solution at that time.

Egges A. Das in Haworth, N. J. wants to know which catalogs are the most popular in Sweden. Answer: For Europe, the Zumstein; for overseas, Yvert; and for Scandinavia, Facit.

Margie H. Sterken, Grand Rapids, Mich. and several other readers want to know the face value of the coming Dag Hammarskjold stamps. The denominations are not announced so far. But as soon as possible, they will be reported in Linn's.

Mrs. Lowell Hellard and many more have a question: "What is the rate of exchange?" Answer: One Swedish Crown is about 20c or $1 is 5.15C.

Ralph Potter in Cadet, Mo., hopes that the Scandinavian GPO's will continue their policy and keep out of so-called philatelic agencies.

Yes, Mr. Potter, they will. A private philatelic agency is nothing desirable for a county which wants to live also in the future. We are collecting stamps, printed for postal purposes, not as collecting items.

"Stamps as investment depend more upon the quality than upon the country they come from," a reader tells me.

I must say both "yes" and "no". Stamps as investment must always be of good quality. But I promise you, that U.S. stamps are always a better investment than canceled-to-order stamps from countries behind the iron curtain.

These are given free to some groups of people to be passed along to collectors as political labels. Do you invest in political posters?

We must not think too much of investment in our collecting, but as each stamp we buy is a little investment, we must have the situation clear for us, especially if we buy more valuable stamps.

The day may come, when you and I must sell our collections. Then you will find that stamps from a country with a good stamp policy will be the best ones to have.

The U. S. and Sweden are similar in many ways, not only in standard of living but also in their stamp policies. Stamps are never invalid for postal use. They always represent a face value and will do so in the future except for some few items (for instance the Civil War issues in the States). That is nothing to worry about—stamps are something of a gilt-edged security.

COMPEX REPEATS HELP TO PEOPLE-TO-PEOPLE PROGRAM. Short notice was given to COMPEX (Combined Philatelic Exhibition of Chicagoland, Inc.) to aid in stuffing approximately 18,000 prepared foreign addressed envelopes for the Sun Yat-sen commemorative stamp which was placed on sale at Washington, D.C. October 11. Even so, 35 members and their families of various components of COMPEX responded to the emergency call at the Hotel La Salle where the job was done in a matter of a few hours. The covers were then re-shipped to Washington in time to have the new commem affixed and to be mailed on schedule. COMPEX had dedicated its 1960 exhibition to the People-To-People Program. Now in the planning stage is the 1962 exhibition which will feature the United Nations with a suggested theme of "Towards United Nations".

I think collectors of the world are discovering this fact these days. Very many Swedes collect U.S. and Sweden seems to be more and more popular amongst collectors in America. Each day I get letters from five persons there who tell me they are starting to collect Scandinavia.

I have been writing in Linn's Weekly Stamp News for two and a half year now, but never before I have heard about such a big interest in our little part of the world. We are very glad for that. Stamps help us to build up bridges between our countries, to understand each others better and better.

Why are these collectors starting to collect Sweden or Scandinavia?

I tried to find an answer on this question and checked 30 letters. About 50 per cent said they changed from an "Agency country" to a new field with philatelic reputation and responsibility. d

And what does this new, increasing interest mean for the local market?

The Swedish Philatelic Agency—a department of the GPO of the same type you have in the U.S.—told me it disposed of 500,000Cr. worth of stamps in Stockholm in September; 55,000Cr. in Gothenburg, and 35,000Cr. in Malmo.

It is the highest ever noted, and about 30 per cent higher than 1960. It resulted in several denominations being sold out.

In which stamps are the collectors most interested?

In all stamps, of coure, but there is one special and uncommon item many ask for. Look at the block of four pictured here; it is from a booklet pane used in vending machines. The face value is one Crown (20c).

Four different kinds of this block exist, as the 10o. stamp can be found in each corner. If you would like to have this unusual set, I will send it to you at face.

You will get four different mint blocks in the letter (80 cents) and another used on the cover as postage (20c). In total it will cost you $1.

That's my offer this week. So long and see you later!

The British Post Office

The British Post Office celebrated its 300th anniversary last year. In 1660 during the reign of Charles II mounted post boys trotted their ponies along rustic lanes to deliver the mails; today, electronic machines sort letters at the rate of 6000 an hour. Mail deliveries in Charles' day were uncertain to say the least. Today a letter mailed before 6:30 p.m. will be delivered almost anywhere in the country the following morning. Every 24 hours the Post Office, quite apart from all its other business, collects, sorts transports and delivers 26 million letters and cards, 80 percent of which are not mailed until after 6 p.m.

The Post Office which now includes Britain's Telephone and Telegraph Service and Post Office Savings Bank is the biggest retailer in the country. It employs over 360,000 people, 90,000 of them mailmen, operates a fleet of 37,000 mail and engineering vans and controls the schedules of 335 trains—fifty of these trains being operated solely for the Post Office.

Rogues And Pioneers

The history of the post office is an exciting and colorful one. It is a story tinged with roguery and cloak-and-dagger tactics: of monarchs dipping their fingers into the postal revenues and equally sharp practices by government officials; of mail coaches racing to beat the darkness and highwaymen lurking in the shadows. It is also a story of great achievements that pioneered postal services, not only in Britain, but throughout the world—the first post offices, early cross-country deliveries to small rural communities, armed mail coaches for express services and the world's first adhesive postage stamp.

Private Enterprise Mailmen

Officially the Post Office was established in 1660 in the reign of Charles II when Parliament passed on Act "for the erection and establishment of a Post Office." Unofficially post office history goes back to the 16th century, to the days of the first Queen Elizabeth, who appointed Thomas Randolph to be Master of the Queen's Posts. The Elizabethans were noted for their commercial enterprise and Master Randolph decided to supplement his small salary from Elizabeth by carrying letters privately.

This was a risky business for, then as now (though for different reasons), it was illegal to carry letters privately for payment. Official mail carrying enabled Elizabeth's ministers to keep a check on the plots constantly being hatched against her life. Nevertheless Randolph's trade flourished and others did well too.

These private enterprise mailmen, although strictly illegal, were responsible for some of the important early developments in postal services. For example, Thomas Witterings was the first man to start a regular parcel delivery service between England and the continent of Europe in the early 17th century.

Another, Captain John Manley, was so impressed with the financial possibilities of letter-carrying that he paid Oliver Cromwell the equivalent of $28,000 for the monopoly rights—a fantastic sum of those days. But it was in the interests of both Cromwell and Manley to limit unofficial mail carrying—Cromwell so that he could impose an iron censorship on all letters into and out of the country, and Manley because other carriers threatened his monopoly. Cromwell's stern measures against rival carriers succeeded and indirectly opened the way for the first official service.

The easy-going reign of Charles II enabled private enterprise carriers to flourish again and the official Post Office suffered heavily as a result. The most ingenious was a Mr. William Dockwra of London who started his own local "penny post" in 1680. In defiance of the Government's searchers employed to seek out violators he spotted 500 of his own private post offices across London.

His method was simple and impudent. Letters were collected by messengers every hour and delivered by his own men. In the case of out-of-town or overseas deliveries which were not economic for him to handle Dockwra simply handed them over the official Post Office.

The Government absorbed Dockwra's efficient penny post service in 1682. Twenty-two years later it upped the price to two pennies. But Dockwra's carriers were so bold that even after his offices were closed down they walked the streets ringing handbells making pick-up collections in bags.

Beating The Highwaymen

The primitive road system of late 17th Century England made letter carrying a difficult business. The Post Office confined its service along the so-called main roads to the big provincial cities. If you happened to live in the country districts you had to make what arrangements you could for letter delivery.

In 1719 an astute business man, Ralph Allen, organized a system of cross-country deliveries servicing rural areas. But the job of the carriers was a hazardous one. They were at the mercy of highwaymen who terrorized the lonely stretches of turnpike roads and defied the death penalty to rob the mails.

It took another milestone in Post Office history to remove this threat. Speedy "mail coaches" protected by armed guards marked the end of the highwaymen. Letters now reached their destination safely and travelers clamored to ride in the safe, swift coaches.

In the early 19th Century, in an era familiar to the readers of Dickens, the mail coaches were the fastest and most practical means of public transport maintaining advertised schedules, timed to the minute. The mail coach era was brought to an end with the coming of the railroads.

The first carriage of mail by railroad was from Liverpool to Manchester in 1830.

1840 — The First Stamp

The year 1840 saw the foundations of modern postal practice laid in Britain—and in the world—with the introduction by Rowland Hill of the uniform penny post, a system of postal charge of one penny per half ounce irrespective of the distance the letter was carried.

Hill's reforms were revolutionary. His first gummed stamp, the famous "Penny Black", bearing the Head of Queen Victoria, was issued on May 6, 1840.

Its immediate effect was disastrous for Hill. Post Office revenue fell and Hill was fired from his job in the Treasury. But before long the Post Office was paying its way again. His theories vindicated, Hill was re-engaged and later received a Knighthood. Meanwhile his ideas had been seized upon by countries all over the world. Postage stamps had arrived to stay.

First Public Telegraph

However mail delivery was and is only part of the Post Office's responsibilities. The first public electric telegraph service in the world was opened in 1839 between Paddington Station in London and Slough in Buckinghamshire.

The Post Office took over control of all inland telegraph systems in 1870. Teleprinter operation for inland transmission superseded the use of a variety of telegraph systems in 1928 and foreshadowed the completely automatic switching system which came into effect in 1954.

The first submarine cable across the English Channel (1851) and the first permanent cable across the Atlantic (1866, after three earlier attempts) led to the growth of a world-wide telegraphic network.

The overseas telegraph services were shared until 1950 between the Post Office and Cable and Wireless Ltd. This company was brought into public ownership in 1947. The Post Office acquired the United Kingdom services and operates all overseas tele-communications services from Britain, except for those offered by foreign telegraph companies. Cable and Wireless Ltd. continues to operate its cable and wireless service in a number of foreign territories.

A telex system allowing subscribers to communicate by teleprinter via an exchange with subscribers in Britain and overseas was instituted in 1932. Toward the end of 1960 inland transmission was fully automatic and in 1961 British subscribers were able to dial direct to many European countries.

Strides Toward Automation

Research into ways of speeding up mail deliveries is continuous. For quick transmission of mails within central London the Post Office has for 30 years operated an automatically controlled underground railway that runs 6½ miles connecting six intermediate stations. Improvements include electrical trucks for parcel deliveries controlled by a walking mailman and an ingenious apparatus by which bags of mail are delivered and collected by trains running at express speed. The Post Office has introduced machines for sorting letters and parcels and is experimenting with the use of postal codes on letters to enable mechanization of sorting to be extended. Automatic sorting machines are being developed in several countries but Britain is probably the first to use them for sorting ordinary mail posted by the public.

BRITISH POST OFFICE

Elsie, Alf And The Segregator

Three machines are now undergoing large-scale field trials.

The "Segregator" which can separate small packets and long and short envelopes at the rate of 72,000 items an hour.

"Alf" (Automatic Letter Facer). Four Alfs are needed to handle the output of one Segregator. They cancel the stamps and stack the letters into orderly piles.

"Elsie" (Electronic Letter Sorting and Indicator Equipment). Elsie can sort 6000 letters hourly into 144 different pigeon-holes and requires only one operator. A manual sorter can only handle 48 pigeon-holes.

The Post Office is presently carrying out a combination of experiments to assess the feasability of replacing all the manual sorting which takes place during the journey of a letter by two simple "coding" operations—one to get the letter to the office of delivery and one to direct it to the individual mailman's delivery round.

A similar mechanization drive is being directed toward solving parcel sorting problems. In two major cities machines capable of handling over 100 parcels a minute are being installed. But whether the sorting is done mechanically or by hand, the Post Office observes one strict rule: each day's mail is dealt with on the day it arrives. There must be no backlog.

Mescellaneous Service

At present letter sorting is costing Britain £16 million ($44.8 million) a year. Mechanization offers the best prospect of making any substantial reduction. The ultimate aim of the Post Office is to cut out the human element altogether in mail handling.

Prototype equipment for the experiment consists of two machines known as Letter Coders, a large box containing electronic memory equipment and an automatic letter-sorting machine. Letters are fed into the coding machine where they are coded by means of a pattern of spots—a different combination for each of Britain's 1800 post towns—stamped onto the surface in phosphorescent ink. The automatic sorting machine into which the letters then flow "reads" this pattern and directs each item into it correct pigeonhole.

The new equipment, still experimental, does away with all manual sorting, simplifies the work and operates at full speed without being tied to the speed or memory of the operator.

Miscellaneous Services

Mail delivery and running the country's telephone and telegraph services is only part of the story. Largely as a result of the extension of social legislation and the widening scope of social services the Post Office acts as agent for other Government Departments and Local Authorities. At the Post Office counter a citizen can draw his pension and family allowance, buy a license for his dog, car, radio or television set and buy National Insurance Stamps. The Post Office Savings Bank is the largest organization of its kind in the world. It has over 22 million active accounts representing some £1700 million ($4,760 million).

Although a government department, the Post Office is also a trading concern and is required to insure that its income is sufficient to meet its expenditure taking one year with another. Since 1956 the Post office has been required to contribute £5 million ($14 million) a year to the Exchequer—this being broadly the amount which it would have to pay in general taxation but for its exemption. Any remaining surplus (in the last financial year £3.3 million—$9.24 million) or deficit is carried into a general reserve account.

A plan to give greater commercial freedom to the Post Office is under consideration. Post Office finances would be severed from the Exchequer and the Postmaster General would have greater scope and responsibility for running the Post Office as a self-contained business.

This way it is felt the Post Office could continue to meet its social obligations but would be in a better position to adopt and develop as a business seeking to meet and anticipate its customer's demands.

SPECIAL PURCHASE
BR. COMMONWEALTH - FOREIGN - USA - BNA - BWI - GT. BRITAIN
COLLECTORS

If you are a collector of any of the above countries it will pay you to read down this ad as we have the past 24 hours made a very special purchase of whole world 19th - 20th century collections in albums stock books. Large accumulations of old mixtures, etc. This is part of an ex London dealers stock of about 500,000 stamps — so we feel there must be something here for most collectors or dealers.

#1 OLD TIME MIXTURE OF FOREIGN. In order to send these lots by airmail we have stripped down a number of old time albums and stock books in a large carton so that all stamps are off paper to save weight. There are stamps from many countries mainly 19th century guaranteed unsorted. It is quite impossible to elaborate on the host of stamps in these lots which are packed into special flat containers but from past experience we do know many collectors are going to have many hours of pleasure sorting and looking for those 'out of the way' items. Some of these lots were catalogued up and found to be in the region of one sixth - one eighth and more so one cannot go wrong with money refund guarantee or return any stamps for credit. Why not try one or two lots and forget all your troubles and the H Bomb. Please note various sizes lot A price $10.60, Lot B price $20.60, Lot C price $30.00. Bigger the lot - Bigger the assortment. (Kindly add 60c toward postage expenses, etc.). Ideal for filling those blank album pages!!

#2 OLD TIME MIXTURE OF WHOLE WORLD. These lots contain stamps from whole world collections 19th - 20th century. The same value and quantity as #1 - Prices are also the same. By the way, if you have any favorite countries we shall do our best to include in your lot - sent by airmail in special container.

#3 WORLD COLLECTIONS INTACT. We have a large number of album collections comprising all eras from 1840 onwards. Some of these albums are a life time accumulation of thousands of stamps, worth careful perusal, prices of intact album from $50, $65, $80, $100, to $500. (Sent by express surface mail) real good cat. value for money.

#4 VARIOUS IN CARTON/CONTAINING ALBUMS ETC. This is an accumulation of an ex-collectors property of several albums - stamps loose in round tins, cigar box, etc. covering whole world. 19th - 20th century rich in old classics Europeans with high values to £1 and dollars. We note a very nice selection of old USA with scarce high values such as $5 Columbus mint etc. also old items on covers. BNA and BWI well represented with out of the way stamps such as high values Jubilees Inc. choice mint $2 and $4 issues. 1897. A superb sheet of QU 1897 Gr. Black ½c of 100 with re-entries. Scarce in sheets. Also a very rare mint complete sheet of 1898 plate 1 of 100 stamps 2c Lavender map issue (only known sheet in England). Nice lot of Great Britain issues from 1840 with high values inc. superb £1 PUC 1929 Black mint. S.W. £1 mint etc. It is difficult to elaborate on the whole of this accumulation due to the thousands of stamps but can assure whoever purchases this lot will not be disappointed. Worth at least 600 - First customer secures - price $500. (It will pay to send a cable for this order)

#5 COLLECTION ITALIAN STATES. A very valuable collection of some hundreds stamps inc. Modena 1852 to 40c (6) and 1 Lira (unused) with varieties N.T. stamps and other, Naples 1858 to 10 Gr. (3) and 20 Gr. Neapolitian Provinces 2 Gr. with head inverted used, Parma of both types, Romagna to 20B. Roman States 1852 used to 50B and 1 SC (Damaged) and later, Sardinia 1851 SC and 40C, 1853 20C and 40, 1854 various with 1855-61 rich in shades to 80C (5) and 3 Lire, Sicily to 20 GR and 50 GR and Tuscany 1851-52 19 to 9C with shades, and many later. Also San Marino. Early Italy and few Italian Levant. The cat. value of this collection must be enormous, but condition is mixed which quite understandable for Italian States. However, this is quite a valuable lot and worthy of sorting out the defectives. (London auction valuation $155) our price $135.00.

#6 ACCUMULATION STAMPS ON ALBUM PAGES ETC. Covering Br. Commonwealth and foreign 19th - 20th century. This is a good lot of stamps and would fill many of those empty spaces in your albums which almost every collector faces the same problem. We note many nice sets. Also a numbr of old classics in BWI and BNA etc. USA represented in 19th century issues. Thousands stamps. Mint or fine Used. Catalog must be about 1/5 - 1/6th (worth at least $90). Our price $75.00.

#7 JOB LOTS OF ALL SORTS. Many collectors write to us asking if we can send a job lot or a mixture of stamps to sort out for about 5 to 8 dollars to suit their pocketwallets. So this week we have dumped many thousands of stamps covering all ages, whole world into a carton and making up special "Lucky Dips" or "Gamble Lots" whatever like to call them. Goodness knows what one might find amongst these lots as they are absolutely unsorted by us. One thing to be sure we know you will get value. So why not send a $5 or $8 bills for a lot to sort out these dark evenings. (Larger lots can be supplied if wished. IE boxfuls at $30)

#8 SPECIAL ALBUM FOR KGVI STAMPS. Containing some 100 stamps Aden to Zanzibar. This is a very beautiful album bound in Green and 22 ct. gold. Would form a wonderful base for further expansion. Several high vals. to £1 etc. to commence with mainly fine used. Also extra stamps with album. Cat. about one fifth. Well worth price of $60.

A FEW OF MANY RECENT TESTIMONIALS FROM OUR POSTBAG.

"Many thanks for another fine lot of stamps. I've certainly enjoyed going through them. Enclosed please find a further check for a similar lot". F.I. Gilbert, NFK Naval Base, NFK 11, Va.

"Just a note to tell you that the lot of stamps I recently received from you was the best that I have ever purchased. A truly fascinating assortment. I look forward to do further business with your firm. Please feel free to use this as a testimonial". George A. Simpson, Foster Ave., London Ont., Canada.

"You have made a convert out of me. I've only been collecting a few years, but never have I received fairer treatment - you show a definite effort to please etc. etc." D.M. Dears, Moye Place, Pittsburg 10, Pa.

Doings Of Shy "Mr. Marshall" Puzzle English Stamp Editor

An interesting, if decidedly unusual, circumstance has arisen recently on the British philatelic scene, according to the lead article in the October 13 issue of "Stamp Collecting" which is published in London, England. The editor's presentation of the matter follows:

Private individuals in different parts of the country have, within recent weeks, been receiving a duplicated circular headed "Stamps Securities, H. Marshall, Director, 4 Market Place, Oxford Circus, London, W.1." and giving the telephone number, Museum 3092. The circular begins "The Leading Service for Investors".

This foolscap document is couched in terms familiar to those acquainted with an earlier stamp investment service. It indicates the possibility of profits which "are tax-free capital gains".

It describes Stamp Securities as being "recognized as the leading firm specializing in stamps for capital gain" and "backing our confidence in our recommendations" by stating the "We charge no commission whatever".

Stamp Securities say they will supply at cost price, and "when the market is correct sell on the clients' behalf, taking half the profits, and making no other charges." With the circular there is enclosed a card inviting an application for further particulars.

Stamp Collecting is in possession of three examples of the further particulars supplied on application. These consist of another duplicated document on Stamp Securities letterheading.

Each document begins "Offer of Units in Syndicate No ..." and has blanks, for individual completion, stating the stamps offered, the period within which the holding "is almost certain" to be disposable "at a profit of not less than...per cent after that period, or pro rata during a lesser period should an earlier favourable opportunity for sale occur."

Next comes a paragraph beginning: "We are syndicating this offer in units of .... at £ .... per unit." At the foot of this document is an order form to be completed by an applicant wishing to participate in the scheme. Stamp Securities emphasize that the entire document has to be returned intact and that no money is to be sent to them at this stage.

The applicant undertakes to remit on being advised of his allotment and he then holds the stamps pending advice from Stamp Securities" of their saleability at a favourable capital profit."

Three different syndicate numbers appear on the three documents in the possession of Stamp Collecting. Three different lots of stamps are offered but in each case the blanks in the form are completed with the same particulars, namely, "six weeks" as the period after which a profit of not less than 20 per cent may be expected. This represents 136 2/3 per cent per annum.

Contacting Mr. Marshall is difficult—Stamp Collecting has endeavored to interview Mr. Marshall, so far without success. On Friday morning September 29, the editor telephoned Museum 3092. A woman answered and confirmed the number, but when the editor asked to speak to Mr. Marshall, she hung up without further ado.

The performance was repeated when a second call was put through. Another attempt was made the same afternoon.

This time, a man answered the telephone and, quite evidently, put the receiver down on a desk without intending to take any further action until the line was cleared by Stamp Collecting. This performance, too, was repeated.

A personal visit by the editor, in company with Cyril Harmer, followed, again on the same afternoon. Name plates on the door of 4 Market Place grouped the following: H. Marshall, Selective Mortgages, Howard Holden & Co., and Robert Bennett & Co., but there was no reference to Stamp Securities.

At a third-floor office the callers were received by a gentleman who said that Mr. Marshall was frequently there but was out just then. The walls of the small office, from which the other businesses with which Mr. Marshall appears to be associated are conducted, are decorated with pictures of race horses and other sporting scenes.

In Mr. Marshall's absence an appointment for Wednesday, October 4 was made. This was confirmed in writing by the editor with an invitation to vary the date and time if more convenient to Mr. Marshall. No reply was received.

The Editor and Mr. Harmer kept the appointment. Mr. Marshall did not.

This time, another gentleman admitted knowledge of the Friday afternoon call, explained that Mr. Marshall was out of town and asked what the callers wanted to see him for.

The editor said they wished to discuss Mr. Marshall's business with him. The answer was that Mr. Marshall did not want to buy stamps from either the editor or Mr. Harmer. The latter explained that neither of them wished to sell stamps to Mr. Marshall, but wished to discuss the business of Stamp Secuirties.

The interview ended on the third floor landing with a plain statement that Mr. Marshall did not intend to meet the callers and that they could do what they liked about it.

The gentleman who had received the editor and Mr. Harmer on the Friday afternoon was met accidentally on the stairs. On this occasion he denied ever having seen Mr. Marshall.

Howard Holden & Co., of 4 Market Place, appear in the London telephone directory with a Langham number. Robert Bennett & Co. do not appear in the current London telephone directory. Neither Mr. Marshall (as being at 4 Market Place), nor Stamp Securites appear in the directory, but, of course, there is no reason why they should.

Stamp Collecting invites Mr. Marshall to make himself known to its editor, who will be pleased to accord him editorial space in which to explain more fully how the stamps he handles on behalf of clients can secure for them profits of such a substantial nature in such a short time as six weeks.

The Third Strike

Col. A. C. Townsend

This is an absolutely true tale, without a bit of "touching up" of any kind. 'Way back in the 1890's I discovered and bought the first known copy of the 10c Baltimore, one of the two stamps issued by the Baltimore Postmaster, James M. Buchanan in 1846. That was a noble start in my stamp life, and I thought I was going to wind up with an even greater find—but I struck out.

Over two years ago I went to another Florida town to talk to the stamp club and, as usual, urged them to do some stamp hunting. I said that there were still many good lots of stamps and covers to be found in Florida.

Advertising is useless because people not interested in stamps simply will not read about them, but they can be unearthed by persistently talking to people about their possible sales value.

Since then some grand finds of both U.S. and Confederate stamps have been turned up down here, and several old collections and some fine early Canadians unearthed right here in my town of Clearwater.

Just an instance: a good friend had a lady pal of his wife's come in one morning at his home. She said, "You collect stamps, don't you?

"A widow friend of mine is packing up to move, and when I went in a little while ago to see if I could help her she was just stacking up some big books to go down to the incinerator. I asked what they were and she said they were her husband's old stamp collection that he used to kill time playing with!

"I told her that I had a friend who was a stamp collector and thought h'd be glad to have them. She said you'd be welcome to them. If you want them, follow me over in your car and get them."

He did .... four albums; many fine stamps. And she was going to burn them up as playthings! He showed them to me that night.

Well, two days after the club talk I had a phone call. Man gave his name and said a friend had told him of my talk, and that I had said I would buy almost anything the members could scare up.

Would I buy a collection? He had a four-volume one he had not touched for years. I replied that it would all depend on the stamps. We talked a bit and he finally said he would drive up next day and show it to me.

He came—a nice looking chap of about 30, with his four nice albums. Took him into my den and questioned him a bit before starting to look. His high school collection; had bought quite a lot of stamps, largely to put on vacant pages, but many good ones also.

After graduation he went to work and his thoughts turned to girls. That cost a lot, he grinned, so the stamps went to the attic and stayed there. He did not care to start again, so would be glad to sell out.

I began looking; quite a lot of U.S., mostly the usual run but a number of good ones. Turned to Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, and so on while he talked. Suddenly he jerked me to full attention. He had said, "I know an old man down our way who has two or three blocks of four and a full sheet of the 90c 1861."

"NO!" I said, and stared at him. He wanted to know why I said that so emphatically and I told him that such a sheet did not exist. "You mean the 90c 1851 or 1857. They do exist."

"No I don't," he replied. "I have had the blocks in my own hands and have seen the sheet in a glassine cover."

I leaned over to my bookrack, took out the catalog and opened it to the cut of the 90c; "That is the stamp, isn't it?"

"No, sir," he replied emphatically. He turned the page to the '61 90c and said, "That is the stamp."

Dizzy, I questioned, "How could a man of that sort have such a thing?"

"He used to do some dealing; that's all I know," he countered. "I bought stamps from him several times, and one day he showed me those. I never asked how he came to have them."

Closing the album I said, "And here you are trying to make a sale of maybe $50, maybe $100—do you want to make a thousand dollars?"

"You bet I do. How? I might be able to get a little interest in my company with that. How?"

"You go back and see that man; see if he still has that sheet and the blocks and if he wants to sell them for a large amount. If so, and I can buy them, you will get a check for a cool $1000.

"I'll have to take a couple of days in checking condition and watermarks on your collection, so take plenty of time in talking to him. Don't rush him or talk too big as to price. Just see if he has them and then we'll plan the rest. Can you see him tonight?"

"No, he lives in another town farther south, but I'll go there tomorrow after we close, and then I'll phone you about it." So he left the collection with me and lit out for home. I?—I spent the rest of the evening day dreaming.

About 7:30 next evening he phoned in. "Colonel? That man is dead! (My heart hit the floor with a thump). But his wife still has all ot his stamps, though all she knows about 'em is that he had told her some of them were very valuable and for her to be very careful about selling."

I picked up my heart and got it running again. Well, that isn't too bad. "Did you have a nice talk with her?"

"No, sir; you'll have to do that.

"I will?' Why can't you? You can start things with her much easier than a stranger can. You saw her, didn't you?"

"No. I got my information from a neighbor lady. Her husband died six months ago; now she lives in a trailer camp not 30 miles from your house!" He gave me the address.

After a little more talk of the matter, and my assurance that he'd get his thousand if it worked out all right, I took up the matter of his collection (which I had hastily finished running over) and made him an offer that I considered fair.

He accepted it, so I wrote a check and a note to him and went to the nearby mailbox, and then went in to talk to my wife who does all our driving now.

She is a trump and readily agreed to take me out the next day after lunch. Said that if we found the lady she would not go in but would sit in the car and read a book, and to take my time.

So we went, found the lady on the first inquiry and I went to her trailer, a hundred feet away. Introduced myself and she invited me in.

I told her that I had heard her husband had left some very valuable stamps, including a full sheet and

by White Ace

Yes, you're looking at a sampling of the grand new set of WHITE ACE Album Pages for United States Regular Issues with mounting spaces provided for blocks of four . . . another release in the colorful, historical series so popular with stamp collectors for more than twenty years.

Because there are so many collectors specializing in blocks of four of the regular postage issues, this new group of WHITE ACE Historical Pages will make a welcome home for these stamps.

The same quality features found in other WHITE ACE Albums . . . harmonious color, historical annotations, heavy rag index stock, simplified three-ring punching, and rounded corners . . . all are incorporated in this new presentation.

Spaces are not only provided for all major varieties from 1922 to 1960 in perforated and imperforated blocks of four, but for coil pairs and booklet panes as well. A handsome jumbo 1¼" three-ring binder with gold stamping on front cover and backbone is available at $3.50..... PAGE COMPLETE $3.65

DIPLOMAT STAMP SHOP

110 West 43 St., New York, N. Y. BRyant 9-4351

several blocks of a valuable old stamp and that I wanted to buy them.

She nodded two or three times as I talked, and when I stopped she said, "I don't know anything about stamps, but he told me before his death that he did have some quite valuable ones and that I should be very careful in selling them only to a reliable person.

"All I know is that there were a few in little transparent envelopes and one large block in a similar cover."

Then I asked her if the stamps were where she could easily get at them and show them to me . . . Strrrike one! How well I remember the old Irish umpire at the Polo Grounds in New York who rolled his decisions that way!

"No; my son has them in a storage warehouse. He took them along for safekeeping after the funeral, to put in the warehouse with some of our loved furniture and things that I was to have packed and shipped to him by freight. I thought then that perhaps I would go out there soon and live near them."

Where did he live? She told me a midwestern city a thousand miles away! My heart went down again, but then she added, "I am going out to see him or he will come down here to see me some time this summer. Then we can get together."

So I had to leave it at that and the Mrs. and I went sadly home. I still was not sure about there being a sheet of 90c 1961's.

Of course it was on my mind a great deal as the time passed with no further word from her. Then, to keep the sale in her mind I wrote her a letter. Said I was worried about the stamps lying flat in a warehouse.

I wrote that this was dangerous, as I knew from past experiences where I had seen valuable stamps ruined as to sales value because the pressure of other things on top of them had made the stamps stick together or to pages of albums and so lost much of their value.

I suggested that she write her son, warn him about this and get him to go to the warehouse, in that case, get to the stamps and give them some good airing and then repack the books loosely and upright.

She gave me a cordial note in reply. Was very glad that I had told her of the danger and was sending my note on to her son to act upon. She added that neither of them had been able to make the intended trip, but that I would hear from her when either of them made a visit.

Strrrike two! Time passed slowly by, but then my old friend Pat Herst came down to an annual meeting of the Florida Federation. From the beginning I had intended to take him in as a partner on the deal, so I took the first chance to get him alone for a good talk.

"Pat, can you scare up $10-15,000 for something wonderful in the stamp line?"

He stared at me, saw I was not joking and replied, "Yes, but it would have to be something mighty good. What is it?"

"Two or three blocks of 4 of the 90c 1861 and a full pane of the stamp."

"NO," said Pat emphatically. "No such pane exists."

I broke into a hearty laugh. "That is exactly what I said when I was told about it! But the man who told me . . . "And I gave him the full story.

"I still won't believe it until I have the stamps in my own hand," he grinned. "But everything is possible. Keep after it."

So we left it at that and I said finally, "If I wire you that the hen is on the nest, you jump a plane and hustle down to Clearwater, bringing a lot of money in one form or another, and we'll go get that sheet of '61's."

I heard nothing more from the lady, so just to get a little peace of mind we went out there again. Didn't go to see her, but went to the head of the park.

He reported that the lady had had quite a bit of trouble as to the title of some real estate she owned and wanted to sell. She had not gone west nor had he son been to see her.

Strrrike three! There seemed to be no hope, but just to get it off my mind and sleep better I finally wrote a final note. Asked her to tell me frankly if there was any possible chance of my being able to buy those stamps. If not, I wanted to be told so and then I could forget all about it.

The reply: "Dear Colonel Townsend—My son came down here on a hurried visit a short time ago. He says that he still has the stamps but is not willing to sell them at the present time. If he does decide to do so you will hear from me."

Three strikes and out! That was many months ago and I've given up any idea of getting those stamps. But how nice it would have been to be able to say that I started with a 10c Baltimore and wound up with a pane of the 90c 1861!

Now I would give odds, however, that the son has long ago sold his father's stamps, and that the sheet was broken up and sold bit by bit. Otherwise it would have become known long ago.

SALE CLOSES DEC. 8, 1961

The following definitions are the expressed opinion of J. Corso. Condition classification of stamps are determined with partial judgement for the collector.

DESCRIPTIONS & ABBREVIATIONS: Superb; a perfect copy. Very Fine; (V.F.) a choice copy, nearly centered, lightly cancelled if used. Fine; (F) slightly off center, near lightly cancelled if used. Very Good; (V.G.) off center with perfs not cutting into design, near heavily cancelled if used. Good; (G) off center with perfs generally running into design, heavily cancelled if used. Average; (Ave.) a sound copy but generally off center on at least two sides, heavy cancellation. Almost Sound; (alm.snd.) a very desirable defect with minor flaws such as, tiny repairs, thins, tears, and in some cases pre-cancels, perf-initials and straight edges. Slight Defect; (sl.def.) noticeable defects, (not as attractive as an almost sound copy) having about 50% catalogue value. Space Filler; badly defective, having about 20% cat. value. ★ unused, ⊞ block.

MAIL BIDS EARLY

The usual rules governing all mail sales prevail. All lots will be sold to the highest mail offer at a slight advance over the second highest bidder. Persons can bid freely as your limit will not be used unless it is absolutely necessary.

Successful bidders, unknown to us, who do not submit references, will be notified and their lots will be sent against full payment. Cost of forwarding lots, including insurance, will be added to the bill.

$1,000,000 Rarities In POD Exhibit On View At New York ASDA Display November 17-19

One of the world's great collection of rarities, not on display for several years, will once more grace the Court of Honor at the 13th National Postage Stamp show in New York, November 17-19. The display, from the archives of the United States post Office Department, will be shown under sponsorship of Postmaster General J. Edward Day, and will include many notable gems of philately. The show will be staged at the 71st Infantry Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and 34th St.

Among the great rarities are the famous blue papers of 1909, the 5c imperforate issue of 1909, and the 2c Lincoln perforate and imperforate, as well as the 2c Lincoln blue papers. Also to be shown among the imperforate classics will be the Alaskan-Yukon and Hudson-Fulton issues; plus the famed 5c error of 1917, Scott's No. 499.

Really unusual for this display will be the $1, $2 and $5 of the 1912-19 issue, in complete sheets; a sheet of 400 of the 2c of 1922-26, imperforate, and a sheet of 360 of the same issue, as created for booklet panes, imperf and uncut. There will also be sheets of the Norse-American issue of 1925, as well as complete sheets of the Graf Zeppelin issues. The list of rare gems to be seen are as follows:

Frame 1—5c Imperforate of 1909, Scott's No. 347; 2c Lincoln perforate and imperforate issues and the 2c Lincoln blue paper, Nos. 367-68-69.

Frame 2—Blue paper issues of 1909, 1c, 2c, 3c, and 4c, Nos. 357-60.

Frame 3—Blue paper issues of 1909, 5c, 6c, and 8c values, Nos. 361-63.

Frame 4—Blue paper issues of 1909, 10c, 13c, and 15c values, Nos. 364-66.

Frame 5—1908-09 imperforates, 1c through 4c, Nos. 343-46.

Frame 6—Alaska Yukon, both perforate and imperforate, as well as the Hudson Fulton, perforate and imperforate, Nos. 370-73.

Frame 7—Panama-Pacific issue of 1912-13, perforated 12, 1c through 10c, Nos. 397-400.

Frame 8—1c 3/19/12 perforated with a tracing wheel (Kansas City Roulette); 2c perforate 11 of 1915; and 1c and 2c coil stamp sheets, 9/5/14.

Frame 9—1912-19 issues, $1, $2 orange and black, $5 green and black, in complete sheets; a block of 25 of the $2 carmine and black All with portrait of Franklin.

Frame 10—5c error, 3/23/17, perforate 11, No. 499; 1c flat plate 3/23/17, No. 498; and the 3c offset, No. 529.

Frame 11—Blocks of 4 of the overprinted "Shanghai China" stamps of 1917-19, Nos. K1-K16, complete; 3c Victory of 1919. No. 537

Frame 12—Sheet of 400, 2c 1922-26 imperforate.

Frame 13—Sheet of 360, 2c 1922-26 booklet panes, imperf and uncut, No. 554c.

Frame 14—Regular Issues 1922-26, $2 and $5, full sheets of 100 each, Nos. 833-34.

Frame 15—2c and 5c Norse-American issue of 1925, full sheets of 100 each, Nos. 620-21.

Frame 16—Souvenir Sheets (2 sheets of 25 White Plains. No 630; two plate numbers), also Nos. 730, 731, 735, 769, 770, 778, 797 and 948.

Frame 17—6c, 16c and 24c Airmail of 1918, and 8c Airmail of 1923. Nos. C1-4.

Cachet For Hayden's Service In Congress

Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, who has been a member of Congress longer than any other citizen in our nation's history, will be accorded philatelic recognition this month by two Arizona stamp clubs.

The Phoenix Philatelic Assn. and the Arizona Society of Topical Philatelists have announced that a special cacheted cover will be issued November 17—the date that Senator Hayden will receive the state's tribute for his 50 years in Congress. President Kennedy will visit Phoenix November 17 to pay personal tribute to the Senator.

The cachet will feature a recent photograph of Senator Hayden and the wording: "Honoring Arizona Senator Carl Hayden on His 50th Anniversary as a Member of the Congress of the United States." The dates "1912-1962" will also appear in the cachet. Senator Hayden's service in Congress, commencing as a representative in 1912 when Arizona became a state, is the longest in Congressional history. He is now the dean of the U. S. Senate.

Collectors desiring the Hayden jubilee cacheted covers, canceled on the November 17 celebration date in Arizona's capital city, may send 25c per cover (coin or mint U.S. stamps) to Vera Campbell, 62 W. Holly Rd., Phoenix 3, Ariz.

Historian Seeks Details On Virginia Central RR

Hunter M. Thomas, Jr. of Arlington, Va. reports that he is trying to complete a survey of Virginia Central Railroad covers during the period of 1850 through 1861. He would very much appreciate receiving from collectors who have any such covers as much of the following information as they can supply:

Diameter of postmark—25mm, 30mm, 33mm, or other; color of postmark—black, blue, other; and date of postmark—month, day (and year if known).

Also stamp—Scott's Catalog number; and recipient's complete name and address as on the cover. The results of the survey will appear in the 1851-60 Unit publication.

Any assistance extended Mr. Thomas will be greatly appreciated. His address is 2723 South Veitch St., Arlington 6, Va.

Duck Stamp Data In Official Publication

"Duck Stamp Data", a circular showing the designs of the 28 migratory bird-hunting stamps issued thus far, has just been published by the Department of the Interior.

The circular contains philatelic data on each of the stamps, technical information on the preparation and issuance of the stamps, and general information on related waterfowl legislation.

The Migratory Bird Treaty with Great Britain (acting for Canada) was completed in 1916 and was implemented in 1918 by the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. It was not until July 1, 1934 that a Federal duck-stamp program became effective.

During the 25-year period ending June 30, 1959 a total of 32,592,841 Federal duck stamps was sold. During the next two years 3,361,556 more were sold. Sales for the current year are still in progress.

In the first year, 635,000 stamps were sold. The top year was the twelve-month period ending June 30, 1956 when sales totaled 2,369,940 copies. Any person who has attained the age of 16 and who hunts migratory waterfowl must have a current duck stamp.

The circular was prepared by the Office of Information of the Fish and Wildlife Service for the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. It is listed as "Duck Stamp Data, Fish and Wildlife Circular 111". It can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 15, D.C., for 30c per copy.

Radio Stamp Show Now Half-Hour Later

"The World Of Stamps", WNBC Radio's popular weekly program series hosted by philatelist Walter Law, has switched to a new time period on Saturdays, from 1:35 to 1:50 p.m. It was formerly heard 30 minutes earlier.

Sponsored by The Washington Press of Maplewood, N. J., the program is now in its 16th year on the National Broadcasting Company's Flagship Station in New York, featuring news of new issues and information of interest to stamp collectors.

Program guests over the years have included former Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, former Director of the Post Office's Division of Philately Robert E. Fellers, and the present Director of the Philately Division Franklin R. Burns, Jr.

In addition, the post masters general of Canada and many other foreign countries, as well as the heads of state of several African nations have been interviewed on the program.

"World of Stamps" host Walter Law has been conducting stamp programs on radio for many years and is well-known to his listeners as an avid stamp collector of almost thirty years' experience in the field.

The fact that he has attracted the inteerest of many non-collectors through "The World of Stamps" program is indicated in the large number of letters he receives annually from new fanciers of philately.

Besides being heard throughout WNBC Radio's coverage area, the program is beamed regularly to other parts of the world through the facilities of the Armed Forces Radio Network.

Picture-frame Beauty and Protection

Fairmounts form a border around each stamp and block, protect and beautify like a picture frame. May be used vertically, horizontally or in any position—stamps will not shift out of frame.

Final Listz Twosome From East Germany

As announced in Linn's of October 23, East Germany released on October 19 the first two values of a proposed four-unit set of commemoratives for the 150th birth anniversary of pianist-composer Frantz Liszt. The remaining duo is now scheduled for November 23 appearance.

The 5 pfennig gray will show Liszt after a graphite design of Wilhelm von Kaulbach in 1843. Beside him will be his French contemporary Hector Berlioz, after an oil painting by Prinzhofer (1846).

The companion, and highest denomination of the complete quartet, will be a 25pf. limited issue in blue. Here Liszt is depicted from a marble bust by Lorenzo Bartolini (1838), with Frederic Chopin (from a bronze medal by A. Bovy, 1837) beside him.

Printing is on the usual quatrefoils watermarked paper, by the VEB Deutsche Wertpapierdruckerei, Leipzig, by the recess process. The designer was Fritz Deutschendort of Erfurt.

Specialized Album Of Indian Native States

With recent increased interest in the philately of the various Indian Native States, the new specialized album now offered by Harry Burgess & Co. of England should prove both welcome and highly helpful.

It consists of 163 pages with upwards of 2500 spaces, in an entirely new arrangement. Each space carries the numbers of both the Stanley Gibbons and the INS (Burgess) catalogs covering the area. The various designs are illustrated, and each space is suitably captioned.

Page size is proper for any spring back binder 7½ x 9½ inches in size, and the set is quoted at $1.65 postpaid from England. Complete with binder, the figure os $3.80, while with an extra strong binder the total price, postpaid, is $4.35.

The 84-page Burgess INS Catalog of the area covers 37 dfiferent States. It is $1.15 postpaid, or $1.75 by airmail. The firm is located at Pembury, Kent, England.

Study Of Australia's Northern Territories Commem Points Up Man's Victory Over Huge Odds

Australian News Bulletin

What was prosaically announced as a "5d postage stamp significant of the Northern Territory Centenary of Exploration" was issued September 21, 1960 by Australia. It remained on general sale for some three weeks, and a short time longer in the Northern Territory.

Reddish purple in color, its design was based upon Sir Daryl Lindsay's drawing "The Overlanders", featuring a mounted horseman with a pack horse, and rugged wasteland in the background. Topicalists welcomed it—and moved along to the next "horse" or "mounted rider" stamp.

For the serious collector, however, who would know more than just subject-value-color — and cost—this particular commemorative is a most interesting one.

Basically it honors John McDouall Stuart who in 1860 became the first white man to reach the center of the Australian continent. In subsequent years he pushed ever farther northward, finally completing the south-north crossing when he reached the Indian Ocean July 24, 1862.

The great explorer was born in Dysart, Scotland, September 7, 1815, the fifth son of an army captain. He attended the Scottish Naval and Military Academy in Edinburgh and later qualified as a civil engineer.

The 23-year-old Stuart arrived in Adelaide in January 1839. The new colony was then only two years old, and most of its population was in Adelaide. The influx of settlers had followed too closely upon Col. William Light and his surveyors, and much of the huge task of surveying farm blocks and town sites was incomplete.

Fresh meat was short and cattle herds were driven overland from New South Wales, following the route of Capt. Charles Sturt.

Sturt himself was given charge of the Survey Department in March 1839. John McDouall Stuart also found employment in the Survey Department and spent much time in bush camps with survey parties.

As the boundaries of the settled areas were extended, speculation began about the nature of the unknown North. Sturt believed that the center of the continent might contain a vast Inland Sea—a belief widely shared at that time—and he was given charge of an expedition which left Adelaide in August 1844.

The party consisted of 16 men, of whom Stuart was one. The expedition followed the Darling, known from Maj. Mitchell's 1836 journey, and then moved northwest, passing near the site of Broken Hill.

Sturt's method of progression was that upon which Stuart patterned his own later journeys: the party camped upon each new adequate water supply discovered, and scouted until another waterhole was found which permitted a further forward move.

By December 1844 high summer temperatures were endured daily (Sturt's journal records a shade temperature of 132 degrees) and scurvy began to affect some members of the party. After an enforced camp of six months, the drought broke in July 1845, and Sturt was able to visit Lake Blanche.

He discovered Cooper Creek and pushed north almost to the site of modern Birdsville. The Simpson Desert barred further northward travel and in October Sturt decided to return.

No rain had fallen since July, and his horses were dying and men were ailing. The party reached Adelaide in January 1846.

This journey with Sturt was Stuart's apprenticeship in exploration. Sturt's leadership, discipline, insistence on adequate provisions, methods of assuring water, and humane dealings with aborigines must have impressed Stuart.

After several years as a civil engineer and surveyor in Adelaide and Port Lincoln, Stuart was engaged in late 1853 or early 1854 as a surveyor by James Chambers and William Finke.

Chambers was associated with several pastoral enterprises and also held mail contracts for many inland services; Finke was interested in pastoral pursuits and also in mineral leases.

Copper had been found in South Australia in 1844, and the drain of population to the new Victorian goldfields stimulated the hopes of similar finds in South Australia.

No direct record exists of Finke's and Stuart's journeyings in the Flinders Ranges, but survey plans and applications for mineral leases about this time indicate that the pair explored much of that area.

With a party equipped by Finke, Stuart left Oratunga (north of Port Augusta) in 1858, skirted Lake Torrens, and explored as far as Coober Pedy. "Very stony . . . of hard milky-white flint" Stuart recorded; the opals beneath the flints remained undiscovered.

The troubles encountered so often by Stuart—stony ground which wore out horseshoes and lamed the animals, and lack of water—caused the party to make for the coast and Stuart reached Streaky Bay, where he obtained supplies, in a semi-starving condition.

Stuart applied to the South Australian government for pastoral leases. On his next trip, begun April 2, 1859, with three men, he surveyed and mapped his projected leases near Chambers Creek, which flows into Lake Eyre South near present-day Maree.

A station later established here provided a useful departure point for further expeditions. After completing his surveys, he moved north—as always, from water to water. He turned back in June, when the last set of horseshoes was used.

At this time the telegraph line had been extended from Europe to India, and various plans were discussed for extension to Australia. Adelaide, as the first port of call for ships from Europe, had enjoyed priority of European news, and Melbourne and Sydney newspapers relied on telegraphic transmission from Adelaide whenever a ship brought fresh overseas papers.

Termination of an overseas cable in Adelaide, via the Northern Territory, would still give Adelaide priority. It was also hoped that horses for Indian Army remounts and beef cattle for the East Indies could be shipped over a South-North route. South Australia also wished to expand her territory by control of the area north of her boundary.

Accordingly, the South Australian Parliament voted 2000 Pounds to be paid "to the first person who succeeds in crossing . . . to the north or northwestern shores of the continent."

James Chambers equipped a further expedition, and Stuart, with four men and twelve horses, left Chambers' station October 4, 1859. William Kekwick was Stuart's second-in-command.

A government party of eight, headed by Tolmer, had departed September 10, also with the intention of making the continental crossing, but this party quickly got into difficulties and abandoned the enterprise.

Stuart first investigated "North Lake Torrens" (Lake Eyre), and followed the Neales creek to its entrance into the lake. Surveys of pastoral runs and mineral leases were made, and the party returned to Chambers Creek January 21, 1860. On the trip Stuart suffered the first attacks of sandy blight—an eye ailment which troubled him often afterwards.

By March 2, 1860, Stuart, Kekwick and Benjamin Head, with 13 horses, were again moving north. After heavy rain flooded the Neales, the party moved west to effect a crossing.

Stuart again suffered eye trouble, but the party, continuing, discovered and named the Finke River, Chambers Pillar, the James Range, the Hugh River, and the MacDonnell Ranges. Stuart crossed the ranges by following a branch of the Hugh through the gorges, west of the present site of Alice Springs.

After leaving the Reynolds Range April 21, they reached a high hill. Stuart's diary entry reads, "Sunday, 22nd April, Small Gum Ck under Mt. Sturt. Center of Australia. I find from my observation . . . that I am now camped in the center of Australia . . . there is a high mount about two miles to the N.N.E. . . . I will name it Mt. Sturt after my esteemed commander in 1844 . . ."

Stuart's observation of the sun showed his position as latitude 21:59:45 south; the central latitude of the continent is taken as 22 degress south. Stuart was, therefore, at the geographical heart of Australia—the first white man to penetrate to this distance inland.

He built a cairn on the mount, and left an account of his visit in a bottle which was found in 1871 by Overland Telegraph surveyors.

The mount is shown on modern maps as "Central Mount Stuart"; this misnomer appeared as early as 1860 in an Adelaide newspaper account of Stuart's journey, and his intended tribute to his former leader has become a monument to Stuart's own exploration.

Still seeking the north coast, Stuart pushed on beyond the Center, but scurvy and water shortages still plagued the party. On one occasion the horses were 101 hours without water.

Some 250 miles from the Gulf, the party was forced to turn back. The natives resented the whites' incursions upon the water holes, and several times harried the party, but Stuart and his men reached Adelaide October 7, 1860.

They found intercolonial rivalry strong; the well-equipped Victorian party of Burke and Wills had left Melbourne in August 1860, and was well on its way north. With government assistance, Stuart immediately prepared for a new expedition. With nine men (including Kekwick) and

S. SEREBRAKIAN INC. P.O.B. 448 MONROE N.Y.

The floor plan of the November 17-19 13th ASDA Stamp Show of the American Stamp Dealers Assn. is shown above, with the arrow pointing to Booth No. 84 which as in the past will be occupied by Linn's Weekly Stamp News. The huge philatelic extravaganza will be held in the 71st Regiment Armory, 34th St. and Park Ave., New York City. The main entrance, Park Ave. at 34th St., is at the lower left corner of the drawing. Linn's booth No. 84 is in the upper left area.

Leading U.S., Overseas Dealers In ASDA Booths

On Monday evening October 2, the prospective booth holders for the 13th ASDA National Postage Stamp Show made bids for strategic locations in the 71st Infantry Regiment Armory in New York City, at Park Ave. and 34th St., November 17-19. Gregory Mozian, experienced auctioneer, was master of ceremonies.

This year not only American dealers, but also dealers from France and Canada will participate. And as testimony that these shows—this is the 13th annual one—are increasing in popularity, the Americans include a number of dealers who have not participated in previous exhibitions.

The Washington Press, Maplewood, N. J.—Leo August and Samuel August, proprietors—was highest bidder for what some dealers consider the choice location, Booths No. 22, 23, 24, and 25, first at the right as a visitor enters the Armory. Second location went to Theodore Champion of Paris, France, and the third to Minkus publications, New York City.

Altogether, 110 booths were sold, assuring that the show is truly destined to be the "biggest ever". And it is not a surprise that at the conclusion of the sale by Mr. Mozian, there was still a waiting list of anxious dealers.

A list of Boothholders includes: Abbey Stamp Bureau, No. 57; Hy Bedrin, No. 14-15; Lewis Berg, No. 67; V. Blauner, No. 72; Bombay Philatelic Co., No. 85; Boske Stamps No. 87; Charles Bretagne, No 43; Julius Buchwald, No. 100; Theodore Champion, Nos. 29-30; Sylvester Colby, No. 78; Colonial Stamp Shop, Nos. 44-45; N. Prospective show visitors are informed that the palatial Manger Vanderbilt Hotel, directly across Park Ave. from the Armory, will be the official headquarters during the show activities. Reservations should be made now. Send them direct to Virginia Bush, Sales Manager, Manger Vanderbilt Hotel, Park Ave. at 34th St., New York 16, N. Y.

Portrait Change On Selangor Definitives

The portrait on the current 1, 2, 4, 5, 8, 10, and 20c Selangor State definitives is being amended by Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London, England according to the Crown Agents Representative, Washington, D. C.

A portrait of His Highness Tuanku Salahuddin Abdul Aziz Shah Ibni Alamarhum Tuanku Hisamuddin 'Alam Shah Alhaj, the Hisamuddin 'Alam Shah Alhaj, the Sultan of Selangor, will replace that of his late father.

The Crown Agents added that the amended design will be printed on the new "PTM" watermarked paper, and that the 10c was scheduled for November 1 release.

A well designed and neatly prepared memorial cacheted cover with a U. S. Navy ship cancellation is the above specimen of a quarter of a century ago. The postmark of the submarine "Argonaut" is complete with an appropriate slogan between the defacing bars, while the cachet tells its story fully and legibly.

Pertinent Suggestions On Collecting Ship Cancellations

The Universal Ship Cancellation Society has released the following outline for requesting Philatelic mail. In order to facilitate the handling of mail addressed to and from naval personnel on U. S. Navy ships and stations, particularly those in foreign waters. Congress in 1908 authorized the establishment of post offices on the ships and stations of our navy.

These post offices perform the same services and operate in much the same way as the offices we are accustomed to seeing in our cities and towns. Many people have found the collecting of postmarks from these naval post offices an interesting and informative hobby.

In starting a collection of naval postmarks one must first decide what he is going to collect. Some collectors try to form a collection of at least one postmark from all ships, others limit themselves to postmarks from a particular classification of ships, such as battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, etc.

Some collect only shore stations, while still others collect only covers associated with a particular event, such as first day of postal service, or last day of postal service, or covers postmarked on a holiday, like Independence Day or New Year's Day.

After you have selected the scope of your collection, the next step is to obtain the names of the ships from which you desire to obtain postmarks.

There is no official list available, but the names of naval ships are often mentioned in the daily newspapers and in philatelic publications. However, the best source is the monthly "USCS LOG" published by the Universal Ship Cancellation Society.

Having determined the names of the ships from which you are going to attempt to procure cancels, you must then prepare the envelopes (in the hobby, these envelopes are called "covers").

Select a good quality 6¾ size envelope (actually measures 6½" x 3 5/8"), and to prevent the cover from being damaged in the mails, insert a thin cardboard or heavy paper filler. Place a 4c stamp (a commemorative is preferable) in the upper right-hand corner, and address the envelope to yourself—

Peelable labels are widely used for addressing.

Your prepared covers must be dispatched to the Navy Postal Clerk of the ship from which you desire them postmarked in a larger envelope. Never fold your covers as it detracts from their appearance.

Write a short, courteous note to the Navy Postal Clerk asking him to clearly postmark the covers you are sending to him and to return them to you. It is not wise to ask for unusual requests, or to send more than five covers at one time.

Place the covers you have prepared along with the note in a larger envelop and address it as follows: "NAVAL POSTAL CLERK / U. S. S. ——— (name of ship) / c/o FLEET POST OFFICE / NEW YORK, N. Y."

All ships may be addressed in care of the Fleet Post Office at New York City. Be sure you have sufficient postage on your outer envelope. If you are sending to shore stations in the United States, address your envelope directly to the station.

Shore Stations outside the United States in the Altantic and Mediterranean areas should be addressed c/o Fleet Post Office, New York City, while those in the Pacific area should be addressed c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco. All mail to shore stations must bear a complete address.

After a period of time, depending upon the distance they must travel, you should receive your covers with the postal markings you requested. Most of the clerks are willing to oblige.

However, if your covers are not returned, or if they are not satisfactory, no complaint should be made, because the time spent by Navy Postal Clerks in handling collectors covers could otherwise be used by them in their own interests.

If you do not wish to send covers directly to the ships, there are various people (who are called "sponsors" in the parlance of the hobby) who will secure postmarks for you for a nominal charge of 2c to 10c per cover. Some will even apply cachets to your covers before having them postmarked.

Information on the activities of sponsors may be obtained from philatelic publications, particularly the USCS LOG, monthly publication of the specialized naval collectors.

You should carefully read and follow notices published by sponsors. Again, it is wise to avoid special requests such as for autographs, colored cancels or the like, unless such an offer is contained in the notice.

A cachet is a printed or rubber stamped design or inscription placed on the left-hand of the cover, to indicate that it is associated with some particular event or ship, or to generally make the cover more attractive.

As stated above, cachets may be obtained by sending stamped, addressed covers to sponsors. For those who desire to send their covers directly to ships, ready cacheted envelopes may be purchased and are frequently advertised in the LOG and other philatelic publications.

If a cachet is to be imprinted on your covers, the use of ripple or linen finish envelopes should be avoided as they are unsuited for printing. Also, your address should be confined to the extreme lower right-hand corner of the cover.

Covers sent to sponsors should always be accompanied by a note clearly indicating your wishes with regard to them. Always be sure the outside envelope has sufficient postage as many sponsors will refuse postage dues.

Always dispatch your covers well in advance of the deadline date, if one is announced, or well in advance of the event to be commemorated by the cachet. Sponsors always appreciate the use of commemorative stamps on the envelopes in which you forward them your covers.

The collecting of naval postmarks is fascinating and your enjoyment from the hobby will be increased by membership in the Universal Ship Cancellation Society.

Complete information on becoming affiliated with the Naval postmark hobbiests can be obtained from Eugene Schelcher 117-169th St., Jamacia 34, N. Y. Returned postage with an addressed envelope required.

Minkus Clicks With Sun Yat-Sen Folder

A limited edition of a most unusual and attractive first day folder was produced by Jacques Minkus of New York to mark the October 10 release of the Dr. Sun Yat-sen commemorative in Washington, D. C.

That day a special ceremony and luncheon were held at the Woodward and Lothrop Dept. Store in Washington, with many dignitaries in attendance. Included were the Chinese Ambassador Dr. George K. C. Yeh, Mr. Yuen of the Chinese Benevolent Assn., and other ranking Chinese and American figures as well as Woodward and Lothrop officials and representatives of the Minkus stamp and coin operations.

The Post Office Department was represented by Franklin R. Bruns, Jr.; J.F. Kelleher and Stanley Hodziewich. Mr. Minkus along with various officials had earlier attended the actual first day release ceremonies in Postmaster General J. Edward Day's office.

The four-page 4⅜ x 6½-inch folder bears the Chinese and American Flags at the top of the cover. The U.S. "China" and "Sun Yat-sen" stamps, and the recent Chinese 50th Anniversary of the Republic pair, are artistically arranged below and neatly tied to the folder by a first day handstamped cancellation.

AUSTRALIA

40 horses he was again following his old track in January 1861.

He crossed the MacDonnells in March, and the Center April 7. Passing the northernmost limits of his former journeys, the ceaseless search for water began again. Between May 6 and June 10 Stuart made eleven attempts to penetrate the dry areas across his northern route.

Discovery of Newcastle Waters permitted a northward move, but as rations were becoming short the party had to retreat once more.

Burke, meanwhile, following a route through far-western New South Wales and Queensland, and had reached the Gulf. But even as Stuart's party moved south the final act of the Burke tragedy took place at Cooper Creek, Queensland.

In Adelaide, Stuart was presented with the gold medal awarded him by the Royal Geographical Society for the discovery of the Center in 1860. James Chambers and the South Australian government equipped another expedition, and Stuart began his last attempt to reach the northern sea.

Kekwick was again in the party, which also included the government-appointed naturalist F. G. Waterhouse. Ten men and 71 horses left Chambers Creek January 8, 1862—the first summer of what proved to be a long period of drought.

Natives again disputed possession of waterholes and there were several minor clashes before the party reached Newcastle Waters April 7.

On this journey Stuart brought specially-made large waterbags, designed to increase the range of the scouting parties. The camp moved forward to Daly Waters in May, and in June, Stuart at last discovered a dry watercourse which led north-northwest. Following it, the party at first found pools, and then a flowing stream—the Roper.

The country now began to assume a tropical nature; instead of stony or spinifex plains the men saw luxuriant growth, and difficulties now came from an excess of water.

After nights made miserable by mosquitoes and days spent floundering in marshes, the party emerged on the coast July 24, 1862, at the place now called Stuart Point, about 80 miles east of Darwin.

The return trip took four months. Rations were short all the way; Stuart was increasingly unwell, and his sight now was very bad. Exhausted pack horses were left behind at waterholes, and their loads abandoned. Waterhouse's specimens were thrown away.

As they traveled farther south water became more and more a problem; the holes which were full on the outward trip were now drying up and there were many desperate marches. For the last six hundred miles Stuart was carried on a litter slung between two horses.

At last, in November 1862, the party reached Mt. Margaret station in South Australia. Stuart arrived in Adelaide December 17, 1862, four days after the remains of Burke and Wills, recovered by a relief expedition, had reached the city.

Stuart received the 2000 Pounds promised by the South Australian Government and a further grant of 1000 Pounds, but his health was gone and he died in 1866 in London. His "esteemed commander", Charles Sturt, also died in England, in 1869.

Stuart's true monument is the Overland Telegraph, which followed his route across the continent. One OT surveyor declared "we kept Stuart as a base to work by. East or west of his track for 30 miles you could find nothing he or his men had not seen.

"His map was so correct that we used to ride on with the same confidence as one would ride from Gawler to Adelaide."

Another surveyor said that when his own survey differed from Stuart's he considered that he "was wrong and Stuart was right. I consider him the king of our explorers".

Stuart's own men held him in high regard, and in all of his expeditions, through some of the most difficulty country in Australia, it is worthy of note that no member of Stuart's parties lost his life.

PALOS VERDES STAMPS
Post Office Box 926 Palos Verdes Estates, California

THE WORLD'S MOST DESIRABLE SETS PRICED BELOW MARKET!

One thing about Negev customers. They don't have to be sold. They know from experience that anything we advertise we deliver. No sheepish letters about being 'just sold out'. They know also that with Negev quality is everything — our stamps come to you in unhinged, unhandled, immaculate condition. Another thing that can't be sneezed at is our guarantee of satisfaction or instant money back.

Prices below are the lowest in the nation for stamps that are delivered to you on order. Of course there may be an ad or two that advertises an item cheaper. But if you write you may get a letter back 'just sold out'. We will answer that kind of merchandising once and for all by the following official announcement. "On items we don't have we guarantee to be 70% below wholesale." On items we do have we guarantee the fairest prices in the U. S. as you can quickly ascertain by checking the beautiful and popular sets listed below. Order with confidence!

"Condition" - An Analysis As Applied To Stamps

R. E. Cruse

All will agree, I think, that stamp collecting is primarily a hobby for pleasure, with such incidental benefits as its educational value, comradeship of kindred spirits, and others. In spite of its hobby status, stamps for collectors has gotten into the realm of big business, both because of its vastly increased volume and because of the high prices paid for the scarcer stamps.

Therefore we must accept the fact that a stamp is a commodity on the market and subject to general market criteria, particularly condition as affecting the price.

For instance, if you are buying a chair you would pay more for a chair sound in every respect than you would for one with a broken leg, torn upholstery, or scratched finish. Furthermore, you would not want to make an offer on the chair unless you had some way of knowing its exact condition.

The problem of condition of stamps is a particularly difficult one in the case of older stamps which were issued soley for the purpose of paying postage. It goes without saying that there are not now enough of these to go around, and many of them can be acquired only by extensive search or when they appear in an auction.

The question of the condition of a stamp when it appears in a mail auction catalog is the motivation of these remarks. When I make a mail offer for a stamp I want to know its condition quite definitely in certain respects, since that generally affects the price I am willing to pay for it.

I do not imply that a collector must have a "superb" copy or nothing, but he is entitled to know the condition of the stamp on which he is bidding. If the stamp is illustrated, most of the basic information will be apparent, but not all of it.

The rebuttal to this is, of course, that the auction house lists its definition of condition terms; that the condition as stated represents the opinion of an experienced seller; that catalog descriptions of a lot must be brief, preferably one line; and so on.

It can be further argued that no two stamps are exactly alike, and that no precise description of each stamp is possible.

All this is granted, but I believe that it is possible to establish a fairly definite and workable code of condition, which if used by auction houses, dealers, and collectors would give the buyer or bidder a much better idea of the condition of the stamp in question than he gets now. Consider some of the terms as now defined in auction catalogs:

Superb:

"Exactly that, but seldom used by us;"

"excellent condition, truly all that can be desired in a stamp. If hinged, not heavily;"

"the finest condition for noteworthy, outstanding copies."

"the finest condition, excellent in every way."

Very Fine:

"nicely centered, and if used, lightly canceled."

"perfect in every respect, but not as well centered as a superb item."

"a slight deviation from the above (superb), free from all defects, nicely centered, full margins if imperforate, clean cancellation if used."

"means that there is a slight deviation from the above (superb)."

and so on through Fine, Very Good, Good, etc.

The right of a dealer to state his opinion of the condition of a stamp is not questioned, but from a buyer's standpoint practically none of the descriptions above accurately describe a stamp.

In the absence of seeing the stamp or a photograph, it seems to me that a buyer would want to know at least about (1) centering, (2) defects, (3) cancellation if used, and (4) gum if unused.

Some degree of opinion or judgement is of course unavoidable if the description is to be held within allowable limits, but I believe some definite criteria can be established that would be useful to both buyer and seller.

Let us consider the four items mentioned above and assume certain degrees of variation.

(1) Centering:

Exactly centered; all margins clear when stamp exists that way.

Well centered, no two opposite margins differing by more than a 2 to 1 ratio.

Centered R, L, T, or B; where margins differ appreciably, but all margins are clearly visible between design and perforations.

Perforations touch design at R, L, T, or B.

Perforations cut design on one or more sides.

(2) Defects:

Tear.

Thin spot or area.

Discoloration of paper.

Discoloration or fading of face of stamp.

Pin hole.

Cut cancel or perforated initials.

Straight edge.

Crease.

Perforations pulled or missing.

Jagged or skewed cut if imperforate.

More than one previous hinge on gummed stamps.

(3) Gum

Ungummed as issued.

Original gum—never hinged.

Original gum—previous hinge.

Original gum removed.

Original gum—part or disturbed.

More than one, or non-peelable hinge.

(4) Cancellation:

Light or medium but unsmudged postal concellation.

Heavy postal cancellation.

Fiscal, or non-postal cancel, or cancelled to order.

Pen cancel.

Now, to get to the real purpose of this discussion: the establishment of a set of descriptive terms, each with definite qualifications, which when used by a seller would be a guarantee to the buyer that all the elements included would be found on the stamp unless otherwise specified. For a trial run on such a set of terms:

Superb:

Exactly centered; no defects; if used, very light postal cancel; if issued gummed, full o.g. and never hinged.

Very Fine:

Well centered; all margins clear and nearly equal; no defects; a light or medium postal cancel; if gummed, full o. g. and not more than one hinge.

Fine:

All margins clear; no defects; light or medium postal cancel.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY SALE!

To celebrate our first anniversary with our many satisfied customers and to invite new friends and customers, we are offering some outstanding bargains in the lots listed below, at a fabulous 40% discount from the regular RETAIL price. Notice, this discount is from RETAIL prices, NOT catalog prices and represent a tremendous saving to you, especially with so many price increases in the new Scott catalogues.

Lots will be made up of all different stamps from the whole world. They will include singles and complete sets, mint and used, short sets, higher values, Shilling and Pound values, scarce to rare high value Airmails. There will be Semi-Postal stamps, Latin America, British Colonies, new and recent issues in mint complete sets, French, Italian, Portuguese, and Belgian Colonies, stamps from Europe, Asia, Africa, in fact, from practically any place you can name.

Stamps which normally RETAIL at $7.00, $8.00, even $10.00 or more are included in the higher value lots. These are all good clean, stamps from our stock and collections acquired during the past Summer from collectors. No damaged, no fakes, no reprints, etc., are included. All stamps are guaranteed genuine. You may never be able to get bargains like these again, so don't wait. Order now, while it is fresh in your mind. Just circle the lots desired, enclose your remittance, and mail with this advertisement. If you prefer, order on a separate sheet of paper. But don't delay. These lots will not last long at these prices.

Very Good:
Perforations or edge touches on one side but does not cut into design; medium or better postal cancel; defects as specified.

Good:
Perforations or edge touch on one or two sides but do not cut into design; medium postal cancel; defects as specified.

Fair:
Generally sound, but having defects and/or off centering; sold at buyer's risk.

Certainly no set of terms will exactly fit every stamp: further, the above specifications for the descriptive terms can undoubtedly be improved.

To repeat, the objective of such a set is to get certain definite criteria for a term, which, when that term is used means that all the elements of the description apply to the stamp unless otherwise stated.

For example, in an auction catalog a stamp might be listed thus: "2 mm. closed tear at left; otherwise V.F." This would mean that the stamp answered all the requirements of Very Fine as above described except for the closed tear; there being no other defects.

It seems to me that such a plan is practicable and provides a much better and more accurate description of a stamp than "Nicely centered, and if used, lightly canceled," or "A slight deviation from the above."

Human nature being what it is, there are bound to be differences of opinion, and no seller is going to downgrade his merchandise. This does not mean that a seller is not trying to be completely honest, but merely that his opinion of the condition of a stamp may be different from yours when you see the stamp.

Another difficult area is involved in the cases of some earlier stamps that rarely or never exist, say, with four clear margins.

Many auction catalogs make some such statement as, "very fine for this issue," and let it go at that. This gives no information about the condition of the stamp, though the statement may be true.

Certainly an auction buyer sufficiently advanced to be bidding on stamps of some value would be presumed to know the condition in which a particular issue is usually found. But he should still be told something about the stamp other than it is "very fine for this issue."

The descriptive terms given above were worked up to furnish an illustrative starting point, and could doubtless be improved and better worded.

The key to the situation is that the descriptions give a definite criteria which the stamp must meet if the term is applied, unless the deviation is stated.

It would greatly simplify matters if, by consultation, some organization such as APS or ASDA could arrive at an acceptable set of definitions, and these be generally adopted by the trade; however there is nothing to prevent any dealer or auction house from doing this.

After considerable bidding in auctions I have personally arrived at the point where I do not bid unless the stamp is illustrated—except in one or two cases where I know by experience what the condition of the stamp will be when the catalog says, "Very Fine."

I am probably not very bright, but I defy anyone to tell me just what condition a stamp is going to be in, from the descriptions in most auction lists.

I'm waiting for my ears to start burning.

Nuclear Bomb Blast Headlines Rouse Collector Into Checking Shelter's Philatelic "Staples"

S. Q. Lapius

When the construction business takes a slump, as it did last year, it behooves a man to seek other sources of revenue. Otherwise, he may find that the term "golden wheat" refers to the price rather than the ingredients of his daily bread. With all this furor in newspapers and on TV about bomb shelters—known to the localites here in Florida as "Nuclear Nests" and "Kruschev Kozies"—I figure as a building contractor they might furnish the missing coins in the cash register.

Following the fisherman's rule to cast your line where the fish abound and are big enough to take a good-sized hook, I went to our Palm-Pine golf club where my old schoolmate Jim Hugerty serves as pro.

Fortunately I found him in the club lounge, having just completed his morning round, and proposed my plan. He amusingly agreed to act as "straight man" for me.

As different player groups came in from the course we would start a discussion on the need of shelters and let them take it from there. It was interesting to hear the reactions and the contrasting viewpoints.

I knew most of the members by name so I kept an undertable record of those in favor, as future prospects to approach first. The others I would make a stronger sales pitch to later.

A young odd-ball type joined the group early, but even if I were an artist I couldn't give a good description of him either as to face or clothes. I was sure however if connected with any crime they wouldn't need to put him in a police line-up for identification.

Toward the end of the discussion it suddenly dawned on me that throughout he had always been taking the opposite side of the arguments both as to those in favor and those against!

Towards noon as the crowd began to leave, he stopped by our table and I asked him which side he favored — if any — since he seemed against both. He laughed and said, "Opposition is the best way to bring out all the angles for it makes the other fellow think and express his reasons, rather than just repeat a hearsay opinion".

"Personally," he added, "I'm in favor and if my broker can get me some extra profit in the market I may be around to see you. Here's a list I plan to take into my shelter," and he laid a folded sheet of paper on the table and left.

Jim informed me that he was a lad from up country who had married a local girl and they were here now to settle her father's estate. I unfolded the paper he left but as far as I could tell it was just a list of towns from all over the country.

Jim glanced at it and guessed it might have something to do with stamp collecting, as he had once seen the fellow checking the club trash baskets, and on inquiring if he had lost anything got the answer he was looking for used stamps.

Some club member told Jim that the fellow used to collect buttons but didn't think he had all his own to start with. Here is a copy of the town list he gave me:

Pine Apple, Ala.
Olive, Calif.
Orange, Calif., Conn. Mass, Va.
Fruita, Colo.
Cocoa, Fla.
Mango, Fla.
Naranja, Fla.
Pompano, Fla.
Grace, Idaho
Champaign, Ill.
Sandwich, Ill. N.H.
Bourbon, Ind., Mo.
Converse, Ind.
Mallard, Iowa
Buffalo, Kans., Ky., Minn., N.Y., N.D., Ohio, W Va
Rice, Kans, Texas
Hamburg, Mich, N. Y.
Pigeon, Mich.
Bigfork, Minn., Mont.
Cook, Minn.
Littlefork, Minn.
Coffey, Mo.
Whitefish, Mont.
Chews, N. J.
Chili, N. Y., Wis.
Cold Water, N. Y.
Bacone, Okla.
Bon Aqua, Tenn.
Bob White, W. Va.
Paw Paw, Mich., W. Va.
Pickerel, Wis."

That night we were due to dine my wife's folks so I took the list along with her. Her father is an egghead professor at our local Junior College and has more degrees than a thermometer. In fact if they give him any more they will have to use either the Greek or Cyrillic alphabets to avoid duplication.

After the meal I told him the circumstances under which I received the list and handed it to him, thinking maybe I had him stumped this time. He glanced at it a moment and then I saw his eyebrows lift as in recognition and a smile came over his usually solemn face.

"You recognize what it is so quickly?" I amazedly inquired.

The old man read a bit further and remarked, "Well if it's what I think it is, the chap certainly has food for thought for his shelter, but while it might help keep his mental balance it would not sustain his physical condition for the duration.

"This is evidently a list of towns with food-like names that issue precanceled United States stamps."

"How come you know about that pastime?" I inquired.

"When I came to this country," he began reminiscently, "I had such a British accent that some of my school friends had trouble understanding me so I began a study of American town names, thinking the pronunciation would help moderate the accent.

"Some friend suggested this precancel hobby but unfortunately I chose too many of those unpronounceable and unspellable Indian names and soon gave it up. I still don't understand how illiterate Indians ever taught the uneducated pioneers how to spell such names, even when located."

I asked him if he thought the list was complete as my nephew was showing an interest along that line. He studied the list again and replied, "It has been some years since I collected, so I don't know if they have been authorized to use the precanceling device, but the list does not show Chicken, Alaska; Tomato, Ark.; Coffee, Ga.; Biscuit, Ky.; Tea, S. D.; or Pie, W. Va.

"And you might add Erbacon, W Va., which from its accredited derivation has more basis for what it indicates than Bacone, Okla. which he has listed.

"Tell the chap", he added, with a twinkle in his eye, "if he wants to raise money for his shelter through a stock broker he might add to his list the town names of Merrill, Iowa; Lynch, Neb.; and Pierce, Colo.

"Eventually he may be able to add the town names of Fenner, Calif., and Smith, Ky. to the firm when they are authorized to use the precancel device."

I pondered these remarks on the way home and began to believe there might be something in this heredity idea. I know the professor has a smart daughter—she married me didn't she—or was that an atavistic reversion that I don't dare question the professor about?

In Commemoration of the unveiling of the Martyrs Monument. May 1960

Bruce Conde

On May 6, 1916 Jamal Pasha, last Turkish satrap of Lebanon, hanged 14 Lebanese patriots on the public square of Beirut for having worked for Arab independence and freedom.

Each year on that occasion the Lebanese people, led by the President, hold a memorial meeting on the spot, which has now been renamed "Martyrs' Square". Until a few years ago a completely inadequate statue stood at the south end of the plaza in memory of the patriots' sacrifice.

But Citizen groups finally prevailed on the government to commission competent Italian sculptors to cast a set of four bronze statues as a fitting commemorative group. The new statuary group arrived in April and was installed on a Lebanese white limestone base, in the center of the square.

It was veiled with huge Lebanese national flags to await Martyr's Day, last year (May 6).

When the memorial day arrived, President the Emir Fuad Chehab—descendent of Lebanon's last ruling royal family, which had been deposed by the Turks in 1841—removed the coverings and stood in tribute to the martyrs while the national anthem, "Kuluna Lilwatan" (All of Us For the Country) and a special hymn for the martyrs were played.

Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, and students paraded—there was no military display. Commemorative speeches were given by the ministers, former congressmen (Parliament had just been dissolved) and members of the association of relatives of the martyrs.

After the cabinet and diplomatic corps had departed and a pilgrimage was made to the patriots tombs in the Druze cemetery, the people of Beirut flocked around the new statues in such numbers that gendarmes had to be assigned to "keep them moving" and to let other thousands approach.

A set of special commemorative airmail stamps, designed by Paul Koroleff and printed locally by the Catholic Press of St. Joseph's University ("Imprimerie Catholique, Beyrouth"), had been prepared for the occasion. Unfortunately, however, the stamps were so large, and other complications arose, that their first day of issue was delayed until May 16, ten days after the actual unveiling of the statuary group.

The opinion of local philatelists was that the stamps were worth waiting for. For the first time, the Lebanese Post Office Department took a leaf out of the Survey of Egypt's book and employed the "Jumbo" size of the UAR's four stamp sizes (No. 4,) 28.16 x 61.35mm —with the total design inside the margin measuring 24.58 x 56.17mm). Furthermore, two of the three stamps are bicolors, of which the low value 20 piasters is the most attractive.

Both of the low values have the same design: a sweeping horizontal panorama of the monument on its base and esplanade, fringed with palms and with snow-capped Mt. Lebanon in the background. In showing the group thus, the artist has taken considerable artistic license.

Actually, the square is enclosed by tall buildings, and Mt. Lebanon is not visible from the statue, nor is it in the southwest—the direction of the sea on the other side of Beirut peninsula, but to the northeast. Also, the palms are in orderly rows growing out of the sidewalk, which directly flanks the esplanade. Where the garden patches are shown in the right and left foreground, alas, taxis are parked!

Nevertheless, to the north and south of the statue, which used to be a fountain area, are well kept gardens, reminiscent of the day when this formed part of the luxurious gardens around the Italian-style palace fo Lebanon's greatest ruler of all time, Prince Fakhreddin II, of two centuries ago.

In spite of the people's affection for their patriot-martyrs, it has been a constant struggle to get them to use the new name: "Place des Martyrs", or its Arabic original, in place of two other titles which have stuck to the plaza for hundreds of years.

The first of these, al-Bourj, (the tower), refers to a now demolished watch tower of the palace grounds of Prince Fakhreddin which stood near the square's southeast corner. This is the term in use more than 90% of the time. The other name, "Place des Canons" recalls some old Turkish cannon which once dominated the place.

The high value of the set, in shades of gray black, depicts the statuary group itself, as seen from the north-northeast. "Liberty" is holding aloft her torch, with one hand on the shoulder of a youth, while two fallen patriots are agonizing at the feet of the main pair.

The selection of three figures for the martyrs may symbolize the three great religious communities, all of whom were represented among the 14 martyrs: Christian, Moslem, and Druze. It is the national compact between these three which forms the basis of the present Lebanese Republic, a study in tolerance and interrelationships unequalled in any other Middle East country today.

Only the Nation of Syria has a comparable group of martyrs, since seven patriots were also executed in Damascus on the same day, in that city's own Martyrs' Square. One of the these, by the way, was Prince Omar al-Jezairi, son of Algeria's national hero, Abdul Qader, who lived in exile in Damascus a century ago.

One of the Lebanese heroes was a Chehab. All were united in the same struggle for Arab independence which has given rise to the two brother Arab republics of today, while the fight still goes on in Algeria for the freedom of that Arab republic, too.

The 20p. stamp is in purple, with the bottom panel and commemorative lettering in dark green. Flanking the statuary group the bilingual memorial text reads: "(In) Commemoration of the Martyrs, 6 May, 1960". The country name, value, and airmail designation are spread across the bottom panel in Arabic and French.

Except for the value and colors, the 40p. is identical. Colors are light blue green and dark blue green; in fact, it may be like the high value, a shading of the same color, and not a distinct second color like the low value.

The 70p. gray black, instead of offering a horizontal panorama of the monument and esplanade, is a vertical portrait of the statuary group. The commemorative text in Arabic is at upper right, beneath the denomination. Airmail inscriptions are arranged vertically flanking the statue, while the French commemorative text inscribed on the white limestone base, and country name across the small bottom panel, complete the captions.

The high value pays 10 grams airmail plus the 30-gram surface fee

DR. EMIN DERMAN
P. O. Box 29 Ankara, Turkey

LONG FAMILIAR TO LINN'S READERS is the name of Gunnar Madsen of Tollose, Denmark who sent the above first day cover of Finland's October 16 commemorative of 30 markka value to note the 150th anniversary of the Central Board of Building. This is a governmental agency which has charge of building plans and activities throughout the country. The symbolic design by R. Achren is suggestive of that function.

for minimum weight letters to the United States. The 40p. takes care of the same for Europe, and the 20p. to some Arab countries.

The selection of these values was not very appropriate, as there is no 15p. for local first-class postage, and, after all, it is the Lebanese people themselves who know about their own martyrs and wish to honor them.

The only citizens, aside from philatelists, who are in a position to enjoy these handsome stamps as souvenirs or memorials of this year's Martyrs' Day and the new statues, are the officials and notables who were guests of honor at the unveiling and other high dignitaries. To these were distributed de luxe souvenir sheets (without sheet price and not for sale).

They contain all three stamps in natural colors surrounded by the appropriate memorial texts and superscription of the P.T.T. (Communications Ministry) and the national Cedar of Lebanon crest. They are on bristol board, with memorial texts in black and the cedar in green, imperforate and ungummed. Unlike the Mediterranean Games de luxe sheets, however, these are not folders, and have no cover(s).

As for the general public, only the philatelists who specifically asked for the stamps could purchase them at the post office windows on May 16 and thereafter. They were not on regular sale, were not dispensed to frank outgoing mail as were the Chehab stamps and could not be purchased except in complete sets. Even then there was a limit of five sets, maximum, to any one collector.

These seemingly unnecessary restrictions and limitations, for an ample issue of 50,000 sets, can only limit the effectiveness of the gesture as an honor to the martyrs and prevent the people of Lebanon in general from seeing and appreciating the stamps on a widespread basis.

Where stamps are issued to honor an outside event or something very little known in Lebanon, such as the Rotary International, it is, of course, no loss to the people if the stamps are restricted to philatelists only.

But except for those who read the brief introduction to this article, I doubt very much if anyone outside of Lebanon knows or can find out very much about the 14 martyrs honored by these stamps.

The Lebanese people, on the other hand, know all about them and are anxious to keep their memory green. Perhaps the POD will take this factor into consideration if it issues such a set in the future.

The face value is only a little over 40c U.S., but due to the restricted manner of issue (dealers were rationed, on a quota system), the price of this set may be higher than that of comparable sets on open issue, abroad. Also, used specimens should be exceedingly scarce and desirable.

There were a few hundred cacheted FDC's made up by Farah G. Farah's "Middle East Philately", one of which is used to illustrate the set herewith. They were inscribed "In Commemoration of the Unveiling of the Martyrs Monument, May, 1960"; the day was omitted to cover the eventuality that the stamps might not appear as scheduled, on May 6.

There was no special postal cancellation, only the dated Beirut GPO (RP) customary handstamp, obligingly applied by Postal Clerk as-Sayed Khoury, to philatelists presenting letters to be cancelled on the first day of issue. Otherwise, local mail deposited in the GPO usually waits a day for cancellation.

MONARCH SERVICE

Has given satisfaction to hundreds of collectors of used British Empire Stamps during the past 21 years.

Though our business has kept growing, we still give personal attention to the desires of our customers, whether it be new issues, want lists or approvals.

Approval books of America, Africa, Asia, Canada & Newfoundland, Europe & Oceania, Commemoratives and individual countries are available. Most stamps issued since 1935 plus older issues, are included in these books.

Request any of these services, along with Society Number or 2 commercial references and see for yourself why so many of our customers have been with us for years.

NOTE: Prices in this ad are for Fine Used stamps, per Scott's catalogue. Satisfaction guaranteed. Prompt refund on sold-out items.

VOX POP

Dear Gentlemen:

Today I received my copy of the October 30 edition of Linn's . . . I was very interested in the article concerning the General Pershing postage stamp.

Of special concern was the note appearing in column three, page 21, which states that the rank of five-star General of the Armies was bestowed upon four men in World War II. This information is NOT correct.

I am in possession of a letter dated August 31, 1960 from Ann C. Whitman, personal secretary to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, which disproves this paragraph.

I quote from letter: " . . . the Congress, by Public Law 45, approved September 3, 1919, appointed General John J. Pershing to the grade of General of the Armies of the United States, in which he was retired on September 13, 1924. No other officer has held this title."

Arnold, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Marshall were all five-star generals. However, they were all Generals of the Army.

The letter is available for your inspection if you so desire. I respectfully submit this material so General John J. Pershing will get full credit for the honor of being the only five-star General of the Armies.

Hoping this error will be corrected and the credit of this honor given to General Pershing, I remain,

Respectfully yours,

Joseph L. Cook

French Area In New Berck 20th Edition

The long popular Edouard Berck Catalog of France and the French area is now on sale in the 20th edition, 1962. The format is the readily recognized 4½ x 6-inch size, spiral bound, with flexible paper covers.

Now of 270 pages, it covers the entire French area thoroughly, with ample illustrations in the form of photographs and enlarged drawings to indicate small but specific points of interest. Special attention is given various "related material" varieties, as well as to the "France Liberation" issues.

The new edition is available in the States at $1 per copy postpaid, from Jacob Habib, 154 Nassau St., New York 38, N.Y.

Edward A. Morris and his 1961-62 Duck Stamp design.

Honor Night For Stamp Designer

An "Edward A. Morris Appreciation Night" and fourth anniversary meeting of the Minneapolis Chapter of American Topical Assn. will be held at Minneapolis Public Library November 17. Mr. Morris, whose works are included in private collections throughout the nation, was winner of the annual competition for a duck stamp design, in a contest entered by more than 100 artists in the United States and Canada. He will talk about his 1961 winning design, answer questions, and autograph copies of the stamp for members and friends of Minneapolis Chapter of the A.T.A.

His winning design, which shows a hen Mallard and her brood of eight, will appear on more than 3,000,000 copies of the 1961-62 duck stamp. Money from its sale to collectors and hunters is used to buy wetlands to help preserve the natural habitat of ducks.

Four other Minnesota artists whose winning designs have been used on duck stamps have been invited to attend the November 17 event. They are: Francis Lee Jaques (1940), Roger E. Preuss (1949), Harvey D. Sandstrom (1954), and Les C. Kouba (1958). Florence D. Glindmier, designer of the 1949 Minnesota Territorial commemorative 3c stamp, and Earl W. Prestrud, Jr., designer of the TOPEX '60 seal and cachet, have also been invited.

On display during the meeting will be a complete collection of duck stamps owned by Louis J. Eggerichs, who will discuss them briefly. The meeting will begin at 7:15 p.m., and will be held in room 216 of the Minneapolis Public Library, 300 Nicollet Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. Guests are invited to attend, and there is no admission charge.

New Commonwealth George VI Catalog

A new edition of the Commonwealth King George VI Catalog--the first in two years--has recently reached the market. The publishers note that increased interest in KGVI issues throughout the world has resulted in considerable activity in these stamps, with corresponding advances in many pricings.

The new catalog--the ninth edition--indicates these developments by showing hundreds of advances as of the time of going to press. The publishers report, incidentally, that the popularity of the work in the States has jumped considerably over that of just two years ago.

Listings cover all KGVI stamps issued for any part of the British area, and all principal varieties of the main types of these stamps. Illustrations are ample, along with enlarged drawing when and where indicated.

All in all, the volume is strictly a "must" for the collector interested in this particular area of philately. It is priced at $1.35 postpaid by The Commonwealth Stamp Co., Leather Lane, Liverpool 2, England. Collectors sending personal checks should add 35c to cover bank charges.

Facit Catalog Covers Scandinavian Area

The 1962 edition of the Facit Specialkatalog Nordiska Landernas Frimarken is an excellently prepared and produced 5x7¼-inch coverage of the Scandinavian philatelic scene. It is printed on good paper, amply illustrated, and well detailed.

Binding is heavy flexible card, and the volume is thumb-indexed for the five countries of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, and Finland.

The language is that of Sweden throughout, although an accompanying instruction folder includes much information and a parallel philatelic dictionery in Swedish, English, German, and French.

As is invariably the case, the specialist in any particular country will find a native specialized catalog of vital necessity in pursuing his interests, and for the Scandinavian area the Facit offering would prove of great value. It is priced at $2 postpaid, from the publishers, Frimarkshuset AB, Mastersamuelsgatan 3, Stockholm 3, Sweden.

In World's Cloak-And-Dagger Propaganda War, Stamps Have Keenest Edge Of All Weapons

Julius Weiss

Many people do not know that an innocent bit of printed paper known as a postage stamp is betimes a major weapon of the cloake and dagger variety. The story is indeed a large one; it fits into the the front pages of our daily newspapers. In fact, the "stamp weapon" is a formidable implement of war.

This writer has been in contact with over 100 countries, columns from our pen have gone to the philatelic press of all countries, and many of our articles have been reprinted in daily newspapers. The theme in general of these articles has been the discussion of the philatelic world.

Further, in order to aid collectors obtain contacts, our name has been placed in journals of South Viet Nam, Singapore, Hong Kong, Germany, France, Spain, Italy, Romania, and many other parts of the globe.

Response to our columns and to our notices in the various publications has brought us many a strange circular, bulletin or publication. Some of the items we receive merely deal with stamps as a "sham" or cover-up. The truth of the matter is that the material is a weapon to play upon the minds of the reader—a sort of "brain-wash".

Hardly a week goes by but some bit of "cloak and dagger" reaches us in the form of a printed item. Of course, the publication will have a brief mention of a stamp—perhaps a stamp club or the like—however, the theme is all part of a pattern which plagues the philatelic world, mostly the collectors who make contact with foreign lands.

We can cite many examples: Just this past week or so we received our usual copy of the "Prague News Letter". This is a well printed news sheet that tells a bit about stamps and the culture of Czechoslovakia but a main part dwells on the political scene, which officials are visiting that country, and a long opus on "Berlin".

We can assure the reader that stamps are a secondary function for this propaganda sheet.

From Rangoon, Burma comes a mimeographed sheet, rather poor in print. It dwells on an exchange listing but one page is spent telling about a contemplated "World Government". The booklet goes so far as to name a "world president, vice president and world secretary"—all of this "to free this earth from the course of war".

This type of thing goes on and on. We caution readers, newcomers and oldtimers in the stamp world to use discretion in subscribing to such material. Frankly, stamps are secondary, the real motive is to disperse a bit of concealed propaganda.

We have found that a great deal of this material comes from Hong Kong. Many journals list names from that city. Some of these are ardent stamp enthusiasts but there are a few who begin by sending political words in their letters. We stop all sendings to these "collectors", for ours is a hobby of stamps.

Next comes South Viet Nam. Many of the collectors in the area are Chinese, but their hearts do not always belong to Taiwan. We have received some nice English letters from Cholon (South Viet Nam) which dwelt on the philatelic scene but a few letters are political in scope. Here too we stop sending at once.

Letters to us from the Philippines have been tainted with propaganda which is not always within the realm of stampdom.

Children must be cautious in their writing for we know many a parent has written to ask us for exchange names for their sons and daughters. We know for fact that their main interest is the exchange of stamps, covers and cancels.

However, some of these so-called teen-agers in foreign lands appear to be grown adults from the tone of their college type political epistles. Of course, an American youth may gain some wrong political ideas should this type of material fall into his or her hands.

We caution parents and young collectors to be on guard and to refrain from any political words in letters to foreign pen-pals. We should always use common sense, and should they begin this type of propaganda which does not fit into the stamp world of exchanges, merely switch to another exchanger.

Some collectors in this country do not desire contacts in Iron Curtain countries and we agree to this. On the other hand, many collectors gather material from these countries and we do not see any wrong in non-political exchanges with folks residing in these lands.

We of course, never try to contact Red China, North Korea and North Viet Nam. We have dropped the bulk of our Czechoslovakian exchangers as a retaliation for the Czech post office not permitting some of our mail through.

Other than these countries, we contact the world. We are free to do so but as pointed out before, as soon as politics enters we drop out.

We are in contact with the Middle East. We find the Arab world using stamp exchanges to expound on a political theme. We stop these exchanges also, for we feel that the world radio gives us enough of this type of material.

We find this "line" reaching us from Syria, some from Egypt and some from Jordan. Collectors in these countries yell "insult" if stamps from certain nations are sent to them and they respond wih Arab propaganda.

This goes on throughout the world. We know that in our daily contacts we come in contact with sentimens contrary to our political or religious beliefs but this should not and must not enter our world of stamps.

So much for this phase of the cloak and dagger theme. Next come the actual stamps, cancels and covers which tend to become weapons. We have seen many a new issue from various parts of the globe which tends to distort the facts of political life.

Of course, if you collect the country you must have the bit of paper, but it is a welcome sight to see a collection with some of the political reminders removed. Many counries today issue this material, and frankly there are enough great men about to honor with stamps, without using postal paper to dupe the innocent collector.

One has only to look at a postage stamp catalog to see how much of this material is being printed.

Many serious collectors will argue that a stamp of any country is to be collected regardless of the art. To this we agree, yet it must be remembered that a youth observes these bits of paper even closer than an adult. A stamp can create an impression.

We recently heard a young fellow at an exhibition say his greatest collection was his "Hitler Heads". We asked why. He proceeded to tell us that these stamps reflect greatness. We wonder perhaps what 20 or so years from now this chap will be, and what destiny in the world he will hold.

Dealers too have an obligation. They gather the American Dollar, and they should protect the life and liberty which they now enjoy thanks to men like Washington, Lincoln and other great Americans who died to make it possible.

Dealers who display the imperfs, the errors, the manufactured items of the countries which thrive on stamps as a medium for political riff-raff should think out loud. We find many dealers do not know the difference between the North and South Viet Nam stamps, although the difference is plain as night and day.

It appears that subject matter means nothing to dealers and therefore they are, in some instances, guilty of distributing poliical propaganda. They aid the cause also to the extent of giving dollars to many of these countries for stamps.

Needless to say, a stamp from any country which carries the mail is a collector's item but it appears today that the by-word is "How many printed, how many errors?" and "Will the price rise?"

Several news columnists from remote countries are experts in the art of giving new-issue news to various hobby magazines and putting in a bit of political views.

We have been asked about this at several hobby exhibitions which we attended and we caution readers of philatelic or other hobby publications (radio, coin collecting, sport. airplane, etc.) to watch this type of reporting.

The editor cannot be responsible as in most cases it pertains to a stamp (or part of a hobby) and the propaganda portion is well concealed.

Readers of Linn's know that new issues of several countries are not noted in this publication. Reasons have been mentioned from time to time however, we feel this ASDA edition is the place to explain some of these goings in the stamp world.

Unfortunately the stamp collecting community is exposed more and more to this type of activitiy. People doubt that a smiple postage stamp can be such a weapon, but it is a point of contact. The stamp establishes contact where even a carbine cannot.

Through our mutual hobby we have contacted officials of governments whom we could never reach were it not that they are stamp enthusiasts. High officials of many nations partake in our hobby and we have received mail from various embassies in the past years. It is a semiofficial hobby for your dealings are with monetary units which affect countries, just as do coins. The art on stamps tells history, geography and political subjects as well as flowers and sports.

It is not the purpose of this article to scare collectors, or to take a negative approach to stamp collecting, for the hobby is a great one. However, it is time that we collectors have some code as to the political aspects which are creeping into our hobby. We must stamp them out. Clubs as well as individuals should take note. Propaganda tied in with stamp collecting should die a quick death.

Collect stamps for art, beauty, history, and the like but be careful mostly when making contacts with remote sections of the globe for here is where the seeds are planted. Watch out for some of the pen pal philatelic journals which tend to give poitical discussions; just stick to the ordinary postage stamp or cancel and you will make your hobby much richer and wiser.

ATTENTION DEALERS

The edition of December 4 will be in process during the week in which Thanksgiving Day occurs. This will give our staff one day less that week in which to work. For that reason we suggest that advertising copy for this edition be sent in earlier than usual.

Copy for December 4 should arrive by November 20, to be given our usual thorough attention. Such cooperation will be greatly appreciated by our employees.

The normal closing date of Wednesday noon, twelve days before publication date will then resume (noon November 29 for the December 11 issue).

Truth Is Strange–A Matter Of Two 'Tommys', Three Teak Tea Caddies, A Search That Failed

M. S. Brainard

This bit has crossed the Atlantic from the shores of the Pacific three or four times, and the final copy you may be reading has been approved by the originator, Mrs. Catherine Reed, now making her home in Devonshire where, she writes, she can look across the moors to the beautiful spires of Exeter Cathedral. From here on, the words are hers. Me?—A sort of an interlocutor.

My father and mother were living at Kilindi, a portion of Mombasa, in what is now Kenya Colony, when I was born. And I don't care who takes up the point, this wasn't long after the city was ceded to the British by the Sultan of Zanzibar.

Father had a business brokerage branch near Ft. Jesus. The main office was at Zanzibar and there was another branch at Pemba.

As with other children of the time and place, I picked up enough to chatter in Arabic, Urdu, some French and Portuguese, and a few words and phrases of Bantu. The people who spoke this latter had about them the aura of gold and ivory and slaves, acquired in the tremendous, mysterious hinterland.

Into and out of our country, some on their annual trips, was a vast variety of craft coming across from Aden, from Persia, Goa, even as far away as Madagascar. There were also the towering, rusty steamers of England and Europe, loading out spices and hides and timbers, in exchange for the "civilized" goods they discharged from their holds.

I don't remember much about our move from Mombasa across to Zanzibar but heard much of it from my parents and others who had lived years there. From Mombasa with us came a few servants, both company and domestic.

Conspicuously, and yet not so, among our retinue, was Tommy. Tommy was a son of "Old Tommy", an old-time Indo-Africa hand, who had died in Mombasa after being with the company since its inception.

Tommy, like his father was what one would classify, I expect, as a "Navy". His tasks were mostly menial, so he was relegated by his fellow Indians to one of the lower orders of their caste system.

As with his father, we suspected Tommy to have taken up living in some one of the segregated areas this one, Indian; that, Arabic; another Jewish — all warrens into which only those accustomed to long usage could find and push their way.

Mother said that when the move was made over from Mombasa, Tommy brought along a heavy, old tea caddy, upon which he insisted on sleeping though he, like the other deck passengers, suffered from the rolling of the ship on the glassy swells.

When they anchored in Zanzibar it took some time and much screaming before Tommy negotiated a proper boatman for the moving ashore of his chest and his bundles.

Before we had really settled, Tommy came to our house to assure Mother and Father he was comfortable and safe in his new quarters, then trotted off in quest of material with which to fill his gunny.

From his father, Tommy had taken over the self appointed task of gathering and disposing of papers tossed in trash bins. They would each use one or two huge sacks and often a spare which could be entrusted to a hired carrier for an anna or two, and trundled off to their cubby.

No questions were ever asked as to what Tommy had in them any more than other people would be questioned about their goings and comings and their parcels. While we often heard of the mysterious transference of goods by this class of people, Tommy was never suspect.

As time went on, he became more and more selective of whom he serviced. When, at first, he had been catering to just any business place in his dustbin gathering, he dropped the smaller godowns and offices and shops moving to the larger establishments and even a bank or two.

From them word came back to Father that Tommy had sought out the proper official and asked if he might gather their discarded paper, even though he might have to contribute "cumshaw" to an exalted majordomo. It could not be, the curious reasoned, there was a lucrative market for old paper or cods Tommy pressed and dried from the sodden pulp and sold for the cooking fires.

Assured by personal watching and the reports of the police, Tommy and shops and warehouses, and for filiations were passed over along with the devious ways of a teeming people.

In all these comings and goings, Tommy continued to tidy up offices and shops and warehouses, and for this service, picked up odd coins, not on a fixed basis but each of his clients giving him enough to assure themselves of his service.

Mother said Father gave Tommy two Rupees a month or an occasional bit of something to eat, wear or use for bargaining in the markets. All the time, Tommy was about with his well stuffed gunnies.

In the course of time, Father died. Mother was not well. The rest of the family had scattered—back to England, to the Cape, and one in service in India. Father's partners adjusted business affairs and Mother and I made plans to return to our old family home in Devonshire which, fortuitously, had been vacated by the passing of other relatives.

Now, Mother and Father has been commonly kind to Tommy as he had been loyal to them. To us, Tommy was a supernumery member of the family who understood—and possibly made allowances for—us as we had for him and his.

We had not foreseen our own family change would in any way influence Tommy's future. Tommy, almost incomprehensible to us, was greying. We had enlisted his help in cleaning out and packing, at which he was adept and, being a familiar, one might say, he took a personal interest in the proccedings.

When everything was about ready for the making of our bookings home, Tommy appeared, one morning, in a brighter than usual array and, after much conversation on general matters, told us he, too, had reached a similar status.

He had turned his business over to a younger and trustworthy compatriot, disposed of his disposables, given notice his quarters would be vacated, and that he was leaving Zanzibar for England.

He confessed to Mother he had taken unto himself suitable English style clothing. Would Mother also be so kind as to book passage for him on the same ship in which we were to go?

From long acquaintance with

One not-so-fine morning in late June of 1611, his mutinous crew set Henry Hudson, his son John and seven loyal sailors adrift in a small boat in the Hudson Bay. None of the nine was ever heard from again. The above 1909 Hudson-Fulton Exhibition card reproduces Sir John Collier's painting "The Death of Hudson" in the Tate Gallery, London, England.

Tragic Saga Of Henry Hudson Was Broken Only By Meeting A Mermaid — And He Missed Her!

Harry English

On September 24, 1909 a commemorative was released bearing the inscription "Hudson-Fulton Celebration" and picturing the "Half Moon", the ship of Henry Hudson, and the "Clermont", the steamship of Robert Fulton. This article will concern itself with a biographical sketch of Henry Hudson. Perhaps we shall deal at a later date with Robert Fulton.

When Henry Hudson (famous explorer for whom the Hudson River in New York and the Hudson Bay in Canada were named) was born is shrouded in mystery. The exact date of his death is equally as puzzling.

This may seem odd, especially in regard to a figure so famous in history, but there are no accurate records concerning Hudson's birth or early life. (Later on we shall see why the exact date of his death cannot be specifed).

All that is known is that he was an Englishman—by his own description of himself in a written agreement with a group of Dutch merchants)—that his wife's name was Katherine, and that he had three sons. Oliver was the eldest and Richard the youngest. The third was John who sailed with his father.

The only really authentic place a biographical sketch of Hudson can begin is on April 19, 1607. This date is recorded on one of the stained-glass windows of the church of St. Ethelburga, Bishopsgate, London, where Hudson and a party of eleven had gone previous to embarking on the first of Hudson's four voyages.

It was Hudson's purpose to seek a northern route to the rich orient. The first voyage got under way on May 1, 1607, and they visited the Shetland Islands, Greenland and Spitzbergen before returning to London September 15, 1607.

On April 22, 1608 Hudson again set sail seeking a northeast passage to the lands of Cathay. On this voyage he kept an account; we have no other complete account written by the explorer.

Of this we shall treat later in more detail. Suffice it is to say that Hudson returned to England August 26, 1608 with nothing accomplished except the apparent knowledge of the impossibility of a northeast route.

Not being able to secure further financial assistance in England for his explorations, Hudson turned to the Netherlands and the Dutch East India Co., signing an agreement with them to back another northeast (!) attempt.

On March 25, 1609 he, his son John, and his 18-man crew set sail from Amsterdam in the "Halve Maen" (English version, "Half Moon"). They reached northern waters and found them impassable; therefore they turned west.

After a hazardous crossing and some preliminary explorations, the "Halve Maen" reached what is now Manhattan Island on September 12, 1609. Almost a month was spent in exploring the Hudson River as far north as present-day Troy, N.Y. On October 4 they left America and sailed for Europe.

The fourth and final voyage of Henry Hudson got underway April 17, 1610. On August 3, still seeking a northwest passage, Hudson and his crew on the "Discovery" had entered Hudson Bay in what is now northern Canada.

Weeks were spent in explorations until by early November of 1610 the small party of two dozen men was ice-bound for the winter. Everything edible including moss was devoured in an effort to prevent death by starvation.

Finally they got underway again June 12, 1611, still seeking a way to the East. On the morning of June 23, 1611 (or June 21, 1611, as one account has it) some of the crew under first mate Robert Juet mutinied.

Henry Hudson, his son John, and seven loyal crew-members were set adrift in the Arctic waters without provisions of any kind.

Thus we have positive information concerning Hudson's life for a time of four years, two months, and five days (or three days, depending upon the account from which you take the date of the mutiny).

What was the end of these nine men? Did they reach shore, and if so, what happened to them there? No one knows. And what of the mutineers? Many of them, including Juet, died before the "Discovery" reached England. Some were put on trial but were acquitted.

Now let us return to Hudson's own record of his second voyage. An interesting item is recorded in his log on June 15, 1608; the sighting of a mermaid in the frigid waters of the northern seas! Hudson wrote:

"One of our companie looking overboard (a wonder he didn't fall overboard!) saw a mermaid...and she was come close to the ship's side, looking earnestly on the men."

The two men who saw her described her as having the body of a woman with a speckled fishes tail, "Her body as big as one of us; her skin very white; and long hair hanging down behind, of colour blacke."

Within less than two weeks after this mermaid incident, Hudson's group had reached a long narrow island, now part of Russian territory, called Novaya Zemlya.

Here they searched for many weeks for a passage but found none. Because his crew was showing dissatisfaction, Hudson finally decided —or was forced—to turn for home arriving in London August 26, 1608. In this manner was ended the interesting but virtually useless second voyage.

Philately Of The Holy Land

Leon Walters

Readers of our column are surely aware that this is the 13th year of Israel's existence. To commemorate this important event—the "Bar-Mitzvah", meaning religious age of maturity—the State of Israel released last April 18 a set of stamps.

Apart from this Israel also issued a commemorative "Bar-Mitzvah" coin. Now comes news of a rather interesting series of medals which complement fully this 13th year of the "miracle of the ages", Israel's rebirth.

Basically the whole series consists of one design for the obverse and another for the reverse. The obverse depicts a youth wearing the traditional "talith" and "Tfillin" (prayer shawl and phylacteries) reading from the "Torah" Scroll of the Law which rests on a lactern of the synagogue.

The design is based on the well-known photograph of the Bar-Mitzvah ceremony on Mount Zion. Next to the lectern a space has been provided for inscribing the name of the Bar-Mitzvah boy and the date of the event.

In the center appear the words "At 13 for the fulfillment of the Mitzvah" in Hebrew. These are taken from "The Lessons of the Fathers".

Around the rim of the medal are the same words in English. The date of the striking of the piece appears on the boy's prayer shawl near the rim.

On the reverse, in the center is the Emblem of the State of Israel and surrounding this are the symbols of the twelve Tribes of Israel. Around the rim appear the words "13 years of the State of Israel" in Hebrew and English.

On the edge of the medal (bronze and silver only) are engraved the words "The State of Israel" in Hebrew and English. This inscription does not appear on the gold medals as their edges are milled.

This series, apart from its numismatic value, will also be a meaningful gift for boys reaching the age of Bar-Mitzvah. The series was designed by the firm "Roli" (Rothschild and Lippmann) and will comprise bronze, silver and gold medals in varying sizes. This marks the first occasion on which official Israeli State medals have been struck in gold.

The series is made up as follows: bronze, weight 120 grams, diameter 59mm, quantity 25,000; silver (large) 120gm., 59mm, 2000; silver (regular) 30gm., 30mm., 10,000; gold (large), 15gm., 27mm., 10,000; gold (medium) 8gm., 22mm., 20,000; and gold (small), 5gm., 19mm., 40,000. The three gold offerings are of 18 karats fineness.

All in all, this series should prove to be an interesting "curtain call" for this memorable year and a "must" for every collector of Judaica.

Now while we are on the subject we'll take a bit of time and review all the other official coins issued by the State of Israel, Prime Minister's Office, Medals and Coins section:

The first commemorative coin was a silver one issued in 1958 to honor the 10th Independence of the State.

Of 34mm. diameter, it was released April 24, 1958 and has a face value of five Israeli Pounds. The design was by the famed Israeli artist Mrs. Miriam Karoly, who is also credited with creating the designs for many of Israel's postage stamps.

The edge of the piece is inscribed "Tenth Anniversary of the State of Israel". It was minted by the Royal Mint, Utrecht, Holland in the quantity of 100,000; weight 25gm. It exists in mint and proof condition.

"Knowledge is Light"—This is the theme of the second Israel commemorative coin released in November 1958, on the occasion of Chanukah (the Festival of Lights).

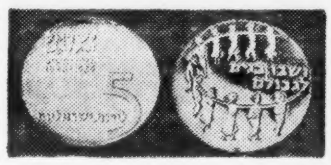

Two Judean Kings are honored by this coin. The seven branched candelabra (the Menorah) shown on the Chanukah coin, and the official emblem of the State of Israel, was first used by King Mattathias on the coins of his realm.

Mattathias Antogenus assumed the title of king when he rose to power in 40 BCE, and ruled until put to death by the Romans at Antioch four years later.

The stars shown on both sides of the Menorah are those used by King Alexander Jannai on his coinage. King Jannai added greatly to the glory of Jewish history.

The coin was designed by the graphic artist Zvy Narkiss of Israel. It was struck in a copper-nickel alloy by the Swiss Government Mint at Zurich. The denomination is one Israeli Pound, but it was sold officially at a premium.

The minting was limited to 250,000 coins and 5000 proofs. The size is 32.2mm, weight 14.1 gm. The design was suggested by Yehuda Yaari.

The "Law of Light" was taken from Proverbs 6:23 "For the Commandment is a Lamp and the Law is Light, and the reproofs of instruction are the way of life."

This third coin was once again in the value of five Pounds featuring the Biblical quotation, ". . . and the people shall return to their homeland" (Jeremiah 31:17). This reference to the important ingathering of the exiles serves to point up one of Israel's most important projects.

This coin was sold officially at 10 Pounds and was available as mint uncirculated and also in limited quantities in proof.

The size is the same as the 10th anniversary one issued in April 1958, and the obverse is the same except for the date ,which reads 5719 (1959).

Again the design was by Miriam Karoly. In addition to the Bible quotation it shows exiles from all over the world symbolically joining hands and marching to their new home in Israel.

As on the tenth anniversary coin, a lettered edge (in Hebrew) was utilized. It was minted in 900 fine silver by the Swiss Government Mint in the quantity of 10,000. The design was suggested by the Advising Committee for Commemorative Coins of the Bank of Israel.

The obverse side was designed by the firm "Roli". In order to facilitate quick identification of proof specimens of Israel coins, such examples have a special mark. The letter "M" appears only on the proof. The regular uncirculated specimens do not bear this mark.

This unusual procedure was adopted by Israel due to the great demand among stamp collectors for the coins of Israel. While coin collectors are used to differentiating between uncirculated and proof specimens, those not trained in coin collecting find the new systems a help.

The Chanukah "Degania" coin which was issued by the bank of Israel for the Medallions and Coins Section, is the fourth commemorative coin of the State of Isarel and the second in our series of Chanukah coins.

It commemorates the Jubilee of Degania, Israel's first collective settlement, as well as the jubilee of the collective agricultural movement in Israel.

One side, designed by graphic artists Rothschild and Lippman, shows the view of Degania which is situated on the sea of Galilee, and its houses, pine nnd palm trees. The words "Degania" and "Jubiliee of the Collective Settlement" are also engraved on this die.

The obverse design by Miriam

A CHALLENGE

To all collectors who have reached the point where they are tired of mounting pretty pictures. Few of us can afford pioneer research in classic stamps due to their high cost and scarcity; however, the West-German Building issue of 1948 offers a challenge to those collectors who desire a facinating study with opportunity for pioneer research in Types, Plate flaws, Retouches, Double prints, Plate numbers, Shades, Perforation varieties, Watermarks, Paper and Plating. Quantities of these stamps are readily available from collectors' duplicates, dealers' stock, packets and mixtures. Throughout the world there are hundreds of collectors deriving pleasure and knowledge from these 28 basic stamps. Much printed information is available including a 56 page catalogue, but much study is yet to be done. To introduce you to this fascinating field we have made up the following kit:

1.	Ka-Be Special spring-back 300 page capacity album, clothbound in a handsome, wine-red color.	$ 3.00
2.	Specially ordered matching hardboard slipcover.	$ 2.00

Postal Stationery Group To Convene In New York

The annual meeting of the United Postal Stationery Society will be held November 18 at 10:30 a.m at the Collectors Club, 22 E. 35th St., New York City. All members of the UPSS are invited to attend.

The Society has broken its previous membership record by attaining a figure of 478 on November 1. Further information about this group may be had from James H. Booth, secretary, 2016 Ave. "V", Ensley, Birmingham 8, Ala.

HOLY LAND

Karoli bears the I£1 nominal value of the coin, the word "Israel" and the "1960" in both Hebrew and Arabic. The design had been duly approved by the Bank of Israel's Advisory Council for the Designing of Banknotes, Coins and Commemorative Coin.

It was minted at the Royal Mint, Utrecht, Holland, of copper-nickel alloy, 32.2mm. diameter, weight 14.-1gm. The proof bears the Hebrew letter "M" at the bottom of the reverse side.

The 1960 coin in addition to the Independence Day, honors the centenary of Herzl's birth. The reverse shows Herzl's portrait within a square with rounded edges. This portrait is based on a photograph taken in 1903, a year prior to his death.

The emblem of the State of Israel is engraved on the center below and from it, to the left upward is the inscription "it is no legend" taken from Theodore Herzl's famous prophecy. "If you will it—it is no legend."

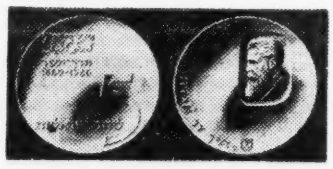

The obverse is similar to the two previous Independence coins; it shows the denomination (I£5) and "Israel" in both Hebrew and Arabic. The dates 1860-1960 are also shows on this side.

The coin was available both regular and proof. The former was supplied in a plastic container and the proof in a very functional olivewood box which is designed to serve a twofold purpose—to store or to display.

Minting was done at the Swiss State Mint in Berne. For the first time the issue was reduced to 50,000 and the usual allocation of 5000 proof for the American market was reduced to 2000 as the demand in Israel has increased considerably.

The proof can easily be identified by the Hebrew letter "M" found directly beneath the wording "EIN ZO AGADA".

The inscriptions "Twelfth Year of the State of Israel" and "Centenary of Herzl's Birth" are engraved on the rim. The metal is silver 900 fine; size, 34mm.

More than 20 suggestions concerning the form and layout of the coin were sent to the council but none was found to be suitable. Yigael Yadin, who is a member of that body, then suggested the insertion in the upper part of the reverse, the portrait of Theodore Herzl as well as the emblem of the State of Israel and the words "It is no legend" (Ein Zo Agada).

The next commemorative coin shows on the reverse the figure of a cloaked woman embracing a young lamb symbolizing the great love of Henrietta Szold for the young and defenseless.

On this side is written in Hebrew "Henrietta Szold" and beneath it in small letters the year of her birth and the words "Hadassah, Aliyat Hanoar" in Hebrew. The artist for this side was Jacob Zim.

The obverse shows the new building of the Hadassah Medical Center in Jerusalem. On the upper left "Israel" is written in Hebrew and Arabic and the date in numerals (Arabic and Hebrew).

The denomination of I£1 is shown in the lower right-hand portion of the coin. This side was designed by the artists "Roli". The metal is an alloy of nickel and copper, diameter 32.2mm, weight 25gm. The coin was struck at the State Mint in Utrecht, Holland; maximum issues, 20,000 (18,000 regular, 2000 proof).

Henrietta Szold had a long and fruitful public career. She died in 1945, loved by the people of Israel and admired by Jews all over the world and by many friends of the Zionist movement. This coin was issued by the Bank of Israel to commemorate the centenary of the birth of a great personality.

The "Half Shekel" was issued to coincide with the approaching feast of Purim. This coin has been designed to serve as a token of payment for the customary contribution of one-half shekel on Purim, using from now on an Israeli coin of this special denomination instead of foreign coins hitherto used for this purpose.

The half shekel was of great importance in ancient Israel. Already in the second book of the law it is decreed that every male Jew 20 years old and above should pay every year half a shekel for the sanctuary (Exodus 30:11-15).

"This they shall give . . . half a shekel according to the shekel of the sanctuary . . . one-half shekel shall be the offering of the Lord . . . The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when they give an offering unto the Lord, to make an atonement for your souls."

The Shulkhan Arukh states about this custom (chapter 14): "It is customary to pay, before Purim, a coin bearing the denomination of half the monetary unit current at the respective place and time in commemoration of the half shekel which was paid in the month of Adar for the maintenance of public sacrifices."

In the course of time the gift was more and more connected with the feast of Purim when it was made before the reading of the "Scroll". In Yiddish the payment is called "Purimgeld".

On the reverse three is a raised scribed the word "Israel" in Hebrew and Arabic, the Hebrew date 5721 (1961), and in the center, "Hatzi Lira Israelit" (half an Israeli Pound). The proof coins are marked by a very small "mem" (Hebrew "M") at lower center.

On the reverse there is a raised reproduction of an ancient silver half shekel from the third year of the Jewish revolt against Rome (66-73 CE). The edges are smooth.

Details of the coin: Metal, copper-nickel alloy; diameter 29.5mm; weight 12gm.; nominal value, I£½; quantity, regular coins, first minting, 20,000; proofs, limited to 5000.

The design followed a suggestion of Yigael Yadin and Leo Kadman, President of The Israel Numismatic Society. It was created by the graphic artists Rothschild and Lippann and minted at the State Mint, Utrecht, Holland.

The last coin to be issued prior to the new medals was the Bar-Mitzvah one issued to commemorate Israel's 13th anniversary. This was the eighth State Commemorative coin nd the Fourth Independence Day coin.

On the obverse there is an olive branch bearing ten leaves and three olives symbolizing 13 years of Israel's Statehood. At the upper left is inscribed "Israel" in Hebrew and Arabic and beneath that the Hebrew date 5721 (1961).

At the bottom is shown the nominal value, "5 Liot Isrealiot" (5 Israeli Pounds) in Hebrew. On the reverse there is a reproduction of an ancient Holy Ark painted on beautiful gold glass in the third century CE, now in the Vatican.

Clearly visible within the Ark are the Scrolls of the Law which in those days were customarily placed in a horizontal position and not vertically, as today. There are steps leading up to the Ark.

To the right of the Ark is the Hebrew word "BAR" and to the left the Hebrew word "MITZVAH". The proof coins are marked by a very small "mem" (Hebrew "M") on the right of the third step.

The edges are inscribed with the Hebrew words "13th Year of the State of Israel". The coin was designed by the graphic artist Zvi Narkiss, and minted at the State Mint, Utrecht, Holland.

This article is only a feeble attempt to cover a rather expansive subject. We hope readers with more information will come foreward and help to enlarge and correct this first attempt in cataloging the coins of Israel.

Shalom—Peace be with you.

On The Road To Dashinchilen: A Review Of The Philately Of Mongolia 1860 To The Present

A. Cronin

Dashinchilen is a remote county in the Bulgan province of Outer Mongolia. I have never been there, but a Canadian professor friend mailed some covers to me from this locality while in Mongolia for the First International Mongolists' Conference, held at Ulan Bator, the capital, in September 1959.

Outer Mongolia is the stamp-issuing country listed in Scott's under "Mongolia. It has been in the news lately because of its entry on October 25 into the United Nations and of rumored moves to establish diplomatic relations with the United States.

The latter maneuvers appear to have been suspended, but there is no doubt that the country's strategic position between the two communist giants, Russia and China, will keep it before the eyes of the world.

The Mongols themselves are Mongoloid or Chinese-like in appearance. They speak a language whose dialects are related to the Turki group of languages which stretch from Yakutia in Northern Siberia all the way across Central Asia to the Turkish-speaking areas of the Balkans.

An agglutinative and highly developed language, Mongolian has the interesting principle of vowel harmony; i.e. the first vowel in a word governs what the following vowels will be.

It often happens that foreign loan words disobey the harmony principle but many Mongols instinctively apply the native rules to such words, and in letters to me, I have come across such examples as "aadaras" instead of "address' and "kan' bart" for "konvert" (envelope) as adaptaions from the original Russian pronunciation.

This hand-carved cachet was applied at Yeuseun Bulag in 1960 to mark the 20th anniversary of the Bobi-Altai province, of which it is the capital.

The scourge of Europe and Asia under the mighty Genghiz Khan, Mongolia later declined during a series of disastrous civil wars and eventually fell under Chinese rule.

It became Soviet Russia's first ally when the "Mad Baron" Ungarn von Sternberg and his White army were wiped out by the Reds in the last stages of the Russian Civil War in 1921.

The Reds' Mongolian ally was a young revolutionary leader named Sykebator, who is pictured on several Mongolian issues including Scott's No. 69. He is reputed to have been poisoned by the local lamas in 1923, while the death of the Hutuktu or Mongol counterpart of the Dalai Lama paved the way for the conversion of the country into a Russian-style republic while still nominally under the rule of China.

This change is reflected in the third issue of stamps in 1927, on which the current name of the country appears for the first time: the "BNMAU" or "Bugude Nairamdakho Mongghol Arat Ulus", meaning "All in agreement Mongolian People's Country".

The nearest English equivalent is "Mongolian People's Republic" and the last ties with China were severed after the results of a plebiscite held in 1946.

The literary language was written in a traditional and sometimes ambiguous vertical script until 1931 when it was replaced by a Russian-sponsored Unified Latin Turki Alphabet (Scott's No. 67), which was also introduced into Tannou Touva and the other Turki-speaking areas of the USSR.

The Mongolian vertical script is by no means dead, however, as I have recently received letters written in it from correspondents in Ulan Bator and Undur Khan. Just to complicate matters, the central Khalkha dialect was made official in 1941 and the Latin alphabet then dropped in favor of Cyrillic.

In this current alphabet, all the Russian letters are used but some have modified sounds. Thus the Russian "b" and "v" are both pronounced "b", Russian "zh" is pronounced like English "j", Russian "z" is pronounced "dz", and Russian "e" is like "yeu".

All the Russian "i" vowels and combinations, as well as the soft sign as used for the single Mongolian "i" sound, English capital "Y" written for the sound resembling the German "u" with umlaut, and the discarded Russian letter "fita" (Greek "theta") is employed for the German "o" (umlaut) sound.

The modern official language is a development of the old literary tongue and the words are generally shorter. Thus the name of the capital is "Ulaghan Baghatur" ("red hero", in honor of Sykebator, after his death) in the old version. It is "Ulaan Baatar" in the modern language and is pronounced "Ulaanbatr", with strong roll to the "r", by the locals.

In Russia and the West, the country's name is generally given as Ulan Bator. Although the modern speech contains some loan words from other languages, it is in a remarkable state of purity and flexibility, this being no doubt due to the vigilance and efforts of the Mongolian Academy of Sciences.

This development is in marked contrast to the language of the Buriat Mongols just across the northern border in Siberia, whose dialect is riddled with Russian terms.

Outer Mongolia has a population of around a million people, spread over 600,000-odd square miles, and they have 23,000,000 head of sheep, cattle, camels, yaks, and what-have-you to keep them company.

Although basically a land concerned with animal husbandry, it has also made progress in agriculture and industrialization, so much so that in 1960, two additions were made to its coat of arms: two sheaves of wheat and a cogwheel, to go with the original representation of a Mongol horseman riding over a pasture ground.

The railway from Naushki in Siberia, via Ulan Bator to Dzamyn Uud on the Chinese border was com-

Let's do some "Debunking"
In every philatelic magazine you are sure to see ads that wildly proclaim: "We pay highest prices!"
These advertisements are irresponsible nonsense. Only one dealer can at any one time pay the highest price. But, it should be remembered that the dealer that pays the highest price must in turn re-sell to someone else for an even higher price. Simple business economics demand that to stay in business it is necessary to earn a sufficient amount to cover overhead plus a reasonable profit.
Anyone can sell his most popular and finest stamps quickly at what appears to be a favorable price. But then comes the problem of disposing of the remainder of the collection, often of little interest to the average dealer and therefore difficult to move. And when you have finally tabulated your return against your original investment, what started out as a promising transaction often ends up as a headache.
Our position as one of the largest stamp organizations in the United States should be of interest to you when you sell because:
- We deal in stamps of every country and every period of time.
- We buy only entire lots. We don't pick the cream.
- Our outlets are international: including America's first and largest retail stamp shop specializing in self-service; a huge approval business that requires great quantities of medium and higher priced materials; a mail order auction that sells singles and sets worth upward of $100,000 a year; and one of the country's greatest public auction services, catering to both dealers and collectors, offering rarities, singles, sets and entire collections for a reasonable commission.
- Our traveling buyers cover all of North America to view and arrange the sale of suitable material.

Consider all of these points when selecting a firm to sell to. Then, if you are at all reasonable in expecting us to earn a fair profit, it will pay you to phone, write or wire:

PHILATELY OF MONGOLIA

pleted in 1955 and has helped greatly in opening up the country.

Philatelically speaking, Mongolia is a lot of fun, and the traditional American respect for covers from remote places has resulted in most of the gems of Mongolian philately being held in U. S. hands.

Dr. Edward M. Tolman of New York City undoubetdly has the finest collection in the world, particularly in covers of the Russian and Chinese posts down to 1921. He has also done very fine work on the controversial "POSTAGE" overprints of 1926, which have been extensively forged.

Sam Ray of Chicago is another enthusiast with a wide knowledge of the field, while Kurt Adler of the Metropolitan Opera in New York has a magnificent lot of modern covers, especially from the remoter offices.

Gale Raymond of Houston, Texas scooped us all on covers from the Czech Archeological Expedition to the ruins of Karakorum in 1958, and there are many more American collectors diligently picking up material where they can.

Overseas we have one of my very best friends, George S. Russell of Auckland, New Zealand, who runs Dr. Tolman a close second. He has an amazing flair for locating new sources of supply.

In London James Negus has done sterling work on the issues since 1943 and has also coordinated previous research, thus leading to a rise of interest in English philatelic circles. Theo Klewitz has been keeping up the good work in Germany for many years and has a very fine collection.

All this reminds me of the days back in 1948, when I was living in Sydney, Australia. My two closest friends there were Jim Critchlow, secretary of the Australian Cable Makers' Assn. who was a collector of Russia and States, and George Croyston.

Now a leading stamp dealer in Australia, George was then a pastry cook in the Sydney suburb of Willoughby, collecting China, Hong Kong and Treaty Ports. Jim and I used to go over to his shop every Saturday afternoon for philatelic chit chat.

George slept in on Saturday mornings, and a little after 2 p.m., he'd amble downstairs yawning and looking for his false teeth. After freshening up, we'd discuss our philatelic problems and he'd treat us to some of his excellent cakes at afternoon tea.

We all collected Mongolia at the time as part of our spheres of interest and it puzzled us that from 1932 onwards we had sighted no new stamps from the country.

We were not even sure if the 1932 pictorials (Scott's 62-74) were still valid for postage, but we decided to pool our duplicates and make up three covers addressed to each of us and stiffened with blotters publicizing the Australian Cable Makers' Assn., which were supplied by Jim.

We had a local Chinese write the request and destination for us, via Hong Kong and Shanghai to the postmaster at Ulan Bator, asking him to cancel and return the covers and also to let us know if any new issues were available.

A few months later, came back the package from Hong Kong, marked "No service to Mongolia". This time the request was divided into three directions and a cover sent off via Moscow, Vladivostok and Japan respectively, with servicing directions written by me in Russian.

Months went past and then one fine day in May 1949, Mr. Croyston told George in great excitement that a registered letter had just arrived from Mongolia. While George was admiring the cover, his wife kept asking him to open it.

"Oh," said he, "I already know what's inside—one of Jim's A.C.M.A. blotters. See!" And he opened the cover to take out the blotter.

"Well, for goodness sake," said Mrs. Croyston, "why would anyone in Mongolia send you one of those?"

But that was nothing compared with the consternation he caused when waving it under our noses at the club meeting a couple of days later.

The 1932 pictorials on the front were defaced with green crosses, while on the back there were three stamps of the 1943 issue which we had never seen before, one of them lightly touched with an Ulaan Baatar cancel dated February 1949.

In addition, all stamps were thumped with blurred cancels reading what appeared to be "M.P.R." at top. The other spectatorrs thought it looked more like "M.R.R.", but I shouted them down, as after all "M.P.R." could stand for "Mongolian People's Republic".

My stand was shaken badly, though, when the bottom half of the cancels showed an inscription reading something like "G.P.O. PERTH W.A."

While I was desperately trying to reconcile all this, the late Capt. Harry Porter, who was as English as Yorkshire pudding and watching all the fun, broke in and said, "By Jove, 'Mail Receiving Room, G. P. O. Perth, Western Australia'. I thought that postmark had expired years ago!"

I guess that was an example of the perfect squelch. The conscientious clerk at Perth had also added in pencil the notation "R1 A, Mongolia" as the boys in Ulan Bator had not bothered to register the cover although it was marked as such in Russian and English.

The known extent of Mongolian philately begins with Russian stamps used abroad at several offices there, with occasional usages of Russian China issues at the capital, then known as Urga. The Russian posts operated from the late 1860's until early 1919 and while late strikes from Urga are relatively common, the other offices are scarce to very rare.

One of them, Uliasutai, has not yet been sighted on cover. I was lucky to find some of the first examples of the cancel from this office on the 7k. Romanov stamp in a Russian bulk mixture while still in Australia, which just goes to show that you never know where items will show up.

The Chinese offices operated from around the beginning of this century until 1921 and although markings and covers are rarer than those of their Russian competitors, they are not as popular among collectors.

The consolidation of Red rule in 1921 led to an interim stampless period lasting until late 1924. During this period a postage paid frank inscribed in Mongolian and English, with a space for insertion of the rate paid, was struck on the mails. Dr. Tolman has the earliest recorded usage, on a cover to Harbin, Manchuria.

The first stamps then followed (Scott's 1-7) and I am indebted to Kurt Adler for the story of their designer. Lothar Schonauer was a personal friend of Kurt's and served in the Austro-Hungarian Army during World War I.

Captured by the Russians, he was a P. O. W. in Siberia until he escaped during the Russian Civil War and made his way down to Mongolia.

There he worked as a photographer and commercial artist and was subsequently commissioned to design the first stamps, incorporating the symbolic "eldeb ochir" or "crossed thunderbolts" motive. The necessary vertical inscriptions in old Mongolian were written out for him by a native scribe.

Later he settled and married in Moscow where he worked for the Chamber of Commerce.

It has often been stated that these first stamps were printed by the Commercial Press in Shanghai, but although oriental in appearance and production, the perforations tally with the known Russian types.

Moreover, all values exist in strips of five with the Russian word "OBRAZETS" meaning "Specimen" perforated thereon, thus pointing to production by Goznak, the State Printing Office in Moscow. Apparently delivery of the issue in Ulan Bator included all spoilage and printers' waste, which eventually leaked out into philatelic channels.

All values except the 5c are known with horizontal perforations across the centers—even on stamps which were originally imperforate—allegedly for separation and usage for half their original face values. However no evidence of such usage has ever been seen on genuine covers and it would seem that such varieties actually formed part of the spoilage delivered originally by the printers to Mongolia.

The seventh article of the 1921 treaty between Soviet Russia and Mongolia obliged the former to set up postal and telegraphic services in the country. Since the Mongols were still inexperienced in this work, most of the postal staff were Russians for some years afterwards.

Henning Haslund, in the book "Tent in Mongolia" mentions meeting the young Russian postmaster at Khatkhyl, while I once possessed a 1929 cover showing that the postmaster then at Tsetserlig Mandal was also a Russian.

He had run out of stamps so he placed the office cancel on the cover and wrote beside it in two lines "25 mungu paid / Z. Shelyakhov" in Russian.

He then apparently put the cover and money in the mail bag, as elsewhere on the envelope there is a 25 mung stamp (Scott's 39) cancelled a few days later at Ulan Bator, en route to China. I should be shot for parting with a sweet item like that; oh well, the best of luck to its present owner.

Another item of interest is the reported visit to Europe during 1948 of the Mongolian Minister of Posts, one Dagh Un Tai. It appears that he was interviewed by the Italian philatelic magazine "La Settimana Filatelica".

H. R. HARMER AUCTIONS

Possibly reports of $10,000 realizations for individual items, Season's turnovers exceeding one million dollars and the advertising of great rarities to be offered have led you to believe that the H. R. Harmer auctions are "too rich" for you.

The contrary is very definitely the case. Whilst most of H. R. Harmer auction include big rarities, these are invarably part of a collection which contains the normal, more reasonable stamps and sets. Naturally it is necessary for an auction house to maintain a reasonable average-value for lots, but bigger rarities permit the offering of smaller lots ranging from about $5 value upwards.

Collectors would perhaps be surprised to find many comparatively reasonable items offered individually in H. R. Harmers auctions. In many instances, catalogue value of such items is between $10 and $20.

One further big advantage of buying at the H. R. Harmer auctions is that the stamps are carefully described by experts, all defects are methodically mentioned to permit you to gauge your bids appropriately. Equally all lots are offered entirely without reserve and sold to the highest bidder. There are no upset prices, no starting minimums.

To enjoy collecting fully you should buy through the H. R. Harmer auctions. Why not start now by completing the form below and mailing it right away to

November 17 Auction By Lansdowne Society

The public is cordially invited to participate in an auction to be held by the Lansdowne Stamp Club November 17. The sale will begin at 8 p.m. in the club's meeting room at 118 N. Lansdowne Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

Over 100 lots of outstanding stamps and covers will be auctioned. Material has been donated by club members and, as most of the lots will be sold without reserve, this is a real opportunity to obtain philatelic bargains.

Among other things, he stated that Italian stamps were the most beautiful in the world, that Mongolia would soon follow suit with pictorial sets of like beauty and also set up a philatelic exchange bureau.

However, time moves slowly in the BNMAU and they did not really hit us in earnest until ten years later in 1958, when the first animal set, printed in Hungary, was circularized on first day covers with an appropriately inscribed stiffener. It was canceled and mailed from Ulan Bator to selected stamp dealers and others. The Hungarian wholesale outlet now distributes all Mongolian new issues with a few exceptions, including used sets and FDC's which are prepared and canceled with a facsimile of the current "Ulaan Baatar" cancels in Budapest, by hand on the covers and with a lithographic printing plate on the canceled-to-order sets which are conveniently left ungummed.

To add to the confusion, both Budapest and Ulan Bator apply a distinctive five-language cachet on their FDC's, and both can be recognized by slight differences. Budapest also sends a supply of unaddressed but cancelled FDC's to Mongolia for sale to local collectors.

I even have one such item bearing the recent Lumumba set sent through the mails and addressed to me by an Ulan Bator correspondent, the cover being backstamped by a genuine Ulaan Baatar marking dated a few days after that of the Budapest efforts on the front!

Despite the above refinements, recent issues printed in Budapest are not wholly aimed at foreign collectors but are widely distributed throughout the country within a few days after issue in the capital.

In fact, I have received varied selections from such remote offices at Dalan-Dzadgad in the arid Eumn-Gobi province and even from Bain-Eulgi in the province of the same name on the Oirot border, which is about as far west as you can go from Ulan Bator.

While the issues printed in Budapest reflect the usual immaculate Hungarian workmanship, I personally prefer the stamps which are occasionally printed locally in Ulan Bator as they show the typical oriental skill in lithography and feature traditional Mongolian ornamentation.

A fine example are the large-size stamps issued in September 1959 for the First International Mongolists' Conference, the lithographic plates being built up from ten transfer types. The lithographic artist did not show good judgment in writing in the appropriate English inscriptions, so the alignment varies on each of the several values issued.

This set was not distributed by Budapest and is rather hard to get in Ulan Bator as a good part of the printing was distributed to small offices in the provinces.

The development of Mongolia has resulted in more than 160 post offices and agencies being currently in operation throughout the country's 18 "aimags" or provinces. They are all being supplied with a standard two-ring canceler reading "Mongolian Country's Post" at top and the name of the office at bottom.

The general appearance of these postmarkers suggests that they have been made in East Germany, and in contrast to the smaller Russian-style cancelers previously (and sometimes still concurrently) in use, the dates in the new type give the year first, followed by the month and day numerals to conform with normal Mongolian usage.

At least, that is what should happen—but in some rural agencies, the date rollers get jumbled up and the result is generally a tangle of figures and blank date slugs.

The earlier Russian-style types show the Russian abbreviation "MHP" at top and since there were fewer offices and agencies then in operation, the main provincial centers applied (and sometimes still apply) cancels inscribed with the province name only, and not that of the provincial capital.

Thus Mandal-Gobi still uses the old type inscribed "Dund-Gobi", and Altanbulak uses one inscribed "Selenge", even though Selenge province has now been incorporated in the Central province which includes Ulan Bator. At least eight of these province-name markings have been seen and more probably exist.

In addition to their usual markings, most offices and agencies have registration handstamps, "PAR AVION" boxed rectangular handstamps for international airmail and a similar boxed type inscribed "Agaaryn Shuudan" (Air Post) in two lines for internal airmail.

This latter marking often appears on airmail letters going abroad, however. A further rectangular type reading "ALBANY" (official) has been seen from Mandal Gobi and has undoubtedly been supplied to many other offices as well.

Since most towns and fixed settlements in Mongolia are of relatively recent foundation due to the semi-nomadic nature of many rural inhabitants, the provincial agencies are generally responsible for the postal needs of an entire "somon" (county).

These rural offices carry a surprising range of issues; the agency at Shine-Tarialaan in the Kheubsgeul province still had a stock of the 3 Tugrik sheep-shearing stamp (Scott's 72) as recently as December 1960.

Towns in the interior are by no means backward, however, as a source in Yeuseun Bulag, capital of the Gobi-Alti province used writing paper of an orange brown shade, on both sides of which there was lithographed in the same position a local design honoring the participation of the province of the first Youth and Student Festival held in Mongolia in 1959.

The same town celebrated the 20th anniversary of the foundation of the province a year later by applying a locally carved chop in violet featuring a mountain goat, on native envelopes.

The Ministry of Transport and Communications in Ulan Bator regularly produces illustrated postcards and envelopes showing many facets of life and postal communications in Mongolia. It also issued a special cancel and envelope recently for the opening of the new central communications building.

A national philatelic society exists for internal exchanges and its president sent James Negus and me over 40 different Mongolian stamps, canceled to order and covering issues up to 1958. In my case, they included one of the revenue stamps printed on thinner paper plus some odd values from the 1927 set including the 5T.

The development of philately in the country led to the appearance in June 1959 of an official catalog of the issues from 1924 onwards, printed entirely in Mongolian.

It contains some interesting information including details of a rare 1 Tugrik "Unen" (Truth) essay of 1932, printed in red on white paper in an edition of 500 copies, possibly for or by the main local newspaper of the same name.

This catalog is already a rarity as only 5000 were printed. It was snapped up by the locals as it is really a catalog-album, with specific spaces for all the stamps listed.

This was followed in 1960 with a booklet printed in Russian at Ulan Bator. It deals with the development of the Mongolian postal services from the pre-stamp era going back over 1000 years and extending to the postage stamps and services of today.

This interesting work is being serialized in an English translation by the "Rossica" philatelic journal, and interested collectors may contact the editor-in-chief, Dr. Gregory B. Salisbury, 49th and Locust Sts., Philadelphia 39, Pa. for further details and subscriptions.

All this raises the question of present philatelic contacts with the country. First of all, Mongolia is not a member of the UPU and it depends on both Russia and China for international mail transit. Admission to the UN and the broadening of international contacts may now change the situation.

Secondly, although many people in the capital know Russian and some even English, few people in the provinces know any language but their own.

This is not quite so bad as it seems, as some of the world's greatest authorities on the language reside in the U.S. and there are at least three universities in the country offering courses in Mongolian.

The third point to remember is that philatelic contacts will be haphazard, as Mongols have rather vague ideas on time and this is reflected in the language.

Let us hope that, if the international climate improves, we'll soon be hearing of the first batch of U.S. tourists descending on Ulan Bator to do the town. They would get a warm welcome from the Mongols, but let them be warned:

Mongols honor their guests with huge banquets a la Russe and present them with traditional titbits—sheep's eyes! So they will have to close their own eyes, swallow the sheep's eyes and pretend they like them, all in the interests of international amity.

Stamp Brokerage Agency
This service is designed to bring together the buyer and the seller of any philatelic material at a price agreed upon by both parties.
The principal is much the same as the Stock Exchange in its handling of securities, bringing the buyer and the seller together at a mutually agreed price.
Our special forms for buying or selling material is available in pad forms of 50 sheets. These pads are offered to you for 50c. This charge is made merely to cover the cost of printing and mailing.
For a yearly subscription price of $2.00, members will receive a pad of forms and all flash notices of outstanding bids and offers before publication of these bids and offers in the trade papers. Subscribers will also receive copies of the "Stamp Brokerage Journal". This paper will list the highest bid and lowest offer only.
The forms themselves are self-explanatory on whether you want to buy or sell or both.
Mail your $2.00 now and receive your pade of forms immediately. Your subscription investment will more than be repaid with your first purchase or sale.
If you do not care for the complete service, but would like to buy or sell your philatelic material, you can receive a pad of forms for 50c.
A sample form will be sent upon request, with a stamped self-addressed envelope.

"Mr. H. Schliemann, St. Petersburg" was an entirely sufficient address for this cover of August 8, 1849, in spite of the great size of the Russian city. For addressee Schliemann, although then residing in St. Petersburg for only a year, had already established himself with postal authorities as the recipient of much mail, and his name alone sufficed for his address.

A Batch Of Schliemann Covers

Karl W. Scheufler

A book by Robert Payne entitled "The Gold of Troy" came to my library recently although it was published in 1959. It is the story of Henry Schliemann, the finance giant who turned archaeologist in his later years and was unusually successful in locating and uncovering ancient Troy and other archaeological sites.

In connection with reading this book there occurred to me one of those unusual coincidences which is a "million-to-one shot":

On May 5 I interrupted the reading of this biography of Henry Schliemann to attend a meeting of the Columbus Philatelic Club, of which I am secretary. As I entered the room in the Southern Hotel, Columbus, Ohio where we were scheduled to meet several members were already present. They were buying and selling philatelic items, as is the custom in the club.

Carl Sachs was one of them, as usual. In fact, he was once secretary of the group, and has not missed a meeting in more than a decade. Before him was a stack of covers he was offering for sale, and which were being inspected by some members.

I stopped to glance at those stampless covers—and received one of those shocks which come too infrequently in life. Many of them were addressed to Henry Schliemann, at St. Petersburg, Russia and were dated between 1849 and 1863!

What are the mathematical chances of a man putting down a biography and going to any club meeting at which no one knows anything about his library or his reading habits, and seeing envelopes addressed to the famous man about whom he has been reading? Especially what are the chances of these covers being over a century old? It happened to me in the month of May 1961.

Several of the Schliemann covers had already been purchased by other members of the club, but I took all that were left—28 of them. One of them had had a stamp on it, but it had been soaked off. The rest were stampless.

Schliemann was connected with the firm of B. H. Schroeder and Co. in Amsterdam. Most of the covers originated in Amsterdam and reached Schliemann in St. Petersburg. Some of the covers came from Liverpool, London and Paris.

One of them was mailed in St. Petersburg and reached Schliemann in Paris, in care of Rothschild Brothers. All covers bear place and date stamps, usually in multiples.

One says "a vapeur". Was it to have been fumigated as "sanitary mail"? Alas, no; its lot was not so romantic—"a vapeur" was an early route marking meaning "forward by steam (boat)".

Carl Sachs told me that he purchased these covers after World War I from an Athens, Greece dealer who was in New York for a period. Schliemann's wife was from Athens, where he did much of his fine archaeolgical research. Mr. Sachs had forgotten about these covers for many years until a recent change of residence uncovered them again.

Probably the original holding of this lot numbered thousands, because many of them are printed forms by means of which the Schroeder Co. kept its St. Petersburg agent informed of market changes. A few of them still contain correspondence.

What are such covers worth? To me the possession of them is a thrill, so they are worth whatever I or someone else would pay for this thrill! Because of them Henry Schliemann is more real to me than he has ever been.

Some years ago while studying Greek and ancient history, in post graduate school, this man's name was met frequently. By means of these covers history comes alive for me.

The mathematical chances of this find occurring are too great to be achieved, but it happened to me! The right man must be in the right place at the right time, with mind alert and with some resources, and then nice things can happen to him.

But who was this Henry Schliemann, and why—other than having his name on a few old covers—should I be so interested in him? Let us consider:

When Heinrich Schliemann opened his presents on Christmas morning of 1829 the then seven-year-old boy found a copy of "The Illustrated History of the World" by Ludwig Jerrer. Henry turned immediately to the pages on Troy because a local scholar, J. H. Vass, had made a famous translation of Homer.

"Homer", "The Iliad", "The Odyssey", and "Troy" had been household words in the home of Pastor Schliemann, Henry's father. That Christmas Day in Machlenburg (close to the Polish border) Heinrich and his father discussed Troy.

The father thought it was lost forever, but the boy dreamed a dream that some day he would visit Troy, locate the old city, and uncover its walls and palaces.

In 1890 Henry died after having made real his dream. Only for the last 17 years of his life was he able to turn archaeologist, but in those years he uncovered Troy, secured a vast treasure from its ashes, and made other discoveries.

Where he began, modern, scientific archaeologists have continued, and history and archaeology have been enriched.

Before he could turn archaeologist Henry Schlieman had to become a millionaire. One fortune was made in the employ of the Schroeder interests in Amsterdam.

On February 1, 1846 he took up residence in St. Petersburg, Russia as their agent and before long he was on the way to becoming a rich man. He added to his fortune while in California during the Gold Rush days, but all this is unimportant except in its relation to his discovery of the true site of Troy.

Many people called Schiemann a most fortunate man. He discovered the site of Troy almost by sheer intuition. He was "lucky" to have amassed his several fortunes.

He was "lucky" to have written the bishop of Athens, Greece from Indianapolis, Ind. and to have had that good man pick out an ideal wife for him. But, perhaps it was archaeology which was lucky—and not Schliemann.

His first marriage was tragic. His contacts with governments as he excavated were unpleasant—made increasingly so by the deceptions practiced by this great man. He had few friends.

Though born in a Christian parsonage he turned his back on the faith of his fathers. If only he had found more Greek words in the New Testament that Homer used, he might not have called the Bible "fiction".

To him Homer was real, and all else of little importance. Schliemann was not a lucky man, but nevertheless he made a great contribution to history and civilization.

Much of his clerical work he did himself. He could not bring himself to trust secretaries. Perhaps the notations written on most of his letters for filing purposes are in his own hand, for the writing is that of a man and is the same over a period of many years, and Schliemann—as stated above—did most of his own clerical work.

He was capable of intense concentration. He quickly mastered Greek, and learned other languages in periods as short as six weeks in length.

These letters addressed to Schliemann, many of which contain filing notations in his own hand, remind us of a man who made a great contribution to life, but who found life anything but happy and congenial.

(Editor's note—Mr. Scheufler is pastor of the First Methodist Church, Bryden Rd. and 18th St., Columbus 5, Ohio, and secretary of the 150-member Columbus Philatelic Club).

Civil War Society To Stage First Mail Sale

The Civil War Philatelic Society which was formed earlier this year is vitally interested in all phases of philately concerning both the Civil War and its centennial now being observed.

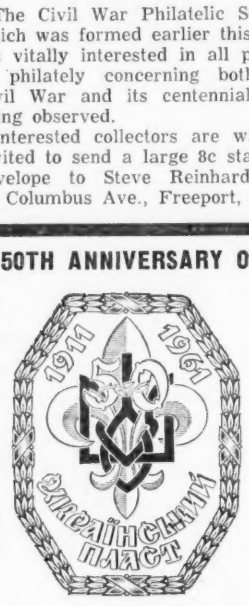

Interested collectors are warmly invited to send a large 8c stamped envelope to Steve Reinhard, 333 N. Columbus Ave., Freeport, L. I., N.Y. for full details. The group is now in process of staging its first mail sale, with over 100 lots of choice offerings listed.

STILL GOING ON BIG CLEARANCE SALE
SUPER MIXTURE

For the past few years we have concentrated on selling better sets, collections, covers and other good philatelic items. Before this we had a rather large approval business. Our office is 25 feet by 20 feet and the walls are lined with shelves holding stockbooks by country, stockbooks with sets, mixed stockbooks, boxes of covers, boxes of mixtures on and off paper, files of surplus stock and unsorted boxes. In the middle of the room we have the usual office furniture, tables and printing equipment. It all started out so neat, but now even the floors are beginning to get crowded with too many boxes all over the place. We manage to slide around between the boxes, but lately our printer is complaining that we are even usurping his little world of space. We would like very much to concentrate on the countries that we have been specializing in for the past few years, and for which we have just issued comprehensive price lists, namely RYUKYUS, ISRAEL, VATICAN, GHANA, and UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC. Also we don't want to refuse the wonderful buys that our agent in England is constantly offering. BUT — unless we can dig out from under — we just don't have room. This is the reason for this big clearance sale.

Now we have had mixture sales before, and our old customers know that they were mighty good. But these will be SUPER LOTS because this time we're going to let everything go, except some of the above mentioned countries. Out go the stamps in the country stockbooks, out go the better sets, out go the souvenir sheets, out go the mixtures, out go the topicals and hi values etc., etc. Most dealers offer you a certain catalog value in their mixtures or lots. But this is really not the best criteria for judging a lot. Also it would take too much time, and also most of our lots will be entirely different from each other (You can re-order and get something different each time). But we will give you more than double your money's worth in better items, and lots of odds and ends to boot that will add up to a wonderful bargain. We hope to make many new friends through this sale, who will buy from our lists through the coming years. So you know that we will try to please you. At the same time we will get ourselves some walking room, and maybe make the printer happy. Some of you like to spend more than others, so we are making up lots in several sizes. The larger the lot the higher the values in the sets included of course, but all lots will be a tremendous value!

LOTS PRICED AT $5.00 $10.00 $15.00 $20.00 $25.00

Please do not compare this to mixtures by dealers who sell mixtures and packs exclusively. Their stock was assembled for this purpose. Ours wasn't.

Extra bonus with $5.00 lot: Pack of 25 quadrilled album pages.

World-Wide Stamps Agencies In Booklet

For the collector who likes the fun--and the tribulations!--of obtaining his mint stamps and perhaps his first day covers as well directly from the countries of origin, the Van Dahl "Philatelic Informant" booklet is a ready reference work of much value.

Compiled by Mrs. Alma McLing, it is a 20-page list of up-to-date facts, figures and directions in the aforementioned areas of stamp collecting. There are instructive remarks for the beginner as well as the "old pro", along with lists of agencies and addresses, monetary tables, and clear, specific instructions.

Other schedules cover specialized collecting groups, important dates in the U.S. postal history, and a postal glossary. The whole offering gives the appearance of having been put together by a person who knew the subject well.

The booklet is priced at 50c from Van Dahl Publications, Inc., Box 493, Albany, Ore.

Zumstein Swiss And Liechtenstein Catalog

The 16th edition of the Zumstein Specialized Catalog of Swiss and Liechtenstein stamps is now available in the United States. The newest edition of the popular and established work is in the Zumstein tradition, this time with 615 pages and about 1800 illustrations.

While the volume is in the German language, the introduction and various explanatory features are in English, so the non-German student can still obtain much benefit from using it. From stem to stern the contents have been well revised and—including prices at press time—brought well up to present levels.

Exact notes and prices are given for single stamps, pairs, blocks, plate flaws, rare usages and, this year, for first day covers, along with various marginal inscription productions such as the Pro Patrias and Pro Juventutes.

Areas covered are regular and special postage issues, specimen, Ausser Kurs, booklets, Kocher and hotel stamps, Campione d'Italia and Liechtenstein. The volume is priced at $3.75 postpaid, from Jacob Habib, 143 Nassau St., New York 38, N. Y.

Free Artcraft Offer Of FD Cover Booklet

A new edition of a popular information brochure for first day cover collectors is just off the press. Offered free of charge by The Washington Press, Maplewood, N. J., producers of Artcraft engravings, this compact pamphlet is packed with helpful data for the novice and plenty of useful facts for the veteran.

Of special interest to all is the up-to-date list of postal rules governing the servicing of FDC's. It includes all the regulations collectors must follow when servicing their own covers. Included too is an easy-to-use glossary of "technical terms" frequently used by cover hobbyists and dealers.

Though an extra large printing of this new edition has been ordered, response to the last offer was so great that collectors are urged to send in their requests immediately. A postal card to The Washington Press, Maplewood, N. J., saying "Introduction FDC Pamphlet, please" is all that is needed.

November 19 Precancel Gathering In New York

The New York Precancel Round-Up will be held November 19 at the Hotel Russell, Park Ave., and E. 37th St. New York City. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The affair will be staged during the big ASDA exhibition, and will afford members the opportunity of attending both events on one visit to the big city.

Business Session For Lake Erie Masonic Unit

The annual meeting of the Lake Erie Chapter of the Masonic Stamp Club will be held at 8 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 3615 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, November 15th.

Election of officers for 1962 will take place and all members are urged to be present to participate in the balloting.

Pim's "New Zealand" '61 Edition Released

It has been three years since the last full sized edition of Pim's Catalog of New Zealand stamps appeared, and the intervening time has seen many changes and additions to the philately of that country. These have all been well noted in the new eighth edition of the work, just received from the publishers in Auckland.

General format and characteristics remain essentially the same as in the past. In addition, a thorough review of the previous volume has resulted in up-dating several departments.

Blue paper varieties of the first "sideface" issue have been dropped, the publishers now considering them no longer worthy of full catalog status. An attempt has been made—still recognized as not complete—to cover the comb perforated KEVII issues, and the QEII issues have been fully revised up to the time of publication earlier this year.

Queen Victoria fiscals have been broken down into a new and simpler form, and the "Arms Type" stamps have been worked over and are now priced in mint condition.

All in all, the 1961 offering is a proper successor to its seven predecessors of the past 16 years, and New Zealand specialists will find it worthy of their attention. It is priced at $3.50 postaid, from Pim & Co. Ltd., Box 5236, Auckland C1, New Zealand.

Israel Philatelists To Welcome ASDA Visitors

The Society of Israel Philatelists has announced it will again staff its popular lounge at the annual ASDA show to be held November 17-19 in the 71st Regiment Armory in New York City.

Questions about the Society will be answered at the lounge by the representatives present, and all interested collectors are cordially invited to drop in and get acquainted.

Webster Groves Plans November 17 Auction

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Webster Groves Stamp Club will be held at 8 p.m. November 17, at the Reliable Life Insurance Bldg., 231 W. Lockwood, Webster Groves, Mo.

The big attraction of the occasion will be a stamp auction, with "something for everybody, a lot for some" as the theme. Visitors will be welcomed.

Ceylon Announces Two Single Items For '62

Ceylon has announced two single stamps for the first part of next year, according to the Bristol Philatelic House, Box 999, Colombo, Ceylon.

A 35c featuring the Ceylonese Boy Scout badge is expected in February for the Scouts' golden anniversary, with a 25c in the common UN design to mark the UN's anti-malaria campaign, in April 7.

Egypt Postpones FAO Commemorative To '63

S. El- Chichini, Chief of the Philatelic Service of Egypt, has announced that the FAO commemorative (Freedom from Hunger) which was originally proposed for October release, has been postponed.

It will appear at a date yet to be determined, he stated, tentatively in 1963.

ATA To Have Booth At ASDA Show In Gotham

For the eighth consecutive year, the American Topical Assn. the international topical stamp collectors organization, will have a lounge at the National Postage Stamp Show of the American Stamp Dealers' Assn., ASDA, November 17-19 at the 71st Regiment Armory, 33rd and Park Ave., New York City.

Nearly 30 different ATA topical stamp handbooks ranging from Maps, Trains and United Nations to IGY and Flowers, will be on display and available for purchase.

Further information about the ATA can be obtained by spending a stamped addressed envelope to E. C. Cleveland, 5104 W. Wisconsin Ave., Apt. 3, Milwaukee 8, Wis.

News From The European Area

R. Y. Megan

Since last I compiled these notes, I have been traveling in Europe, and apologize to readers for the delay in getting another column into print.

As you will appreciate, an absence from home and office means that a lot of mail is left unanswered until one returns, and although Mrs. Megan and my staff work at their best, the results of any absence tend to be very disruptive of normal routine.

I have been in Hungary and Switzerland, principally to attend the International Exhibition in Budapest (about which I filed a report direct some days ago) and also to attend the Trade Bourse at Basle.

I am not normally a visitor of these bourses, since I am not so immediately engaged in the wholesale stamp trade as to be obliged to meet other dealers on their home grounds for trade purposes.

The Basle event, however, was convenient from the time angle, and also it happened to be the first bourse after the Europa issues had made their appearances. The word "Iceland" was a dirty epithet that day!

Speculation or Appreciation?

I have asked this question in public print before, and I make no apologies for doing so again: Where are the real ultimate buyers for Europa issues in terms of hundreds of thousands—if not millions—of copies? I have part of the answer, and I will pass it on for what it's worth:

A retail advertisement in the German press will produce a response which continues over two, three or even four weeks. The buying quantities from—presumably—individual collectors are to the tune of between four and one hundred sets of each item.

Out of 300 replies, fewer than ten requested single sets; another ten asked for pairs. Thereafter it was multiples, sheets, half-sheets, and just plain hundreds.

The reorders themselves were phenomenal in quantity, and the flattering comments seemed to suggest that many an advertisement is backed by grossly insufficient stocks, or inserted merely in an effort to raise prices.

Of course, in the highly speculative climate of all Europa issues, it would be foolish to pretend that this is a normal state of affairs. But the word "Europa" seems to bring out the worst instinct in people, and as long as annual emissions continue, the head of steam now generated will presumably continue to hold its own.

In 1960, the obvious runaway speculative favorite was Liechtenstein where technical difficulties restricted the quantity of stamps available. This year, Vaduz is determined to make no such mistake, and is in fact filling all orders received before October 3.

This means that unparalleled quantities of Liechtenstein stamps will be on the market; in fact, the Sales Office was completely overwhelmed. Owing to the procedure adopted, however, there has already been a speculative rise in Liechtenstein 1961; which will undoubtedly be nullified by the time this column is in print.

The sales office is so organized that it fills and delivers on the day of issue, all regular standing orders. The additional orders, (i.e. stamps required over and above the normal quantities automatically delivered of each set under fixed and prepaid orders), are dealt with later as a separate operation.

With a limited staff, this is the only feasible way of tackling the problem, but it has resulted in an initial delivery of the stamps to regular subscribers for all issues, but only in the normal booked quantities.

The very large majority of the orders, of course, is being packed and delivered as soon as possible, but in most case some time after the release date, and therefore will not reach the market until late October or early November.

The position is aggravated by the fact that the stamps are printed in London by Harrisons, and that a very heavy additional order resulted in late or extended deliveries.

Those people who had early delivery of regular quantities made hay while the sun shone, and sold the relatively small supplies at very good prices. They could afford to do so, since they knew perfectly well that their big extra supplies would be coming along later.

However, acting as they did with prior knowledge, I must make it my personal opinion that they are guilty of attempted fraud on the general public.

The position with the other latecomer, San Marino, is even more complex. It is understood that the print order is a mere 600,000—(100,000 sheets of six of a 500 Lire stamp (about $1). This does not deter the Europa collector, and already the unissued supplies have moved to a phenomenal premium in Italy.

Once again, virtually impossible prices being asked for the single stamps ensure that the price of a block of six equaled about $20 at starting rates. I would not be surprised to see it at $100 before the year is out.

Is this a good or a bad tendency? These prices can be maintained as long as Western Europe is in a prosperous condition and no buyers are tempted to sell their hoards.

One or two small sales will of course realize good prices, but should really considerable quantities come on the market (perhaps with a view to obtaining liquid cash for usbsequent stamp issues), we may see a slump in the very fragile structure of this situation.

Nevertheless, as long as the CEPT continues to release annual stamps, there is no doubt that the meat will remain on the bones!

The Music of the Cash Register

With all this excitement, it is not surprising that other European stamp issues may get overlooked. 1961, however, is also Liszt-Bartok year, that is to say, the 150th anniversary of the former composer-performer's birth (and the 75th of his death), and the 80th anniversary of the birth of Bela Bartok.

Both Austria and Hungary have published designs for the Liszt sesquicentennial stamps, and the German Democratic Republic (who, Heaven knows, have no direct interest in the anniversary) has also released four commemoratives.

It is typical that whilst Austria should confine itself to a single 3S. stamp bearing a superbly engraved portrait of the composer-pianist, Hungary should issue three stamps plus a miniature sheet, perf and imperf.

The four East German stamps are in my opinion nothing but money-making attacks on the purse of the thematic collector, although one cannot deny that Liszt deserves homage for his cultural standing alone.

Incidentally, the full biographical details supplied by the Austrian Post Office make it plain that although Liszt was born in what was then Hungary, and is today in the Austrian province of Burgenland, his native language was—and remained—German, and he never did master the Magyar tongue.

Nonetheless, he is honored as both an Austrian and a Hungarian composer, particularly the latter because his music undoubtedly drew its inspiration from Hungary and its folk tunes.

The life he led was Bohemian almost in the accepted sense of the word; two titled mistresses bore him a number of children which he later took pains to have legitimized (one of them was the future wife of Richard Wagner—Cosima and Bayreauth are almost synonymous) and he took Holy Orders at an advanced age.

The reason for this, I am afraid, is still obscure to me, but was undoubtedly connected with the Pope's refusal to permit his marriage to what was neatly described in German as "his life's companion".

Musicologists must excuse my ignorance in this respect, but will undoubtedly treasure the excellent likeness of the Abbe Liszt in his later years, which was created by A. Pilch and engraved by R. Roth.

I need waste comparatively little time on the Hungarian photogravure efforts, because although they comprise three stamps and a miniature sheet, they are really not a patch

MEXICO'S CHRISTMAS SEALS FOR 1961 FEATURE BIRDS—fifty of them, on as many seals. Printing is in full color with the date "1961-62" across the bottom in light blue, and the double-barred cross and the 10c value in red. The name of each subject, in Latin, and "MEXICO" are shown in black, the latter superimposed on the date. Sheet margins are on all sides, and perforations extend completely through them, as can be seen on this example supplied by Ralph E. Ogden, Aptdo. 211, Cuernavaca, Mor., Mexico.

Want That "Something Extra" From Your Stamps? Check On 1948 German Buildings Series

Olaf Kahrs

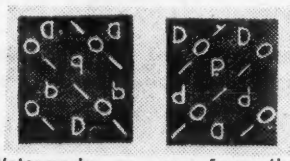

The philatelist who would like to get a little more out of his stamps than just putting them in his album and forgetting about them, would do well to get out his German collection with duplicates and take a closer look at the "Buildings" of 1948 (Scott Nos. 634-661). This was one of the first sets of postage stamps printed by the Germans after the Second World War, and though they tried hard, they just did not seem to succeed in anything but turning out useful postage stamps.

Some may say this should be the only purpose of post office departments, but a certain standard has to be set in order to make counterfeiting more difficult and also to satisfy collectors.

If you have 50-100 of these stamps —and chances are that you do, since the set is still very common and plentiful — I would suggest you take all of them out of your album and envelopes or stockbook.

Keep them face up and put to one side all with the Cologne Cathedral design. Also put aside the Mark values. We will get back to these later. The rest you turn face down and sort all with a fine perf (perf 14).

That is your bulk printing, the most common of all. They were the last to be issued and therefore also the most perfect of them all. The remainder of the stamps with wide perforations you dip in fluid to ascertain the watermark.

Watermarks as seen from the BACK of the stamp are normal (left) and reversed. All illustrations are from the "Building Catalog' by Dr. H. Wittman, Munich 27, Germany.

Normal watermark, with the lines going towards the upper left corner, you put to your left; reversed watermark, wih the lines going towards the upper right, you put to your right. Amazing how many varieties you have already, isn't it?

Of course some of them come only in normal or reversed watermark, but chances are that you already have three different stamps of the 50pf. blue green, for example. Now look closely at the corners of the stamps.

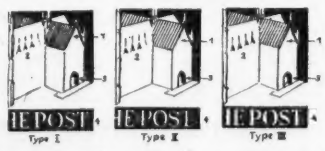

Most of these values come both in line perforations and comb perforations. To tell the difference is not too easy, but remember that all new British stamps are comb perf and have very even corners. All of our recent U. S. stamps are line perforated.

Take a look at the corners of a large block of U. S. stamps, and you will notice how unevenly the two perfs meet when they come to the corner of a stamp.

It also follows the name of the two methods: "line perf" is perforated in long, continuous lines: "comb perf" is perforated like a comb extending through a complete row of each row of stamps at a time. If you are in doubt call it a comb stamp; the line stamps are generally scarcer and therefore, better.

If you are lucky, you now have five types of the 50pf. blue green! The one with the normal watermark in the line perf is the best stamp. It catalogs four times that of the other three, or four cents compared to the others at one cent each.

You see, it does not have to be an expensive sideline to your collection; just try to get the most out of what you already have!

Type I Type II Type III

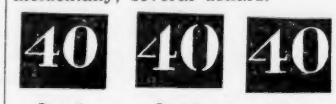

Now, for the Cologne Cathedral designs. If you take a closer look you will find that some have a very heavy shading on the roof of the transept on the right. There is also no threshold leading into the transept. You have a Type I.

Some have wider spaced roof shading, but still no threshold—this will be Type II. Most stamps, though, you will find have wide shading and a threshold, and also four distinct spires on top of the nave rather than three and a half—Type II, of course.

Turn the Type III's over and sort for fine perf and wide perf. You say you found no Type II in the 5pf. and 10pf., and no Type I in the 25pf.? That's right—they don't exist!

Next bring your perf gauge out and see what varieties you find on the last group of stamps that had a wide perf. But be sure to measure all four sides as sometimes one side is different from the other three. See what you have without knowing it?

Take a closer look at your 60pf. all types. See the difference in the numeral 6? "Open 6" is subtype a. Do the same with the 40pf. Type I only. If both the "4" and the "0" are open it is Type Ia; if only the 4 is open, it is Type Ib and worth, incidentally, several dollars.

Type I Type Ia Type Ib

So much for the pfennig values, although there are many other minor details I have not mentioned. The Mark values come only in wide perf except for the one Mark, where the perf 14 is part of the bulk printing. The rest you sort according to types again.

Type I Type II

These with no crosslines on the right, lower tower are Type I; the ones with the vertical shadings ar Type II. Watermark and perf your Type I and then count the number of steps in the portal. If more or less than four steps you have something good.

Also watermark the Type II in the one Mark. If the watermark shows long wavy lines you have a $100 stamp! No? Oh, well, better luck next time---.

Beside this basic breakdown there also exist thousands of plate flaws, retouches, doubleprints, part perfs, imperfs, trial prints and so on. If you would like to pursue it further, get a copy of Dr. Wittmann's specialized Building Catalogue.

It contains a complete listing of all known varieties and also illustrations of many of the flaws and retouches. There is even a study group in this country and abroad the members of which do nothing but research on this one issue alone!

So why not get a little more out of your stamp collection? Good luck and happy hunting!

Gibbons Announces Commonwealth Part I

While no country has been completely rewritten in the 1962 Part I edition of the Stanley Gibbons catalog of British Commonwealth issues, the publishers state there has been a careful overall revision, and that listings have been clarified in numerous instances.

The new volume is of 800 pages, well illustrated. The format is that of the past, bound in cloth covered boards with red, gray blue and black dust covers. With publication date of September 15, listings include the decimal currency overprints of Basutoland and Bechuanaland.

Political changes are reflected in the inclusion of such new countries as the two Cameroons (now amalgamated as a single nation) and the Trucial States of Arabia.

The Republic of South Africa, although now independent, is retained in the listings. Pre-independence issues of Ghana are still under Gold Coast, with those of 1957 to date under Ghana. New listings include the Rajasthan issues on Bundi and Kishangarh.

The new Gibbons offering is available at $4 postpaid, from the American representative, Jacob Habib, 154 Nassau St., New York 38, N. Y.

on the feeling which went into the creation of the Austrian design.

A photograph of his statue, the facade of the Budapest Academy of Music, and compositions with profile and piano keys, are not much more than a slick expose of thematic salesmanship. The face value of 13.60 Forints (at the official rate, approximately $1.25) points its own moral.

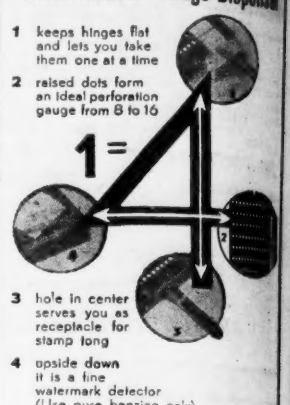

Modesty From the Caudillo?

Whilst the Spanish Colonies have been elaborate in their tributes to the 25th anniversary of the assumption by Gen. Franco of the "Chieftainship of State", the mother country has been modesty itself.

A view of Burgos Cathedral against a gold background in which we find neat lettering and the "Victor" emblem, are perhaps in slightly better taste than some of the previous dictatorial anniversary items which have issued from Fascist dictatorships. But then perhaps it is not politic nowadays to use that phrase in connection with the man who saved Spain from communism.

HAMILTON MURRAY

This postal card was issued by Germany in 1931 for the 100th birth anniversary of her first postmaster general, Heinrich von Stephan. He first proposed the idea of a postal card during the 1865-66 Fifth Conference of the German Postal Union, but the German Post Office Department did not put the idea into effect until 1870.

Origin And History Of The Postal Card

Frank S. Schanzer

Somebody wants to write a short message to a friend for which no privacy is needed and without giving it any thought, he reaches for an ordinary postal card. It is that easy; no special writing paper is needed and no envelope. No stamp has to be pasted on and the message itself will be quite informal. Th card is turned around, the adress is written and—presto!—off it goes into the mail box.

To top everything off, for all the convenience and informality, he pays a reduced postage rate. Even the laziest letter writer will not mind too much relieving his conscience by such a quick way of writing a message.

Like so many good things that surround us in our daily life, we take this modest little postal card for granted. It is quite interesting though to find some facts about its origin and history. First we want to know, how old is our card and who invented it?

The age can be determined exactly—it was born October 1, 1869 and is therefore past 91 years of age at the present. The answer about the inventor could be a controversial one.

It might depend on the person or rather on the nationality of the person who answers this question. As it happens sometimes with an invention, two countries claim it for themselves. In the case of our postal card, Germany as well as Austria have made the claim.

If one is not inhibited by any national pride, one could quite truthfully say that the idea of the postal card actually was born in Germany in 1866, while Austria can claim beyond any doubt that it was the first country in the world to put this idea into reality by introducing the first such item in 1869.

Actually there have been forerunners of the postal card further back into the 18th century, but these older "postcards" did not have the essential attributes of our modern variety such as an imprinted stamp and a reduced postal rate; that is, a lower rate than the postage for the ordinary letter.

Thus Heinrich Tomschick, in an article "Die Korrespondenz-Karte" in the magazine "Austria Philatelist" of May 1952 mentions that, according to old newspaper reports, a sort of "postcard" already was Paris.

It was designed and engraved from copper plates by Demaison. These cards, at their best, could be considered as the ancestors of our present day picture postcards and greeting cards, such as those we use for Christmas, birthdays and many other possible and impossible occasions of life.

However the relationship to our modern postal card is rather remote. In Germany and Austria too cards were mailed prior to 1866, which carried mostly brief information of a business nature, such as the visit of a salesman or a commercial offer. But again it must be said, they did not have the attributes found on our modern postal card.

The conception of a postal card such as we use today first appeared in Germany. During the Fifth Conference of the German Postal Union, which lasted from November 13, 1865 until March 1866 and which was held in Karlsruhe, Germany, a postal counsellor by the name of Heinrich Stephan privately distributed a memorandum containing an absolutely novel proposition.

He introduced a so-called "postal sheet" (Post-Blatt), which would offer an easier way of postal communication to the public. It was presented in the form of a piece of cardboard paper on which a stamp would already be imprinted.

Thus we see that Stephan conceived an essential requisite of our present day postal card and its near relative, the post card or postcard.

Here it would be in order to clarify these terms: the postal card is the government issue with imprinted stamp, while the other variety is the privately made version to which franking must be affixed by either an adhesive stamp or an imprinted design such as a meter or permit.

Stephan was very successful in climbing right to the top of Germany's postal administration. He was appointed Post Director General of the North-German Postal Union in 1870 and Postmaster General of the entire German Reich in 1875 as the first man ever given this title.

He modernized the German postal institutions, simplified and reduced the postal rates, introduced a uniform postal law for the whole Reich and was the first man who suggested the formation of the Universal Postal Union. He also was the founder of the famous Postal Museum in Berlin, built in 1872.

For his modernizing activities the German Emperor granted him a moderate degree of nobility in 1885, which entitled him to the little word "von" in front of his name: Heinrich von Stephan. Nevertheless his original brain child, the postal card, was not accepted by his government, when he first suggested it in 1866.

Germany has honored its first Postmaster General on several occasions, on stamps as well as on cards. Some of these commemorative items are mentioned here, although no claims are made that this list is a complete one. The following stamps and postal cards are known to the writer, in connection with Heinrich von Stephan:

In 1931 a special 8pf. card was issued in tribute to Stephan's 100th birth anniversary. It carries his portrait on the left side, surrounded by a laurel wreath. The years "1831-1931" and the facsimile of his signature are seen underneath.

In 1941 on the occasion of the Day of the Postage Stamp, January 12, a semiofficial label in the shape of a souvenir sheet was issued in Germany, although it cannot be considered as either a regular stamp or a souvenir sheet.

The text of this vignette reads: "Day of the Postage Stamp 1941—Stamp Exhibition Vienna."

The center, printed to look like a stamp, carried the portrait of Postmaster General Heinrich von Stephan, the letters "R.d.P.", the name of the postmaster on the portrait, and the date. The label was designed by Ludwig Hesshaimer.

In 1947 Germany issued 24 and 75pf. stamps (Scott Nos. 578-79) to note Stephan's 50th death anniversary. They show his portrait. A commemorative postal card with the same stamp imprinted (but of a 12pf. value) was issued at the same time.

In 1949 a single 30pf. adhesive was issued in Germany to mark the 75th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union (UPU). It shows the General Post Office in Berlin and the Guild House in Bern, Switzerland, superimposed by the portrait of von Stephan.

In 1956 another single commemorative was issued, celebrating Stephan's 125th birth anniversary. It shows only the value "20" superimposed by Stephan's signature and surrounded by the words "Heinrich von Stephan, Founder of the Universal Postal Union, born January 7th, 1831".

Since his suggestion to introduce a postal card in Germany was rejected, the actual birth of our postal card occurred in 1869 in Austria.

Three years after Stephan's proposition was made; there appeared an article in the Vienna "Neue Freie Presse" of January 26, 1869, written by a professor of economics, Dr. Emanuel Herrmann, under the title "About a Novel Way of Correspondence by Mail".

TAYLOR W. GANNETT
114 No. Cleveland St. Arlington 1, Va.

Two varieties of a privately issued card commemorating the 25th anniversary of Austria's October 1, 1869 world's first postal card appeared in 1894. The backs of both types showed a photograph of Dr. Emanuel Herrmann who had promoted this pioneer item of postal stationery. The second type, above, was serially numbered and in addition specimens often bear Dr. Herrmann's autograph.

POSTAL CARD

In this article, Dr. Hermann suggested the use of cards, which he already called "postcards" and which could be mailed at a reduced rate of 2 kreuzer, if the message, signature and address did not count more than 20 words.

Emanuel Herrmann found more understanding for his idea from the Austrial postal authorities. The Austrian Postmaster General at that time, Maly von Povanovits (or "Vevanovits", according to another version) saw to it that Dr. Herrmann's suggestion became reality within a surprisingly short time (eight months), despite the well-known red tape that flourished in the old monarchy.

Incidentally, Dr. Hermann's suggestion to restrict the contents of a postcard to 20 words was rightfully rejected.

Sixth day of use cancel on Austria's October 1, 1869 world's first postal card.

Thus, on October 1, 1869, Austria was the first country in the world to introduce the postal card under the name of "Correspondence Card".

The success of the new invention was instantaneous and the little card at once became so popular, that during the first three months of its existence, nearly three millions were sold, a figure that greatly increased in the following years.

The size of the first postal cards was somewhat smaller than that of later issues, about 122 x 85mm. The front shows the wording "Correspondenz Karte" arched above the double eagle emblem and is framed by an ornamental border.

Inside of this there is a second frame, consisting of alternating dots and diamonds, the sequence of which offers an endless variety of permutations which will be discussed later.

The first cards also show the words "An" (meaning "To") and "in" (meaning in city, in town), with the usual dotted lines for the address.

In the upper right corner of the front side we find the imprinted 2kr. stamp in colors varying from ochre to light yellow, with the picture of Francis Joseph I.

It was only in later years that the printing institute realized the poor printing results with the yellow color. It never produces a clear picture and does not offer any contrast.

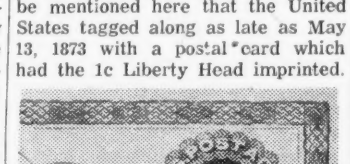

The back of the card was intended for the message and since this was yet a novelty, people had to be told by a printed heading on top of the reverse side: "Raum fur schriftliche Mittheilungen", meaning "Space for the written message".

This charming naivete becomes even more amusing by the printed warning at the bottom of the same side. There the Postal Authorities found it necessary to add the following small print warning which reads in translation: "The Post Office Department accepts no responsibility whatsoever for the contents of the written message".

It seems as though the POD feared that if for instance any slander appeared on an open poscard, the Department might be sued. This strange remark—the outgrowth of an over-timid soul—soon was dropped completely.

Thus the honor of introducing the first postal card to the public definitely belongs to Dr. Emanuel Herrmann, for his native country of Austria. Nevertheless, von Stephan must be considered the father of the original idea, even though Germany followed his suggestion only in 1870, one year later.

For comparison reasons, it might be mentioned here that the United States tagged along as late as May 13, 1873 with a postal card which had the 1c Liberty Head imprinted.

The United States was the 17th nation to issue postal cards, May 13, 1873.

It has been said that in the year 1871 Dr. Herrmann wrote a letter to von Stephan (he should have used a postal card!) in which he openly admitted the latter's (Stephan's) priority to the invention.

The Herrmann letter to Post Director General Stephan, dated January 1, 1871, reads in translation as following, as quoted by the Reichspost Museum Berlin:

"When I suggested in Austria the introduction of the correspondence card in an article in the Neue Freie Presse (January 27, 1869), the idea of which occurred to me during my studies of economics, I did not know that this particular form of communication by mail had already been proposed by your excellency two years earlier at the Postal Conference of Karlsruhe.

"Counsellor Kolbensteiner of the Austrian Ministery of Commerce was kind enough to draw my attention to this fact and to show me a notice which I believe had been sent to him by your excellency."

In Stephan's answer, Dr. Herrmann was referred to Stephan's memorandum of 1865.

The first issue of the Austrian postal card appeared October 1, 1869 and consisted of three varieties. Ascher, in his monumental catalog of Postal Stationery (1928) mentions five varieties, Nos. 1 a-e, of which 1b and 1c actually have the same marking, and 1d and 1e likewise except for the color of the card (white and chamois) and, in shade of the imprinted stamp (dark yellow and orange).

More striking differences are to be found in the inner frame, which consists, as mentioned before, of alternating dots and diamonds. This pattern varies mainly in the four corners of the frame, but occasionally, in the later issues, the change of pattern is also found elsewhere in the frame of the card.

As an example, card No. 1a starts in the upper left-hand corner with a diamond, followed horizontally by one dot and vertically by two dots. However, card No. 1b reads in the same corner horizontally, diamond-dot-dot (two dots) and vertically, diamond-dot-dot. The other corners show similar variations.

It seems that every time a new batch of cards was printed, the diamond-dot-pattern was changed intentionally. Definitely there was a special reason behing this toying around with the diamonds and dots.

In the Ascher catalog each variety is given a point value according to its rarity.

At the same time with the issue of the first three varieties of Austrian cards, another set of four cards was subsequently issued for the Kingdom of Hungary, which, until 1871 still had a joint postal administration with Austria.

The difference between the Austrian and the Hungarian cards is rather conspicuous. The double eagle on the Austrian issue is replaced by the Hungarian coat of arms and crown.

The first of these four Hungarian varieties still has the German wording "Correspondenz-Karte", but the last three varieties show the equivalent Hungarian wording "Levelezesi lap". The stamp still is the same as the one on the Austrian cards.

In May 1871, when the Hungarian Postal Administration was completely separated from the Austrian Administration, special stamps as well as special postal cards soon were introduced for the states under the Hungarian crown. This, of course, still remained otherwise connected with the other parts of the Monarchy.

Austria continued the issue of postal cards with the 2kr. yellow stamp until 1876. Ascher lists 74 varieties of them, which, in themselves, offer a highly interesting collecting field. In addition a number of reprints was issued later on, which are also listed by Ascher.

The differences between the varieties are not only in the dot-and-diamond-pattern, but also in the language of the heading used on the postcards. It must be remembered that the Austrian Empire consisted

SALE OF 300 WORLDWIDE COLLECTIONS
ATTENTION ALL WORLDWIDE COLLECTORS OR DEALERS

I have approximately 300 collections of Worldwide in books of from 500 to 1000 Different. These collections contain at least 40% Mint stamps of the world including British Colonies, Europe, Central and South America and even U.S. They contain no more than 60% used and most of them actually have more mint stamps than used. These collections are not full of Eastern Europe Junk and although there may be some garbage here and there, there is not much, if any and as a matter of fact, ALL of the stamps in these lots were picked from Country and General collections by me and remounted for retail sale. These collections will be sent out on request to anyone answering this ad and they will catalog from $200.00 on up each. I will require a $20.00 deposit, on each collection AND REFERENCES, as most of the lots catalog more than $200.00 each. You can have one of two choices: You can either rifle the collections of anything in them at ONE FIFTH OF SCOTT, or, you can buy the collection, INTACT, FOR ONE TENTH OF SCOTT. READ CAREFULLY THE FOLLOWING SENTENCE: NONE OF THE COLLECTIONS ARE CATALOGED OR PRICED, AND ANYONE ANSWERING THIS AD WILL HAVE TO CATALOG ALL STAMPS HE BUYS, OR IF HE BUYS THE COLLECTION INTACT HE WILL HAVE TO CATALOG THE COLLECTION. You can use either a Scott or Minkus Catalog it makes no difference to me. No more than 3 collections will be sent to any one purchaser. A $20.00 deposit must be made on each collection ordered and you can pay th balance due after you finish cataloging the collection. I might add that I put quite a bit of trust in any individual who orders any of these collections to select from by allowing him to catalog what he buys. All I ask is that you make an honest effort to catalog correctly. I would catalog them myself but I would look nice trying to catalog 250,000 stamps. The stamps in these collections catalog from 10 cents to $10.00 each; some more.

LET'S FACE IT--

Most people collect stamps for fun. They enjoy beautiful, quality stamps, and low prices. Collectors fall into three categories:
a) Those who are having too little fun;
b) Those who are having just the right amount of fun; and,
c) Those who are having too much fun.
No-one in category (a) is currently receiving my approvals. Matter of fact, darned few folks in category (b) are on my mailing list. Occasionally I wish I didn't have so many folks in category (c)—its hard to replace the quality in my selections. Are you yearning to join category (c)? The solution to your quest is obvious: simply request a selection of my pictorials with your references. You will shortly develop a guilt complex from having too much fun.

"Rather scarce" is the term used by the author to describe this 1939 card privately issued by the Viennese Collectors Club in tribute to the 80th anniversary of the postal card and the 75th of the Universal Postal Union. It is in black and dark carmine, featuring the portrait of Dr. Emanual Herrmann. Only 2000 cards were issued, some with an additional imprinted airmail label.

of many nationalities. Therefore we find the following languages on these cards: German, Czech, Italian, Polish, Ruthenian, Slovenian, and Illyrian.

Of special interest are the last three varieties of the yellow-stamped postcards. They were issued in November 1873 and after relatively a few were sold, it was discovered in December that the imprinted stamp showed a 5Kr. value instead of the 2Kr., a definite printing error.

The pale yellow color of the imprinted stamp must be blamed for the fact that this error was not detected before the issue came out into the open. The great majority of this issue was immediately held back and in May 1874 a regular 2Kr. adhesive was officially pasted over the erroneous imprint, i.e. over every single one of the remaining 393,000 postcards!

Therefore used cards with this error but without an overpasted stamp, which are genuinely cancelled before May 30, 1874 rate an exceedingly high price. Even the overpasted cards nowadays are sold for several dollars each.

The next issue, 1876-1882 still shows the same stamp design but in reddish brown color, which was definitely an improvement. Fourteen varieties of this cards are listed, plus 13 more varieties in the form of so-called "double postcards" (with paid response), not including a number of reprints.

The Ascher catalog (it ends with the year 1927) shows that up to that year no fewer than 275 main numbers of varieties were printed, not counting the sub-varieties of nearly every number. In addition there are a large number of reprints and an even larger number of pivately issued postcards.

Such an abundance of varieties offers not only a highly stimulating field for the special collector, but also can give him many severe headaches.

Sitting over the first issues for instance and counting the dots and diamonds under the magnifying glass can drive him out of his wits at times—but still when the collection is nearing its completion, the reward will be as great as any pleasure our hobby can give.

Dr. Emanuel Herrmann was born June 24, 1839 in Klagenfurt, the capital of the province of Carinthia. He died July 15, 1902 in Vienna. He was professor of economics at the Academy of Commerce in Graz, Austria in 1865 and taught later in Vienna at high schools and colleges.

To honor this man who first introduced the postal card as a universal means of postal communication, several commemorative cards were issued in Austria, officially as well as privately.

In 1894 two slightly different cards commemorated the 1869-1894 25th anniversary of the postal card. They were privately printed by order of the Viennese stamp dealer R. Friedl and show the ornate style of the turn-of-the-century period. Both had the 2kr. stamp in reddish brown imprinted (design Francis Joseph in "door-frame").

One type has on the front side only the imprinted stamp, the word "Correspondenz-Karte" and the dotted line for the address, just like the official postal card of the time.

The upper right-hand corner carries the text "Jubilee Postcard commemorating the invention of the postcard 25 years ago in Austria, 1869—26 January—1894." This is the date of the appearance of Dr. Herrmann's article in the Neue Freie Presse ; the postal card itself was issued eight months later.

Underneath this text is a blank space, which is very frequently filled in with Dr. Herrmann's actual hand-written signature in black ink, an autographed card.

The other type of this issue has in addition to the imprinted stamp and the word "Correspondenz-Karte" also an ornamental frame on the front side. This frame is the same color as the stamp and consists of the names of the first 37 countries and states that introduced the postal card.

Above each country appears the year when the card was issued there. Starting in the center of the top of the frame, we find Austria-Hungary as the first country (October 1, 1869), followed chronologically in a clockwise direction by the others.

Thus we learn that the second country to adopt the postal card was Bavaria (1870), followed by Wurttemberg (1870), Switzerland (1870), and the rest. Canada is ninth in this sequence (1871) and the United States 17th place (1873), followed by Great Britain in 1874.

The back of this second variety is identical with the first variety, except that it also carries in the lower right-hand corner a consecutive number, handstamped in black, from 1 to 1000.

Similar postcards, but without the imprinted stamp and without the frame are supposed to exist in five different color variations:

Blue on light blue, dark blue framed; Black on gray blue, light brown framed; Black on light blue, dark brown framed; Blue on pink, light brown framed; and Black on pink, dark brown framed.

Five years later, in 1899, another private commemorative postcard appeared, celebrating the 30th birthday of the postal card. No stamp was imprinted on this card, which carried two different portraits of Dr. Herrmann.

It was in 1939, during the infamous period when Austria was part of the Third Reich, that Germany commemorated the 70th anniversary of the postal card with yet another special card.

Appearing in green print is the 6pf. plus 19pf. Hitler head stamp, imprinted, and the wording "70 years of the Postal Card Oct. 1, 1869 —Oct. 1, 1939." This card is quite a scarce item as only relatively few reached the public.

The reason for this scarcity is a rather amusing boner of Nazi Germany that throws a significant light on the hate-inspired race policy of the Third Reich. Immediately after the cards were printed it was discovered that Dr. Herrmann descended from a Jewish family which, as it seems, originally moved from Bohemia into Austria proper.

This must have caused a lot of red-faced Nazis and as it can be expected, all remaining cards were immediately confiscated, leaving only a very small number that actually went into circulation. To find this item is just like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Following this abortive issue, ten years later in 1949 when Austria again was an independent country, the 80th birthday of the postal card and the 75th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union were celebrated, when the Viennese Collectors Club of Postal Stationery privately issued a special postcard, designed by architect H. Menzel.

Printed in black and dark carmine by the Austrian State Printing Institute, it shows again Dr. Herrmann's likeness on the left side, his name and invention underneath, followed by the name of the issuing club (Wiener Ganzsachen Sammler Verein).

Since only 2000 postcards were printed of this issue, it is a rather scarce item of private postal stationery. Some of these cards received an additional imprinted airmail label.

In 1952 the Austrian Post Office Department again issued an official, special postal card for the 50th anniversary of the death of Dr. Herrmann (July 23, 1902). It is a regular card with the imprinted 1 Schilling costume stamp (Scott No. 571) in green.

The portrait of Dr. Herrmann again appears on the left side and the appropriate text underneath, pointing to this special event. Only 10,000 cards were issued.

Finally, the year 1959 could not be passed without celebrating the 90th birthday of the postal card and the same time the 120th birth anniversary of Dr. Herrmann. It is again an official issue with the regular 1S. Mariazell stamp imprinted in brown.

Following a well-worn path, Dr. Herrmann's portrait and his name appear on the left side in offset print, in the same color as the stamp. The first day of issue was October 1, 1959, exactly 90 years after the very first such card was born. An ample issue of three million was printed.

In conclusion, it might be said that in 1969 our little friend, the postal card, will celebrate its really big birthday. By that time it will be 100 years of age and it can be rightly assumed and predicted, that this birthday will be celebrated with the issue of a commemorative stamp or postal card—or both.

The all-too-common difficulties attending first day releases of various recent Lebanese stamps were painfully present at the May 2-4 appearances of that country's United Nations commemorative trio and souvenir sheet. In this instance, however, the result was happily confined to delay and vexation, with the usual speculative factor not developing. The sheet shows all three values and due inscriptions in rather large size, 4 x 5½ inches.

Big-And-Little Dealer Hassle In Lebanon Leaves Everybody Victor—Except "Joe Collector"

Bruce Conde

May 2, 3 and 4, the "frist days of issue" of Lebanon's pretty commemorive set and souvenir sheet, in honor of the 15th Anniversary of the United Nations saw a knock-down struggle between Beirut's "big" and "little" stamp dealers. In the process it proved a trying time for philatelists attempting to buy their "quotas" of the new issue on the margin of the dealers' struggle.

The stamps, already described in detail in Linn's of April 17 are three in number: 20 piasters blue and brown, 30p. green and tan, and 50p. violet and blue. They feature respectively the UN symbol over a map of Lebanon, the same over a five-pillar symbolic design of the UN (not the six columns of Baalbek), and the UN symbol in the sky over the N. Y. skyline with the UN building in the foreground.

Some 100,000 complete sets and 60,000 souvenir sheets were issued. The so-called "imperfs" were not a postal issue but simply gratis souvenirs to VIP's, both domestic and foreign, distributed primarily by non-postal authorities.

The souvenir sheet displays all three stamps in their natural colors superimposed on a mammoth UN symbol in white on a light blue sheet background, with appropriate bilingual (Arabic and French) marginal inscriptions and the sheet price.

This is 125 Lebanese piasters, which is only 25p. more than the price of the set of stamps. The whole comes to around 38c U. S.

It is gummed, and is rather large (140 x 100mm) for FDC's. Also, it has been criticized on grounds that the UN symbol is incorrectly drawn both on the sheet background and on the stamps (by veteran Lebanese stamp designer Paul Koroleff).

The wreath around the UN world map has 13 instead of six leaves on each side of each stem, and the map does not correspond to that commonly found on the correct UN symbol.

Now to get back to the knock-down, drag-out struggle between the "big" and "little" dealers—of whom there is a collective total of around 45 in Beirut today—and the resultant inconvenience to domestic stamp collectors and overseas dealers and philatelists alike.

The proposals of new Lebanese Stamp Dealers' Assn. President Farah G. Farah to have all members sign up on a quota system according to their classification as first, second, third or fourth class dealers, and to present the association's certified list to the Post Office Department for all future issues, in order to curb speculation, ran into difficulties before the UN stamps appeared.

His executive committee's recommendation that first class dealers be allocated 3000 sets and pro-rata quotas of souvenir sheets, and that 13 dealers be so-classified, proved unacceptable to the "big three" who habitually supply most of the New York and world market as wholesale exporters.

The big dealers stated their standing orders warranted much larger quotas, and refused to go along with the recommendation.

Again, as the UN issue is one of worldwide popularity, the smaller dealers insisted on getting more generous quantities of it than they would be willing to accept of purely Lebanese commemorative issues.

When the association's proposals were presented to the Post Office committee on stamp distribution, the big dealers objected and disassociated themselves from the plan.

Thereupon in desperation the PO committee washed its hands of the whole situation and announced it would distribute 1000 sets and 600 sheets to all dealers, irrespective of class or association standing, who were prepared to pay for same.

The stamps were supposed to be issued May 1, but as that happens to be the day celebrated as Labor Day in Lebanon (a government holiday) the FD of issue was fixed as of the next day.

On May 2 the Tripoli, Saida (Sidon), and Baabdat rural post offices promptly began issuing the stamps on a quota system (five complete sets and three souvenir sheets) at face to each properly-identified bona-fide collector (there were no dealers applying for quotas except in Beirut).

WAVY CANCELLATION

There is in the various offices a roller cancellation between wavy double lines. I have never examined one of them to see just how they are built. They are designed for use on odd sized packages or where a large piece or sheet of stamps is used.

The town and state names are between the wavy lines—all in one line and often taking up more than two stamps to finish one impression. Sometimes the zone number is added.

Because the outfit is easy to use and the regular precanceling device is hard to use unless ink and all are just right, this type of device is often used to do precancelling. It is not accepted by precancel collectors as a precancel device and consequently is never listed.

The most recent to come to my attention is Mentor, Ohio. Mentor does have a regular U-120 device. The last products that I saw from it a few years ago were pretty poor, so it does not surprise me that they used the roller to do their precanceling.

This incidently is against the regulations, yet quite a few other Ohio towns have used this same type of device for probably much the same reasons.

This Mentor impression was on the 1¼c Liberty and is the first time I have noted the roller cancellation on a Liberty issue. Lets hope they find out about the new rubber handstamps as they are really easy to use.

NOTES

In the September 25 issue I mentioned about Gearhart, Ore. Well, it was only a day or two later that I noted this office was being discontinued. Sad day for the "Gearharts".

Several weeks ago I listed a Fairplay, Colo. as U-120n. This was my error as it really was a new U-131 type.

NEW OHIO TOWNS

Four of the newly listed towns have shown up. Every one, it seems, will not be too easy to get for various reasons. Vincent is U-129, Whipple is U-130, Wayland is U-130, and McCutchenville is U-134.

Investigation at Lockbourne revealed that the office was only a paid permit authorization and never had a device. Word comes from Terrace Park that it is not now using its device and is using paid permits.

"SportStamps" Lists Olympic Precancels

A listing of local precancellations on the 1932 U. S. Olympic commemoratives comprises the feature article in the October issue of "SportStampS", the monthly journal of the Sports Unit, the society of sports philately.

Future issues of the publication will carry further installments of this listing, until the compilation is completed. A complete collection of these precancels is one of the most desirable items in the realm of sports stamps.

The second installment of the definitive Handbook of Sports Stamps, compiled by Ira Seebacher, will be enclosed as a supplement to this issue.

Other features include the completion of Part I of sports post offices of the United States, a listing of sports seals and labels by Irwin Bloomfield, an article on bullfighting stamps by Dick Frontain, and an index for Volume I of SportStampS by Barbara Williams.

Interested collectors may obtain copies of this issue of SportStampS by sending 25c to Robert M. Bruce, Office of Physical Education, U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

This writer dutifully presented himself at the Beirut GPO and attempted to get his quota of the stamps. But the "philatelic" areas of the GPO were filled with milling "big" and "little" dealers, and the former had refused to accept their allocations of 1000 sets and 600 sheets as "hopelessly inadequate" in view of their much larger standing orders and regular committments.

Instead, they were busily circulating petitions among the association members seeking the recall of the executive committee.

Pending the settlement of the association's internal disagreements, and in view of the big dealers' refusal to accept the distribution arrangement, everything, including the perfectly-uninvolved ordinary collectors' quotas, was postponed until the next day.

May 3 arrived, and the writer again reported to the GPO, to find the situation exactly as on the 2nd. It should be pointed out that FDC's, in the meantime, had been canceled in Tripoli, Sidon, and Baabdat on the second.

Also, mint stamps brought from those towns to Beirut and used by local collectors (in extremely small quantities) received Beirut's cancel on the third. But still there was no Beirut GPO general distribution, either to local collectors or to dealers.

It was suggested that perhaps on the fourth the deadlock would be broken; more than 20 signatures had appeared on the dissidents' petition.

But the association executive committee challenged a number as not representing association members, and other signers "withdrew" their signatures, reducing the "effective" petitioners to around ten out of 45. This reporter wearily pocketed his empty stockbook and turned to more profitable journalistic pursuits.

On May 4 he ventured into the "holy of holies" of Lebanese stampdom and found a handful of the big dealers in front of Director-General George Chidiac's desk, vigorously insisting on their point, and totally unable to budge the government.

His stand was: put your own house in order and then we can talk business. Until then, all dealers get equal quantities, and that is that.

As the dealers fell to wrangling among themselves, the Director-General turned wearily to your reporter and said: "They are trying to torpedo their own committee, which is government-recognized." He then outlined briefly his own idea of a perfectly equitable distribution system according the bona-fide large wholesalers adequate supplies, and so on down the line.

He intimated though, that some of the association members could not be counted on to follow loyally such a system. "They have a 'blue fear'," he said, using the French idiom, "of inspection.

"Nevertheless," he added, "we shall continue to press for such an adequate and equitable distribution system, to avoid any further speculation in Lebanese stamps. In the meantime, we stand absolutely by our 'equal quantities' distribution to all."

It was pretty clear that the Post Office's attitude was "a plague on both your houses".

This stalemate was hard on the ordinary collector, who was getting tired of applying unsuccessfully at the Post Office each day, and the Director-General decided to wait no longer for general distribution by the Beirut GPO.

He ordered a stamp window to accept written demands by bona-fide collectors, backed by their official identity cards (for Lebanese) or passports (for foreigners) for an initial distribution of five sets and three sheets apiece.The control was to prevent a horde of pseudo-philatelists from "ganging up" to launch the still scarce souvenir sheets on the black market at speculative prices.

This reporter surrendered his bright new Sharjah passort for a few hours while the necessary paperwork on Beirut's collective philatelist-population's "demands" were being processed bureaucratically. Eventually, at around noon, May 4. he was one of the first Beirut collectors to receive his quota of the general distribution.

FDC's were promptly made up and canceled, on the supposition that the first general distribution day at the central PO would be as "official" as the piecemeal rural distribution and Beirut canceling of "imported" stamps on the second and third.

May 4 was also the first day of issue to the dealers, a handful of whom "accepted" their 1000 sets and 600 sheets that afternoon and began to process quantities of FDC's for the local and overseas markets.

But the dealers' deadlock continued. The big fellows argued that equal quantities to 45 dealers of new issues would be grossly unfair to the big wholesale merchants under a laissez faire capitalist economic system.

"We will have to buy the vast majority of our standing order sets from tiny retail dealers here at their prices," they said, "and if the small dealers form cartels they can force up the price of any issue and we will be in bad with our overseas customers, who are tired of speculative and expensive Lebanese thematics and may start a boycott."

On the basis that this would be as harmful to Lebanon's reputation, prestige, and tourist publicity efforts abroad as to their own legitimate business obligations, the big dealers sent telegrams to President Chehab, Premier Salam, Minister of Communications Franjieh, and to the Investigations Committee of the government.

Assn. President Farah promptly sent off counter-telegrams in the name of the executive committee denouncing the big dealers' unconstitutional procedure vis-a-vis the association and upholding the Post Office's distribution system as eminently fair to the little (and average) Lebanese dealer.

"We all have a right to a living," he said, "and if the big dealers are given excessive quantities of scarce and desirable items, they can 'freeze' their quantities acquired at face, and send out agents to buy small quantities at inflated prices from the little dealers' small quotas.

"Then, when a speculatively-high price has been established, they can unload their large quantities overseas at the new high prices at the expense of the overseas collectors and of Lebanon's reputation and prestige."

He did, however, admit the principle of larger quotas for the first class dealers, and so on down the line, provided quantities could be agreed on mutually by all the association members. The difference between their stands revolved around the quantities.

The big dealers wanted very large quantities for firms with large investments and volume of business, for all issues, not merely thematics. They insisted that all dealers' quotas for all issues, thematic or otherwise, remain constant in proportion to the size of the issue, in order to stop what they claim is speculation by the "satchel" dealers and fly-by-night birds.

They charged bitterly that a filling-station operator had managed to get himself on the "dealer" list for an equal quantity of this desirable thematic issue only.

The executive committee wants reasonably large quotas for a dozen dealers, including the "big three" and some relatively minor retailers on an equal basis, and decreasing quantities for the really small dealers—but the "big three" decline to tie themselves to such an arrangement.

During the early days of the struggle, the few souvenir sheets which had been "accepted" by a handful of dealers and collectors were offered around at $1.35, then $1, each (38c face), but failed to attract quantity purchasers. The big dealers then circularized their overseas clients warning them not to accept Lebanon UN sets or sheets at speculative prices for the moment.

They stated that as soon as "corrective action" could be taken by the Investigations Committee or higher authority, they were confident of being able to supply everything in quantities at not more than 10 per cent over face, and that there was no reason to speculate in Lebanese stamps anymore, as the issue was large and quantities would be available.

On their part, the refused to buy up sheets at speculative prices, and the item fell steadily to 58c—a very reasonable percentage over face, at the end of the first week. The association attributed this to possession of quantities by 45 dealers instead of a handful, on the other hand.

The big three accepted their "1000 plus 600" each, and sat back to wait. Within a week they were visited by a handful of the smaller dealers complaining that the 1000 and 600 quota was too large for them to handle.

This group offered to purchase its quotas with the big dealers' capital and to turn the stamps over virtually at face to the big operators to permit them to fill their overseas standing orders at normal prices.

With this beginning of cooperation within dealer circles the bubble was pricked and Lebanon's UN issue went on the market at normal prices, to the immense relief of all concerned.

Each side claimed victory for its principles, but it seems that an eventual cooperative system on a mutually satisfactory basis is in the offing, due to the government's refusal to deal with the situation except through the officially-recognized association.

It is in this "trial and error" process that Lebanese philately, both private and official, is attempting to reach a "modus vivendi" within itself and with philately in general, and to end once and for all the shameful speculation in Lebanese thematics which has given the country such a bad name in the past.

"When we are allocated the funds," said Director-General Chidiac, "we hope to have a regular Philatelic Service, with stamp window, and other facilities, and this will further tend to normalize the situation."

For the time being, everything is again quiet on the Lebanese philatelic front, and it is hoped that the situation will continue to improve gradually in the interests of philately in general.

THREE TEAK CADDIES

Tommys, and their kind, this was not surprising to Mother nor did it present another chore because Father's old house would take care of the details. They, and we, were quite amused at Tommy's concern over the shipment of three exquisite, small Ceylonese teak tea caddies, each in its jacket of sailcloth.

We were, however, somewhat taken aback with the discovery that our protege, unsuspected by all of us, had acquired a considerable capacity of reading and writing English. In this he was gently insistent that his caddies be consigned, insured for a hundred Pounds each, to the company's bonded warehouse, in London.

We may pass over, without loss, our uneventful trip back to England with no other comment than Tommy's torturous endeavor to accommodate his splay, calloused feet in shoes!

At Plymouth, we were met by one of my cousins who soon had us tucked into the family home I had never seen before. Tommy and his chattels went on to Southampton with no misgivings apparent about his welcome in London Town and as he had none, we dismissed them as just another of the inscrutables of his kind.

A fortnight later, on a sunny afternoon, our protege arrived in all his sartorial splendor even though it approached period pieces, almost Victorian yet, undoubtedly, a bargain relished by some vendor who had almost given up hoping for other than a theatrically inclined customer.

After the usual beating about the bush, Tommy told us of his "digs" in a Soho alley, amongst kinsmen of sorts. But his eagerness flared when he introduced the subject of his tea caddies—about which we were bursting with curiosity.

When he went, soon after arrival, to the company warehouse to recover his goods it was required of him that he open them for inspection. There was a flurry with the tide-waiters who called for their chief. The caddies were packed full of used stamps and the customs men were at a loss as to their entry.

Now, the chief inspector was an old hand at his business. He insisted on a complete overhaul of the lot to be sure there were no contraband goods, chiding his subordinates in their ignorance the parcels, if as they appeared, were not dutiable.

Also, in a manner of speaking, he realized the deeper he went, that Tommy, despite his apparent role as an Afro-Indian transient, was canny and really had goods of considerable worth.

Together with the management, they verified Tommy's opinion of value. In fact, they had a difficult time trying to hide their amazement and, Tommy quite willing to listen, decided to let his goods lay until they could be properly disposed of.

On their inviting Tommy to utilize their services in contacting an experienced agent, Tommy thanked them, repacked and resealed his cadies and left, after telling them he would seek Mother and counsel with her.

And so it was his visit came about.

Tommy told us two things were uppermost in his mind: disposition of his hoard, and going back to Karachi where he would find kin. To assure us, he recited a long list of them he had memorized, years ago, from his father.

Mother explained to him it might not be well for him to sell the lot outright which might bring a sum attractive to the tax-gatherers. Rather, she suggested he arrange, if he could, for the disposition of the stamps on the basis of periodical payments—sort of a "remittance man" status.

With this, of course, Tommy was familiar and likewise delighted.

Fortunately, Mother had a bright young nephew just entering trade in Westminster. Charles had been well schooled and was a couple of years in a shipping office where he may not have had much opportunity for advancement.

He had been out in France, during the First World War, contracted the "flu" followed by pneumonia, and invalided home with a tricky heart and mild respiratory condition.

He had, we found later, a pert little wife, Angeline. It was arranged for Tommy to stay with us until Charles could week-end in Devon.

The meeting brought about a tentative business arrangement in which Charles would enlist someone familiar with stamps to meet Tommy at the warehouse to advise whether the goods were of value.

If they were, Tommy was to install an agent, toddle off to Karachi, and Charles would dispose of the stamps slowly, to assure both a reasonable income and not glut the market. The latter provision was initiated by Tommy. He, as you Americans say, "knew his way about".

Back in London, Charles looked in on the largest philatelic association, rather than a stamp shop. He explained, deferentially, being most ignorant of the subject, and readily had recommended to him a collector, a Mr. George Clark, retired from long years in the Navy. He came down to talk with Charles who, again, was quite frank in laying forth his position in the matter.

As an appointment with Tommy was not hard to arrange, Mr. Clark took nearly a whole day to briefly sample the caddies' contents. Charles' enthusiasm mounted with the inspection. Of course, since the idea's impact, Charles had been cramming as he had never crammed before, on stamps and their business aspects.

A conference next day was soon put into form. Mother was Tommy's choice as his agent but she deferred in favor of me, only advising simplicity and finality in form.

This appealed to Tommy who frankly stated not only his confidence in us but also a plain agreement which, if otherwise, he well knew, could become quite murky. Our old company attorneys took over the documentation, duly signed by Tommy.

Our verbal arrangements with him, based on understandable fairness to both parties, is immaterial here, but it included a paragraph stating that after a lapse of six months from date, a percentage of sales would be forwarded to Tommy's account at a Karachi bank.

With all this completed, and another formal visit to Mother and me, Tommy sailed to whatever awaited him in Karachi.

Through correspondence and Mr. Clark's advice, there was no need for Charles to stay on in London. Charles and his wife, and the caddies were soon installed in a comfortable cottage, a mile or so from town and a week later, Mr Clark came down to a room at the inn.

You may well understand his enthusiasm—having peeped at the lot, not only was he excited but he had brought down with him materials needed, with which we, of course, were ignorant, but quickly learned; watermark and perforation paraphernalia, glassines, tongs, magnifiers, stockbooks, and whatnot!

There was an extension table in Charles' cottage and it was soon stretched out to its utmost. Mr. Clark advised working one caddie at a time. We delegated Angeline to the selection and, when it was made, we again undid the wire wrappings. It was the first time I had a look at the contents—no wonder the caddies were so heavy!

With Mr. Clark as master of ceremonies several handsful were transferred to the table where we had our first lesson in segregating the stamps by countries.

Before long, we had the table covered with little or growing piles, each from a different origin. Now and then, Mr. Clark would pick up an item—and his hesitancy was suggestive.

I have forgotten how long it took us just to separate that first lot, place them in cartons, boot boxes, envelopes, or into the fireplace for the spoiled, of which there were not too many.

Those of obviously small value, Mr. Clark explained to us why, and tossed into another box for our first offering, which he said, should bring us at least our first few remittances to Tommy.

When we came to the last of this caddy's contents, he told us it was a quite valuable lot; how valuable, he explained, one could not say. His recommendation as to its disposal was auction for the "classics" and submission of selections of the unusual material to leading philatelists. He recommended our first attacking the stamps of Great Britain, there then being a demand for this class. He laid before us what, at the beginning, seemed a maze-like catalog of Victorians. This phase was the best training ever for what was to come, calling for close attention to the many, many details.

Just as soon as we could, we arranged the really sound items on approval sheets, and set up under Mr. Clark's guidance a bureau for their circulation among a favored clientele. Into each outgoing lot we tucked a flier briefly outlining potential future offerings.

The returns were immediate and very encouraging. Mr. Clark suggested I take over this department.

With three attentive students, he left us to our own devices, observing that the stamps from the first caddy would keep us occupied for some time. We did not even attempt to count them but there must have been untold thousands.

Mr. Clark had set aside, in an old biscuit tin, those he said might be more valuable. In his absence we could be guided by those about which we were not positive and, if necessary, comparison with the items he'd set aside in the tin. If we came upon any doubtful ones we should save them for his inspection.

We were, most positively, in the stamp business!

From those of Great Britain, we branched to other areas of the Empire, even scrutinizing postal markings closely and using every available guide. We were sure we would make mistakes and hoped they would favor our cutomers.

Not a year after we had started, and still working through the contents of the first caddy, we had a picture postcard from Tommy, at Karachi, reading," Karachi not good. I go for Pemba."

This caused us no immediate concern. We concluded Tommy, a stranger even to his own kin, if he found them, dreamed of his old home and friends at Zanzibar and was embarking toward there. He was then well past his prime and would, we knew, be happier there.

We were concerned as to where to send his remittances and decided to lay them aside in a special account until further. Really, beyond setting off this portion, we quite forgot about him as month passed month.

It was Mother who was most concerned. Through "Old" and "Young" Tommy, her associations reached back much further than mine. There was nothing we could do but await word from him.

To trace him would be less fruitful than seeking a needle in a hay rick. Through long years of mental adaptation to the ways of his kind, Mother and I must have appeared calloused to the others.

The months became long, measured years since the picture card came from Karachi. We made our allotted credit to his account and as we were, in a manner duty bound, continued the stamp business.

We had long since evened our account with Mr. Clark, he making his own adjustment through selecting a few stamps for his collection. Some groups he borrowed for study, returning them, sometimes with a published story about them.

We had visitors. The modest stuffers we had included in our outgoing mails, our only gesture toward advertising, brought us so many people. There were so many inquiries we required a part-time typist who soon became full time.

From all, we hid word of the unopened caddies which, of course, required constant self-denial on our part. Fortunately, from the first one, we had all we could manage for the time being.

And so it went—no word from Tommy.

His account grew and grew, we keeping an accurate record of everything, crediting him with what we hoped would become a mutually agreeable, ultimate settlement. We had to move twice, what with the growing business and with the three additions to Charles' and Angeline's family.

Ten years elapsed. We consulted our old company's attorney, he who had drawn up our agreement in the beginning. He advised someone going out to Zanzibar to search for Tommy. My inquiries, everywhere—even with the eager assistance of Tommy's old affiliates, of many hues and tongues—were regretfully fruitless.

On my return and reporting to the barrister, he advised proceeding on the assumption Tommy was dead, terminating his account upon legal declaration of presumption, which would entail turning the accumulated moneys over to the Crown.

Beyond that we could, if we desired, carry a "floating" account, available to Tommy should he reappear. Mother and I agreed that if Tommy was still alive, he would be well along in his 70's.

Mr. Clark and I married before we worked down to the third caddy which we later found must have been the lot gathered by the elder Tommy. The material dated back into the 70's, rich in items from quite all over.

Several of these my husband took up to specialists in London, who declared them otherwise quite unknown. Some of these were disposed of in private deals by ultra collectors, now keen on first learning what we came up with!

Much material went through auction sheets we were now circulating. The lesser material was channeled into the approval book circuits and packet material in large quantities.

Six months after our wedding Mr. Clark was called back to the Navy, only to be lost to us in the evacuation of Dunkirk. Of course, during the war period, our interests were diverted.

When peace finally came there was little more commercial stamping left for us. Tommy's troves were depleted and we all virtually retired. We had long since discharged our liability but we privately carry a reserve should our old benefactor appear which is extremely unlikely.

To conclude, I often marvel at what the Fates dealt us through the hands of an inscrutable "rubbish gatherer". As fiction, I doubt if anyone would believe.

Round-Up And Auction At Marion, Ind. YMCA

The quarterly round-up, swap fest and auction for the Northern Indiana stamp clubs will be held November 19 at the Marion, Ind. YMCA.

Hours will be noon to 5 p.m. and refreshments will be served. Ray Smith will be chairman of the event; he can be reached in care of the "Y".

With Christmas right around the very next corner (of the calandar), Happy Peasant Cards of 1623 Broadway, Scottsbluff, Nebr., has an interesting offer of philatelic Christmas cards that seem to be a "first" in the field. They are of several designs, some with actual U.S. stamps thereon. Collectors may query the company for details, or check its current ads.

The most recent price list of his special offerings is now available from Kenneth R. Wenger, 185 Greylock Pkwy., Belleville, N.J. Specializing in Israel particularly, he offers practically everything anyone could desire of its stamps. Other detailed listings are of Ghana and Togo, UN, Europa 1961 issues, and both printings of Surinam's astronaut sheets.

"We have again expanded our line of quality mail-order products," reported P. Rosch, Box 40, Inwood Stn., New York 36, recently. "Our latest addition is a line of imported original oil paintings." Mr. Rosch offers free copies of his new illustrated brochure, offering many old standby, and other brand-new, specialties of interest to about everyone.

GIVE WHITE ACE FOR CHRISTMAS

COLORFUL-SECTIONAL-SUPPLEMENTED ANNUALLY

There are as many reasons as there are philatelists why the WHITE ACE Album Line enjoys immense popularity.

Specifically, from the very beginning, White Ace Albums were conceived and produced with the sole purpose of giving meaning and expression to a collection. It was, by employing such plus features as color, beauty of design, balanced layout, information and flexibility of growth that these aims have been achieved.

All White Ace Albums, regardless of subject, offer pages of brilliantly illuminated tableau with borders in compatible, complimentary color. Mounting squares on each page are arranged for symmetrical layout and economy of space, thereby producing eye-appealing balance and beauty of design. Basically, a good collection of stamps properly annotated with a brief introduction to its subject becomes a valuable reference work which is both informative and educational. Supplements are issued annually to keep White Ace Albums up to date. Give the finest this Christmas . . . be sure it's White Ace . . . none better at any price.
